In a suit against a firm, correction of the description of the proper representative of the firm is neither substitution nor addition of a new party. 109 I C 785=1928 N 319. The essential difference between an alteration that comes under the head of mere misdescription and an alteration that comes under the head of substitution is that in the case of a misdescription there is the same person or legal entity throughout, merely the name of the person is to be altered, but when one person, be it a legal or other person is to be substituted for another then the alteration cannot fairly come under the head of misdescription. It is a case of substitution and S 22 applies. As of RIGHT—The term as of right is not synonymous with 'rightfully' but signifies enjoyment by a person in the assertion of a right It is enjoyment had not secretly or by stealth or tacit sufferance or by leave or favour or by permission asked from time to time on each occasion or even on many occasions of using it, but an enjoyment had openly, notoriously without particular leave at any time by a person claiming to use it without danger of being treated as

It cannot apply to persons who are in possession. 37 Bom L R 471. See also 40 P L R 319 =1938 Lah 369. The institution of a suit for possession within 12 years of dispossession is sufficient to bar the operation of S 28 although possession is actually obtained under the decree passed in the suit after that period. 46 C W N 551. Once a right to property has been extinguished under S 28 there can be no question of that right being revived or perfected by any action on the part of the person who lost that right. So where a person has allowed his right of preemption to become barred by time, anything subsequently done by him an agreement with the vendee or reference to arbitration or even a decree obtained on the basis of the award is of no avail and he cannot set up his time barred right as a bar to another seeking to pre-empt the property. 9 Luck 475=1934 O 303. a suit to recover possession of the same if lost afterwards 58 I C 380, 46 I C 569. Although a right to assessment on land may for certain purposes be regarded as immovable property, it is impossible to hold that a suit to recover assessment is a suit for possession of property within the meaning of S 28. On this section, see also 30 Bom L R 109. The expression "the right to such property" in S 28 includes the right to joint possession also. A person whose right to recover joint possession is extinguished under Art 47 cannot therefore elude the operation of Art 47 by framing his suit as one for damages of his share of the produce as the right to claim damages is not separate from the right to claim possession or joint possession 26 N L R 160=1930 N 142. in its present form was rendered necessary, not because the word 'prescribed' in Part III of the Act did not mean prescribed by any law for the time being in force but because certain Courts had held that the application of the general provisions of the Limitation Act laid down in Part III to special and local Acts did 'affect or alter the periods of limitation prescribed by those Acts and the Legislature disapproved of those decisions'. guished by lapse of time. It also does not purport to effect the period of limitation provided by an English statute nor does an English statute come within the meaning of a local or special law referred to in S. 29. 25 S. L. R. 222=1931 S. 124

Sch. I. SCOPE.—The first schedule provides periods of limitation for the institution of suits and not for putting in defences. 1 P. R. 1916=32 I. C. 485. Periods of limitation provided in this schedule are to be computed subject to the provisions contained in the body of the Act. 2 C. 336. The articles are to be so construed as to make them harmonious and consistent. 31 C. 681 (F. B.); 26 M. 760. If there be two articles which may cover the case the more particular and specific of the two ought to be regarded as one governing the case. 26 H. 490; 26 C. 564 (F. B.); 40 L. W. 760; 26 A. 412; 127 I. C. 889=1930 N. 900; 130 I. C. 157=1931 N. 47; 41 Bom. L. R. 1223=1930 H. 90. If two articles are wide enough to include the same cause of action and neither of them can be said to apply more specifically than the other, that which keeps alive rather than that which bars the right to sue should generally, apart from the other equitable considerations, be preferred. 127 I. C. 100=1930 N. 900. The nature of the cause of action rather than the form of the suit determines the applicability of the particular article. 20 N. I. R. 60=20 C. 12, 760. See also 1931 I. 703; 27 H. 901 and 99, 12, 298 on the point. The plaintiff can no longer file suit as to make a certain article favourable to him applicable, though the same suit, if framed, otherwise, would have come under a less favourable article. 1930 A. L. J. 917=1930 A. 930. The language of the third column of this, I should be so interpreted as to carry out the true intention of the legislature, that is to say, by dating the cause of action from a date when the remedy is available to the party. 24 H. 26=1933 C. 433. The law of limitation applicable to a suit is the law in force at the time of the institution of the suit, but this general rule is subject to the proviso that unless the right to the property in question has been established or the right to sue in respect of it ascertained before the later law came into force. If it is that the property has been established, or that the right to sue has been ascertained, it cannot be altered by subsequent limitation Acts in the absence of express provisions. 11 H. (1911) H. 60=1910 I. R. 191=1911 H. 190.

NOTES

Art 2 has no application to suits for recovery of statutory compensation, but is confined to suits for compensation in the sense of damages for acts which (are not legalised wrongs but) are and remain torts. A suit for statutory compensation arising out of (or rather implied in) restrictions authorised by the Mines Acquisition Act is governed not by Art 2 but by Art 120 15 P 510=1936 P 513. The expression "in pursuance of any enactment" in Art 2 must be interpreted as meaning acting bona fide in conformity with an enactment, and not merely pretending to act or acting under colour of such an enactment. Art 2 should not be applied as if it were proved against the averment of the plaintiff, and there should be an enquiry as to whether the defendant had in fact, acted in good faith or not 1935 A L J 459=1935 A 538 (FB) See also 4 L 428=1924 L 169 8 B 421 22 B 289 15 C 259, 36 A 555 3 R 268, 1931 A L J 858. The words "alleged to be in pursuance of any enactment" in Art 2 must be reasonably construed and the person who seeks to take advantage of the shorter period of limitation must show that he had reasonable grounds for justifying his action under the particular enactment which he then relied upon and not simply that he arbitrarily asserted or thought so. He must in short have assumed to act in the honest exercise of a supposed statutory power 39 P L R 915=1937 L 748. Where police officers exceeded their lawful authority and caused needless hurt when acting bona fide in exercise of what they understood to be their duty under Criminal Procedure Code Hid that Art 2 governed the case and the suit for compensation brought more than 90 days after injury was barred 1936 C 653. Where in a suit for compensation the defendant pleads bar of limitation under Art 2 there must be an inquiry as regards good faith before a decision can be come to as to whether Art 2 applies or not, and if in the inquiry the defendant fails to prove good faith he is not entitled to protection under Art 2. The case is even stronger if it becomes evident that the defendant knowingly acted contrary to the provisions of the enactment of which he seeks to take advantage and Art 2 has no application to such a case 32 S L R 106=1937 S 281. A suit for damages by a civil servant for wrongful dismissal is not governed by Art 2. It cannot be possibly said that his dismissal is "an act done in pursuance of any enactment in force". The suit is one in reality for breach of contract 159 I C 1107=1937 L 226. Suit for malicious prosecution against Municipality—Art 2 does not apply to improper manner of doing an act out of malice and carelessness 21 I C 426=16 O C 211, 39 Bom L R 881. It does not apply to suit for damages for libel against Police Inspector for libellous statements contained in his report made under S 202 Cr P Code 1937 A L J 20=1937 A 90. A suit for damages against the officer of the Coast for selling property when decretal amount was tendered falls under Art 2 44 A 219=48 I C 815. A suit for the refund of money legally collected by a Municipality but wrongfully refused to be refunded is governed by Art 120 and not by Art 2 36 A 555=12 A L J 952. See also 1939 L 583 152 I C 680=1935 L 47 (1). What amounts to continuing cause of action 92 I C 679=1927 N 85. Suit to recover damage from a Municipal Committee on the ground that it had been negligent in the repairing of a drain outside his house and had thereby caused the fall of a wall and of the roof is governed by Art 2 and Art 31 has no application 31 Punj L R 159=122 I C 111. A sale of goods by the railway company without the formality provided by S 55 of the Railways Act is wrongful and a suit for damages for such wrongful sale is one for conversion and is governed by Art 48 and not by Art 2 151 I C 995=1934 P 507. Where the canal authorities cut the bank of a canal to avoid accident to the adjoining railway and not to the canal and plaintiff's adjacent mills were damaged it was held that Art 2 was not applicable 1927 P C 72=31 C W N 838 (P C.) [Reversing 4 L 432=1924 L 192].

Arts 2 and 36—Suit for compensation for act done in pursuance of Cattle Trespass Act—Art 2 and not Art 36 applies 39 P L R 915=1937 L 748. No doubt Art 2 of the Limitation Act makes no reference whatsoever to bona fides and mala fides. But the protection of the Article cannot be claimed by a defendant where it is shown and found that the act complained of was a wilful and malicious act which the defendant could not have committed in the honest belief that he was justified in doing it under any enactment—and a suit in respect of such an act may be filed within the time limited by Art 36 1912 A L W 63. See also 1937 Sind 281.

 Art 5 does not apply to suits on promissory notes filed under O 37 C P Code 52 C 954=29 CWN 589, 98 IC 78

Art 7—Art. 7 is applicable only to domestic servants 27 L.W. 30=106 IC 229 The term 'household servant' as used in Art 7 must be read ejusdem generis with the words 'artisan or labourer' which follow it. It cannot apply to a person who is employed for the purpose of collecting rents of houses and as a male companion in his employer's journey abroad 8 Luck 119=1933 O 393 A bisardhar in Oudh is not such a servant 26 O.C. 327=10 O.L.J. 348 nor a weighman in a shop 48 A 154=90 IC 120 23 A.L.J. 1059=1926 A 172, nor a sales man in a shop 1935 R 235, nor a fencing teacher 8 M.H.C.R. 87, nor one who has to clean a temple 7 M 99 nor a village barber 1941 N.L.J. 102=1941 N 132, nor a contractor 7 M 100 10 B 196, nor a wet nurse 17 IC 658=10 A.L.J. 395 nor a cook employed in a hotel 1937 M 340=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 329 But see 28 IC 956 (Mad) nor a motor car driver 62 C.L.J. 562=1936 C 808 As to a motor driver who is provided with boarding and lodging by the employer, see 38 P.L.R. 296=1935 L 661 Art 7 does not apply to a suit by a shafna for the amount of wages due to him in respect of watching the crops attached in execution of a decree, as he is not a labourer within the meaning of that article. Such a suit is governed by Art 102 1935 A.L.J. 78=1935 A. 102 Art 7 applies to a case where a household servant, artisan or labourer is hired on wages per day, per week or per month and does not apply to the remuneration of a skilled person like a goldsmith. But by a goldsmith for recovering the price of his labour in making ornaments falls under Art 56 and not under Art 7 1 L.R. (1938) N 592=1938 N 286 It is open to a master instead of paying the salary then and there to give credit in his account books and treat him as his creditor. Then Art 7 does not apply and the ordinary rule of limitation applies 1928 M 27=27 L.W. 30 The word 'artisan' in Art 7 means a mechanic or workman who has acquired some manual skill and does not mean person undertaking higher class of work 50 IC 37=12 S.L.R. 140 So a suit by a mechanical engineer would be governed by Art 102 and not by Art 7, 50 IC 37 A village carpenter is an 'artisan' and a suit for wages by him is governed by Art 7 and not by Art 102 or Art 56 152 IC 885=1934 N 260 but not a village barber, 1941 N 132 A motor car driver is an artisan within the meaning of Art 7 5 R 477=1927 R. 279, 62 C.L.J. 562=1936 C. 808, 1936 L 661

Arts 8 and 9—If Arts 8 and 9 apply to a claim for boarding charges 91 IC 839=1926 C 530 Consumable commodities sold in a restaurant would certainly come under Art 8, but the mere fact that a proprietor of a store has a restaurant department does not make all articles of food which he may have sold in a different department lose their character of 'goods' and with it the benefit of the Art 52 of the Act. Food and drink the price of which would come under Art 8 must be meals or articles of food which are either consumed on the premises or are sent out or taken away by the customer which are intended for, or capable of, immediate consumption in the state in which they are sent out that is to say, without cooking. If from the restaurant is sent out, for instance,

Art 10 APPLICABILITY.—A suit for pre-emption in respect of a pure and simple lease is governed by Art 120 and not by Art 10. 19 A.L.J. 442=62 IC 884. See also 15 C 184. So also in regard to a subsequent transferee from original vendee. 31 PR 1913=18 IC 70 (FB), overruling 25 PR 1903 and 106 PR 1907. See also 17 PR 1915=28 IC 695. So also where physical possession is not with the vendor but with the plaintiff who had executed a sale to the former with a covenant to pre-empt. 40 M.L.J. 443=62 IC 27. So also in the case of tenant becoming owner under a foreclosure decree. 1927 O 212=102 IC 22 (2). Where the document was executed as a deed of gift but it appeared that the parties really effected a sale and the person who sued for pre-emption was shown to have been aware of the passing of consideration, h.d. that he should sue within the time prescribed by Art 10 and that S 18 did not save limitation. 128 IC 257=5 Luck 492 (PC). See also 1928 N 89 (1). But if the fraud was not known to the plaintiff, limitation will commence under S 18, only from the time when that fraud first became known to him. 36 P.L.R. 114=1934 L 878, 1937 L 97. See also 44 P.L.R. 99.

STARTING POINT.—PHYSICAL POSSESSION.—Limitation against the pre-emptor begins from the date of the physical possession of the purchaser and not from the date of symbolical possession. 1 Pat L.T. 578=4 P.L.J. 277, 1927 L 784. A fractional share of zamindari situated in several

Physical possession is always possible in cases of houses and shops. 89 IC 444=23 A.L.J. 885=1926 A 70. Where the property admits of physical possession to or not must be determined with reference to the date of the sale. 26 Punj L.R. 780, 1924 L 302. In cases of sale of properties situated within the jurisdiction of two registration offices, time begins to run from the date of first registration and not from the date of the entry regarding registration made in the other office sometime later. 23 A.L.J. 104=1925 A 324. Where in case of a mortgage by conditional sale maturing into a decree absolute there is delivery of possession after 5 years time runs from the date of the original transfer, i.e., the date of the mortgage and not the date of the delivery of possession. 39 A 544=40 IC 461. In a suit for possession by a purchaser of a share in land, the defendant cannot plead by way of defence his right of pre-emption which has become barred by limitation under Art. 10. The right of pre-emption, is an inchoate right and in order to be completed it must be exercised. If that right is not still enforceable, it cannot be a ground of a valid defence. 42 C.W.N. 1028. Where a purchaser under a sale deed in respect of which the cause of action for the suit for pre-emption has arisen subsequently transfers the property to another, the original cause of action for pre-emption is not thereby affected, for the subsequent transferee must take the transfer only subject to the right of pre-emption. Though such a transferee is impleaded in the suit more than a year after the date of the transfer to him, the suit filed within a year of the original sale is not barred by limitation. I.L.R. Arts 11 and 11 A. SCOPE AND APPLICATION

—See as to the scope of the articles 18 B 260, 40 M 733, 22 B 875, 40 C.W.N. 146, 19 N.L.J. 308. Articles apply to suits under C.P. Code, O. 21, R. 63 and R. 103. See 69 M.L.J. 120, 36 I.C. 211, 2 P 372, 59 I.C. 772, 11 L. 369=31 P.L.R. 752, 130 I.C. 200=1930 A.L.J. 1322, 42 C.W.N. 1051, 68 C.L.J. 261=1938 C. 577, 1941 M. 77=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 402. Claim orders in cases of attachment before judgment are not covered by Art. 11. 44 M. 902=41 M.L.J. 252 (T.B.). Suit though not barred by Art. 11 may be barred by some other provision of the Act. 50 I.C. 6 (Pun.), 23 C. 302. The objector himself must sue to set aside the order under O. 21, R. 63. 6 L.W. 281=41 I.C. 684. A suit for declaration that the property is liable to attachment and for setting aside an order allowing objection is governed by Art. 11. 18 I.C. 519, 50 I.C. 6 (Pun.), 1930 A.L.J. 1322, 138 I.C. 412=1932 L. 516, 1935 N. 171. Art. 11 is not applicable to suits by strangers to the proceedings in which order is passed. 57 I.C. 52, 53 I.C. 260, 36 I.C. 3. See also 1940 L. 497, 198 I.C. 412=1932 L. 516 (Article not applicable to suit by creditors other than the decree holder, who had not attached the property). Order for symbolical delivery need not be set aside within one year by strangers in actual possession of the land. 24 I.C. 771=1 L.W. 31 (see on appeal 30 M.L.J. 404=31 I.C. 615). Symbolical possession in prior suit—Khas possession denied by tenant—Suit for khas possession filed one year after is barred by Art. 11-A. 106 I.C.

371=1927 C. 916. The words 'a person against whom' in Art. 11-A include a decree holder. 13 C. 521, 19 A.L.J. 53. Where therefore a decree-holder brings a suit for declaration of his title against a third person in whose favour an order under O. 21, R. 63, 69 or 101, has been made, his suit is governed by Art. 11-A. 44 A. 607=20 A.L.J. 578, 66 C.L.J. 537=1 L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 695=1938 C. 384, 31 Bom. L.R. 765, 1929 A. 610. See also 130 I.C. 200=1930 A.L.J. 1322 (a similar suit under O. 21, r. 63 governed by Art. 11). 32 L.W. 351=(1910) 2 M.L.J. 402, 40 C.W.N. 146. So also suit by auction-purchaser to establish his right to possession, after dismissal of his application to be placed in actual possession under O. 21, r. 99. 24 C.W.N. 1001=58 I.C. 21 (P.C.), 1930 M.W.N. 1051, See also 60 I.C. 905=16 A.L.J. 53. But where such application was dismissed on the ground that the sons of the judgment-debtor were in possession in their own right, the suit is not governed by Art. 11-A. 40 A. 693=22 A.L.J. 626. Article applicable to claim to property attached before judgement. See 41 M.L.J. 252=70 I.C. 439 (F.B.), 79 I.C. 917=1925 M. 49, 1929 N. 128. But see 152 I.C. 297=1934 P. 580. House attached in execution—Mortgage proclaimed to be a burden on mortgagee's objection—Suit by decree-holder to declare mortgage null and void comes within Art. 11, 100 I.C. 763, 1927 A. 420. The articles apply to adverse orders against minors only where they are properly represented. 26 B. 730, 40 A. 325, 43 I.C. 395 at 396 (Nag). See also 32 B. 404=30 Bom. L.R. 550, 27 C. 242; 80 I.C. 992 (Mad.). Where there is no application, the articles do not apply. 132 I.C. 844=1931 L. 686. Where a claim under O. 21, R. 58 is rejected by the Court, which declines jurisdiction on the ground that the claimant has no locus standi, the order of the Court is one under the C.P. Code within the meaning of Art. 11, and a suit based on such rejection would be barred after one year. But when the matter is one to which O. 21, r. 58, does not apply, it is not within the mischief of Art. 11, although the applicant by mistake purports to apply under O. 21, R. 58. 150 I.C. 40. Applicability of article to suit under s. 73 C.P. Code. 1937 M.W.N. 480.

WHETHER INVESTIGATION IS NECESSARY TO MAKE THE ARTICLES APPLICABLE.—The article is more comprehensive than that of the preceding articles and applies to orders passed without investigation. 45 C. 378=29 C.W.N. 1791, 28 I.C. 977=31 M.L.J. 2171, 41 M. 1079=45 M.L.J. 775 (1 B.), 47 B. 213, 19. 31=1923 N. 1071, 1943 N. 601, 58 I.C.

by Art. 11-A. 155 I C. 702=39 C.W.N. 164=1935 C. 267. See also I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal 683=1938 Cal 384 Where in execution of a mortgage decree the auction-purchaser obtained a decree and an order for symbolical delivery against the 1st defendant and he subsequently brought a suit against the 2nd defendant for actual possession, the previous order in execution not having been a final order cannot be considered to be passed under r 103 of O 21. There is, therefore, no obligation upon him to bring a suit for possession within one year from the date of that order and a suit brought later cannot therefore be deemed to be barred by R. 103 1930 M.W.N. 1051 Art 11-A does not apply where what is sought to be set aside is the original decree and not the order in execution proceedings. 51 B 153=101 I C. 40=1927 B 184 Terms of Art 11-A go to show that it applies only to cases where a person who has been actually dispossessed of the property and who made an application under O 21, R. 100, and whose application was dismissed, then brings a suit Where the plaintiff was actually dispossessed long after the date of the order dismissing his application under O 21, R. 100, limitation for a suit to establish his title and recover possession is that provided under Art 142 and not Art 11-A 1929 P. 553=117 I C 634 Art 11-A is co-related to and must be read with O 21 R. 103 of the Code, and the article applies only when the suit as brought is one by a decree holder or auction purchaser as such, and cannot apply if the plaintiff falls back on his original title as owner of the property in suit treating the defendant as holding permissively 114 I C. 725=1929 A 610 Art 11-A does not bar suits for recovery of possession of immovable property after proceedings under Chapter VII of the Presidency Small Causes Courts Act have failed 1929 M 69=29 J.W. 537

STARTING POINT OF LIMITATION—Time runs from the date of the order and not the date of attachment and sale of property 40 M 733=31 M.L.J. 394 Time runs only from the date of the appellate order in case of a Letters Patent appeal 39 M 1196=28 I C 367 But time taken in an unsuccessful revision petition to the High Court cannot be deducted 8 Bur L.J. 93=27 I C 829

Art 11-A—(See also under Art 11, supra) Art. 11-A does not contemplate computation of the period of limitation from the date of any order passed in revision There is a clear distinction between an appeal and an application for revision Whereas the right of appeal is a substantive right created by statute, interference by the High Court by way of revision is entirely discretionary and when the High Court rejects a petition for revision, it is not as if the order of dismissal is the only sustaining order in the case. It only amounts to the High Court abstaining from exercising its jurisdiction and allowing the order of the Subordinate Court to stand 1931 N 17=130 I C. 145

Before Art 11-A applies, there must have been an act of dispossession by the decree-holder or auction purchaser An order for delivery of possession of land in the actual possession of tenants made in favour of the decree holder purchaser under O 21, R. 96, C. P. Code, does not amount to dispossession within the meaning of that article 44 C.W.N. 251=70 C.L.J. 111=1910 C. 16 Art 11-A applies only to suits by a person who has been dispossessed of property in the delivery of possession in execution of a decree Where a person had not been dispossessed of the property when the order under O 21, R. 99 C. P. Code, was passed against him and the application which was presented by him under O 21, R. 99, C. P. Code, was held to be incompetent, the suit is not covered by the terms of Art 11-A 1910 L. 349

L.R. 288 The article would apply, if the suit involves the setting aside of an order though there is no direct prayer to that effect 23 B 337 (P.C.), 24 A 767 Art 14 applies only to orders and proceedings to which by law a particular effect is given. An order to come under Art. 14 must be an order of at least a quasi-judicial character and not a mere executive order 104 I.C. 781. See also 153 I.C. 739 = 1936 L. 692 Under Art. 14 the question is not merely one of form but of substance 35 Bom.L.R. 431 = 1928 B. 180 1939 C. 749 An order made without jurisdiction is a nullity and need not be set aside and Art. 14 has no application to an order of such kind 39 C.L.J. 454 = 83 I.C. 446 = 1924 C. 913 See also 29 B. 480, 30 M. 280 1924 N. 142 20 P.L.J. 136 = 1938 P.W. L.R. 147 The words 'act' or 'order' in Art. 14 do not mean an act or order which is a nullity. An order made by an officer of Government in his official capacity purporting to act under the law which is of a quasi-judicial character and within his power would fall under Art. 14. A suit to set aside an order of the Assistant Collector of Customs imposing penalty under S. 167 (17) of the Sea Customs Act is governed by Art. 14 42 Bom.L.R. 532 = 1940 Bom. 291. SUITS GOVERNED BY ARTICLE.—A suit under S. 12, Redemption of Mortgages Act (XI of 1913), instituted by a person aggrieved by an order passed by the Collector under Ss 6 to 10 or 11 of the Act to establish his right in respect of the mortgage is governed by Art. 14, it makes no difference that the suit is one for a mere declaration and no relief to set aside the order of the Collector has been expressly asked in the plaint (4 L. 346 = 1928 L. 648, Overr. and 1925 L. 385 Appr.) 15 L. 389 = 1934 L. 384 (F.B.) Suit to set aside order of Collector forfeiting land for failure to pay arrears of Government revenue 44 B. 451 = 57 I.C. 587, 15 B. 424. A claim for relief inconsistent with an order of enfranchisement of inam is governed by Art. 14 if the order of enfranchisement is ultra vires 122. The inam was granted or created by Government and in many cases in which it is shown that the inam was not granted or created by Government, Art. 142 of 1911 would apply 193 I.C. 331, 33 Bom.L.R. 277 = 11 L.R. (1910) Item. 414 = 132 Bom. 307. A suit by a Zamindar against the Government for a declaration that an order of enfranchisement of the Government of a service inam in his Zamindari is not valid and therefore nullity, is generally governed by Art. 14 but if the Zamindar was a consenting party to such enfranchisement preferred and did not object to the same, Art. 14 would not apply 57 M. 141 = 61 M.L.J. 409. Where, however, the Zamindar has not appeared before the Inam Commission or taken any part in the proceedings, and relies on the footing that the order is ultra vires, it is not necessary to set aside the proceedings and Art. 14 will not apply 57 M. 141 = 61 M.L.J. 409, 165 I.C. 739 = 1936 L. 692. In such a case Art. 142 applies and the cause of action arises only when he is injuriously affected by the enfranchisement, i.e., when Inamdar definitely refuses to perform the services for which the inam was originally granted 58 M. 141, 31 I.C. 267 = 1915 M.W.N. 913 (in 37 M.L.J. 71 resumption treated as a nullity which need not be set aside). Order of Collector regulating supply of water to lands is not within the Article 171 I.C. 781 = 1927 M. 1167. Order of Commissioner under S. 178 of Bombay District Municipal Act is governed by Art. 14 51 B. 105 = 28 Bom.L.R. 1463. SUITS NOT GOVERNED BY THIS ARTICLE.—Art. 14 does not apply to an order of enhanced assessment, which is a nullity or in excess of authority. In such a case it is not incumbent on the plaintiff to file a suit to have the order set aside. Consequently, a suit to recover payments made under protest filed more than one year after the order to recover such assessment was made is not barred by limitation 95 Bom.L.R. 761 = 1934 B. 434. A suit denying a right of way as affirmed by an order of a Mamlatdar under Mamlatdar's Courts Act, is a suit respecting possession of immovable property, and as between Arts 14 and 47, Art 47 applies to such suit. 33 Bom L.R. 517=1931 B 256. Where the suit was for declaration, against the Secretary of State that the order by the Collector disposing of the suit lands in favour of the second defendant was null and void, and for possession as against the grantee, held, the relief regarding possession could not be awarded in this suit, that it was really a suit for declaration and injunction and governed by Art 120, and not by Art 144 or 14. 1931 B 369=55 B 447=33 Bom L.R. 772. Certain allowance was payable by Government to defendants. In December, 1917, the Commissioner had directed payment of that allowance to the 1st defendant. A suit to recover the plaintiff's share of that allowance brought more than one year from the date of that order was held to be not barred by Art 14, as the plaintiff's claim was entirely independent of the order of Government. 33 Bom R.L. 783=1931 B 473.

Art 16—Art 16 requires for its application that the demand, if not for arrears of revenue, should be "recoverable as such arrears." Rent "settled" by the Settlement Officer under S 104 of the Bengal Tenancy Act are not arrears of revenue and unless it can be shown that by some enactment they have been made to come under that description or have been made recoverable as arrears of revenue Art 16 cannot be applied to them. The fact that the claim to such rents comes within the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act would not assist to bring that article into operation. 64 I.A. 281=1 I.R. See also 18 I.C. 699=1913 M.W. N 75 (it would be different if proceedings are taken under the Revenue Recovery Act). The article is also applicable to a suit for the recovery of penal assessment illegally levied for an alleged wrongful taking of water. 1915 M. 474. A suit to recover the amounts paid as village service cess by the plaintiff under protest is governed by Art 16. 61 M.L.J. 754=1937 M. 525.

Art 17—Where there is no determination of the amount of compensation as where the Collector refuses to award any compensation, the article has no application. 34 C. 470=22 B. 802, 27 M. 535. of its character was itself exempt from seizure. Again the person effecting seizure or the officer under whose authority the distraint is effected might have no power or jurisdiction to effect the seizure, or the distraint itself might not be in conformity with the provisions of the statute under which the Act was purported to be done. It cannot be said that seizure due to want of jurisdiction is not contemplated by Art 28. Such a seizure is an illegal distraint covered by Art 28, and there is no ground for applying Art 36, which is a very wide and general article. Art 28, being an express and specific article, must prevail over the general provisions. I L R (1939) Bom 721=41 Bom L R 1223=1940 B 20

Art 29 SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF THE ARTICLE.—39 P L R 948, 1937 Rang 523. Distinction between Arts 11 and 29. See 9 I C 773. The crux of Art 29 is in the words "wrongful seizure". If the seizure is not wrongful, there can be no cause of action. The seizure may be wrongful either because the property does not belong to the judgment debtor or the Court has no jurisdiction to attach the property. It is because the process is illegal that the seizure becomes wrongful so as to give a cause of action for the suit. The sale of the property after the wrongful seizure does not give a new cause of action. 30 I C 157=1931 N 47. See also 1940 Rang 276 (F B). Where in the execution of a decree against the judgment debtor, the decree holder wrongfully attaches property belonging to a stranger, the suit by that stranger for compensation for wrongful seizure is governed by Art 29. 1940 Rang 276 (F B). This article applies only where attachment is illegal ab initio. 22 A L J 977=81 I C 1038=1925 A 131. Where a seizure is under a writ of Court, it is not wrongful unless it is shown that the Court issuing it had no jurisdiction or the writ was executed against a person not a party to the decree. 64 I C 513=35 C L J 480. See also 28 I C 463=42 C 85 (arrest of ship). There should be wrongful seizure of movable property under legal process. See 23 M L J 519, 23 M 621. Where the plaintiff's claim is for recovery of the amount of money he has voluntarily paid to the Official Liquidator to save his property which had been wrongfully attached by the latter and for damages Art 62 and not Art 26 applied. 11 O W N 398=1934 O 158. There can be wrongful seizure only where the property is in possession of the person. No doubt, constructive possession also will do, but when there is no right to possess there cannot be wrongful seizure and Art 29 has no application. 123 I C 362 (1)=1930 M 349 (1). Attachment of debt effected by proba-

bitory order does not come within this article as there is no actual seizure. 38 M 972=26 M L J 168 (F B), and as debt is not movable property. 23 M L J 519=16 I C 914. A suit to recover money wrongly paid under an order of Court is not governed by the article. 39 A 676, 35 I C 86, 11 M 345, nor a suit to recover money rateably distributed in execution of a decree subsequently reversed. 39 A 676=35 I C 86. See also 13 M 437, 21 C 142 (P C.), 26 M L J 166. (There is no wrongful seizure in such cases). Wrongful attachment of movables by prohibitory order—Suit for compensation, see 31 M L J 257=35 I C 98. Standing crops are not movable property within Art 29. 25 M L J 417=21 I C 213, 31 I C 796 (M), 17 C W N 308=18 I C 253, 18 N L R 96=1922 N 212. Suit for value of crops wrongfully attached, cut and removed is not governed by Art 29. 105 I C 763=1928 C 106. On this point, see also 31 M 431, 23 M L J 620=17 I C 185, 32 C 459, 36 C 141. What constitutes seizure under legal process. See 11 M 345, 38 M 972, 21 C 142. Where a certain amount deposited in Court by the receiver appointed under O 40, R 1, C P Code, is attached and paid to a person a suit to recover back such amount is not governed by Art 29, as the attachment is neither seizure within the meaning of Art 29 nor wrongful. 1938 L 493. Suit to recover damages for wrongful attachment before judgment of goods falls under Art 29 and not Art 36 or 49 and the starting point of limitation is the date of the seizure of the goods. Suit filed by third party aggrieved—No difference. 1930 M 635. In a suit for damages for the unlawful attachment and seizure of certain properties, the date from which time begins to run is not the date of the attachment, but the date of the seizure, and hence it is immaterial whether the attachment is or is not a continuing wrong. 1934 R 329. A cause of action is not suspended while the plaintiff is seeking to prove in other proceedings the facts upon which his cause of action depends. In a suit for damages for wrongful attachment, the time taken in getting the seizure declared illegal either on appeal or by other means cannot be deducted. 1934 R 329. Suit for damages on account of sale of goods attached before judgment, at a low price and for injury to trade and reputation caused by such attachment is governed by Article. 38 M L J 324=55 I C 786. Arts 31 and 49—A suit against a Railway Company for compensation for non delivery of goods is governed by Art 31 and not by Art 49 and must therefore, be brought within one year of the non delivery, no matter what the circumstances are which occasion the non delivery. The company does not cease to be carriers for the purposes of the Limitation Act, because they detain the goods of the plaintiff in respect of a claim for their charges before making delivery. The company's claim arises out of the rights as carriers to claim wharfage and the plaintiff cannot plead that the company's position as carriers was at an end and that the refusal to deliver the goods was unconnected with their position as carriers when their very claim to detain the goods arose out of that position 1936 N 21 = 31 N L R (Supp) 79

Art 32 APPLICABILITY—Art 32 can properly be applied only where the person proceeded against had, before the perversion in respect of which he is being sued took place, a right to "use the property for specific purposes" Art 32 is not intended to apply to a case in respect of land in which the person proceeded against had no other right than a right in common with the general public, to pass over it 1928 L 791, 1929 L 816 Nor to one who has a mere license to use the property 1934 A 836 Nor to cases where in substance the plaintiff seeks a greater

Arts 36 and 39—Where the claim is for damages in respect of removal of clay it is not a mere claim for compensation founded on trespass so as to attract Art 39, but it is a claim in respect of a tortious act which comes within the scope of Art 36 1941 O 172

Arts 37 and 38—See 82 I C 482=1925 N 189

Art 39—Standing crops are immovable property and the attachment thereof if illegally made constitutes a trespass within this article 25 M L J 447 21 I C 913 See also cases cited under Art 29 on the point. Trespass includes the mischief committed by the trespasser after entering on the land 23 M L J 618=17 I C 605 Thus suits for compensation for injury to crops (1925) N 189 23 M L J 618=17 I C 605) or for loss caused by the cutting of gum trees by defendant (20 N L R 80=80 I C 769=1924 N 125) and suit for damages for cutting and carrying away crops [2, C 692 (F B)] would fall under the article See also 1941 O 172 (Suit for damages for removal of clay)

Art 40—Suit for damages for infringement of trade marks is governed by this article 45 P R 1919=51 I C 434 As to the applicability of the article see also 3 C 17 Under the copyright Act an infringement takes place not only when a book is re printed but also when a book in respect of which a copyright exists is old There is a fresh cause of action on the sale of every book. 1934 A 922

Art 41—Time begins to run when the waste begins though it is a continuing wrong See 25 B 644 (F B)

Art 42—As to the applicability to temporary injunction granted by the lower Court but dissolved on appeal see 16 I C 443=16 C L J 34 See also 42 C 550=26 I C 296, holding that no suit lies in respect of a permanent injunction obtained maliciously which is subsequently dissolved in appeal

Art 44 APPLICABILITY—One condition precedent for the application of Art. 44 is that the property should be property belonging to the ward 1930 O 82, and it must have actually passed out of the hands of the minor 1930 A L J 1416=1930 A 858 The Limitation Act draws a distinction between void transactions and voidable transactions and while a longer period is allowed for remedies arising out of void transactions a shorter period has been prescribed for all actions seeking to set aside voidable transactions, and it makes no difference that there is also a prayer for possession. It is also a well established principle that, whenever there is a specific article applicable to a suit, a general article like Art. 144 will be excluded 68 M L J 87=40 L W 760 Article does not apply where the transaction impeached is void ab initio which need not be set aside 9 I C 377=13 C L J 277 See also 1936 M 884=71 M L J 366 30 M 393 39 M 456, 107 I C 897 1928 N 262, 32 L W 680=1930 M W N 1067 41 Bom L R 867=1939 B 427 Sale of minor's land by minor jointly with de facto guardian—Latter not described as guardian—Recital that land belongs to both and that consideration was for purposes of both—Sale void and need not to be set aside. Therefore suits to recover property transferred under such alienation will be governed by Art 144 43 M,

Also a suit to set aside a permanent lease by the mortgagor which is held to be void as being a clog on the equity of redemption 53 B 960=1929 B 106, 1939 P 337 (suit to set aside release by guardian of sub-soil rights of minor mortgagor). So also, where the property has been alienated by the guardian as if it were his own, and the mortgagee treats it as the personal property of the guardian and has it sold as such, Art 44 cannot apply. 1935 A 417=157 I.C. 118. If a sale is held to be void owing to fraudulent registration, there will be no need to set it aside and a suit to recover possession of the properties covered by the sale deed will not be barred, though brought by the ward about eleven years after the date of the sale. On the other hand, if it is not void then such a suit has to be regarded as one for setting aside the sale-deed. As possession cannot be obtained unless the document is set aside, such a suit should be brought within three years from the date of the sale. 51 M 352=1931 M 45=60 M.L.J. 701. A sale is not void for mere inadequacy of consideration 28 I.C. 704=2 L.W. 365. Article applicable to cases of mortgage, 31 I.C. 811, 1938 M.W.N. 802 of exchange, 17 Bom L.R. 1137, and of sale of equity of redemption 44 B 742 (suit for redemption cannot be brought without first setting aside sale). The article applies to improper alienations made by testamentary guardian appointed by a Hindu father 38 B 94=15 Bom L.R. 882, 59 M 549=1936 M 346=70 M.L.J. 352. The article applies to a fraudulent sale by guardian, which is only voidable 34 I.C. 188. It applies to alienations which are unauthorised 44 B 742 (see also 1929 M 313) as well as to those which are improper (40 M.L.J. 475), and which are in excess of authority of the guardian [6 L. 447, 9 I.C. 377 (C)] 103 I.C. 365 (1). Article does not apply to alienations by unauthorised guardians which are void and need not be set aside 38 M 1125=27 M.L.J. 285, 34 A 213 (P.C.), 26 I.C. 813=10 N.L.R. 133, 83 I.C. 1040=1924 C. 1008, 87 I.C. 1018, 84 I.C. 923=1925 L 239, 1929 A 879, 1936 Lah 996, 43 Mys H.C.R. 197. Art. 44 applies to alienations by de jure guardians and not to those by de facto guardians. 1931 M 597=1931 M.W.N. 417. The natural father of an adopted minor is not a guardian de jure and a suit to set aside an alienation by him can be brought within twelve years. 1931 M 597. So also a suit to set aside an alienation by the de facto guardian of an Indian Christian minor. 60 M.L.J. 695=1931 M 529. See also 71 M.L.J. 366=1936 M 884 (Suit to declare void alienation by sister of minor when mother is alive). See also 17 Bom L.R. 495=87 I.C. 721, 99 I.C. 1050=1927 N 145. A step-mother of Hindu minor is such unauthorised guardian 51 I.C. 943=15 N.L.R. 55. is an unauthorised person 25 C.W.N. 251=62 I.C. 428, 45 C. 878 (P.C.). 47 C. 719, 34 I.C. 85=1 P.L.J. 183. But a Hindu mother is natural guardian whose alienations are covered by this article 37 M 118=25 M.L.J. 405, 30 M 503, 22 M.L.J. 404=15 I.C. 365, 44 B 742=22 Bom L.R. 650, 53 L.W. 650=1911 M.L.J. 600 (B.R.), 42 B 416=45 I.C. 22, 21 I.C. 110, 88 I.C. 270=1925 N 475, 6 L. 44=1925 L 619, 40 L.W. 760=60 M.L.J. 87. But see 35 I.C. 551=10 S.L.R. 381, revera. An alienation by a Christian mother acting as the natural guardian of her minor child is voidable and not void and a suit by the minor avoiding the transfer should be instituted within the three years prescribed by Art 44. 57 M 1062=67 M.L.J. 322. A suit to set aside alienations by the father as guardian of property collaterally inherited by minor is governed by this article 34 M.L.J. 229=42 I.C. 939. The words of the article are very general and the article is not confined to transfer by certified guardians. 1929 A. 879. A permission obtained by a certified guardian by a fraudulent misrepresentation is a nullity, but a transfer made in pursuance thereof is only voidable. Where the minor sues after attaining majority to set aside the transfer, the suit is governed by Art 44 and not Art 144. 1931 A.L.J. 997. Article contemplates "transfer of property" and is inapplicable to cases where the minor is in possession as in the cases of mortgage or sale without parting with possession. 1930 A 858=52 A 979.

ALIENATION OF JOINT FAMILY PROPERTY—

Article does not apply to suit to set aside alienation of minor's share by the managing member of a joint Hindu family. Such an undivided share is not property which can be dealt with by guardian 84 P.R. 1915=29 I.C. 199. See also 49 I.C. 118=25 C.L.J. 496, 86 I.C. 234=1925 M 793. Thus suit to set aside alienation by Hindu father during son's minority is not governed by this article 33 I.C. 441=17 Bom L.R. 1137 (Note). 32 I.C. 242=12 N.L.R. 12. (It is so even if the manager purports to act as minor's guardian). The fact that the Hindu father executed the sale deed as guardian of his son will not make the article applicable. 1918 M.W.N. 892=44 I.C. 605. See also 38 A 126, 40 C 966 (P.C.). Article not applicable to suit to set aside alienation of joint family property, by undivided uncle 35 P.L.R. 727=1934 L 601, by undivided brother, 151 I.C. 1043=36 Bom L.R. 474=1934 B 234. A sale deed by a manager of joint Hindu family for other than necessary purposes is void from its inception, and suit to set it aside is not governed by this article. 1929 O 284.

TRANSFeree—LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE—The transferee from the ward stands in the same position as the ward himself and if the latter's suit is barred, the transferee is in no better position and Art 44 applies. Art 47 APPLICABILITY—Art 47 does not apply to a case where at the time of the passing of the Magistrate's order there was no existing legal right in the plaintiff to sue for possession, and such a right accrued to him only subsequent to that date 1927 M 586=52 M L J 482 See also 111 I C 152=1929 M 38 (2), 1941 Pesh 65 Art 47 applies only to those cases in which the Magistrate has declared one of the parties to be entitled to possession until evicted therefrom in due course of law or has restored possession to a party found to have been forcibly and wrongfully dispossessed within two months of his initial order. The essential requirement, therefore, for the application of the article is the order of the Magistrate in respect of possession of the property. Where, therefore, in a boundary dispute, the Magistrate orders demarcation of the boundary in accordance with an order passed previously by a settlement officer, and the parties accept that position and compromise the proceedings under S 145, Cr P Code, which are consigned, it cannot be regarded as an order of the Magistrate respecting possession made under the Criminal Procedure Code within the meaning of the article, and it has accordingly no application 164 I C 118=1936 O 387 Order under S 145, Cr P Code—Suit for possession of

But see 1935 L 115 (2), where he was only a witness.

TACT PROPERTY—S 145 Cr P Code relates to the question of possession of immovable property and its application does not depend upon whether the claim is made by a private owner or on behalf of a trust. If there is a bona fide dispute between a trust and a third person and the other conditions of the section are satisfied, it falls within the cognisance of the Magistrate under S 145 and to an order passed by a Magistrate in such a case, Art 47 applies. There is no justification for holding that it is only the particular trustee who was a party to a proceeding under S 145 that must be held bound by that order or by the limitation prescribed in Art 47. If the trustee purported to act on behalf of the trust the proper interpretation of the order will be that the trust itself was a party and must be held bound by that order. 1936 M 188=70 M L J 441. STARTING POINT—Time runs from date of Magistrate's order and not the date of the High Court's refusal to exercise its revisional powers. 43 I C 955. There is no reason why an order passed by the High Court in the exercise of its power of revision under S 439 Cr P Code, should not be regarded as a final order within the meaning of Art 47 whether the High Court ultimately interferes in revision or not, its order is none the less a final order. Where in proceedings under S 145 Cr P Code, a Magistrate passes an order against which an application in revision is filed under S 435 Cr P Code, before the Sessions Judge, who makes a reference to the High Court under S 438, Cr P Code, with a recommendation that the Magistrate's order should be set aside, the matter remains sub judice so long as it is not finally determined by the High Court. The order passed by the High Court under S 439 Cr P Code is the final order in the case for purposes of Art 47, and limitation for a suit in the Civil Court runs from that date and not from the date of the order of the Magistrate although the High Court discharges the reference. The final order in Col 4 of Art 47 must be understood to refer to the order contemplated by Col 1 of the same article. 20 Pat 735=22 P L T 202=101 Pat 372. person having the right to possession of the property first learns in whose possession it is (1927 C. 117, reversed and 1929 P.C. 60, Rel on) 33 C.W.N. 483—1930 P.C. 113=38 M.L.J. 536 (P.C.) A sale of goods by the railway company without the formality provided by S. 55 of the Railways Act is wrongful and a suit for damages for such wrongful sale is one for conversion and is governed by Art. 48 and the starting date of limitation is the date when the plaintiff, i.e. the person who has the right to possession, first learns of the act of conversion 151 I.C. 955=1934 P. 507 See also 1936 N. 21 (Suit against railway company for non delivery of goods—Goods detained by company for non payment of wharfage)

STARTING OF LIMITATION—Limitation begins to run under Art. 48 from the time it is known to the plaintiff in whose wrongful possession it is while it runs under Art. 49 from the time when possession becomes unlawful 1914 M.W.N. 319 See also 11 B. 133, 161 I.C. 855, 1936 P. 179 Under Art. 49, the starting point of limitation is when the property is wrongfully taken or injured or when the detainer's possession becomes unlawful Detention, so as to amount to conversion affording a cause of action, must become adverse to the owner or other person entitled to possession, i.e., the defendant, must have an intention to keep the property in fraud of the plaintiff The usual method of proving that a detention is adverse is to show that the plaintiff demanded delivery of the property and that the defendant refused or neglected to comply with the demand 38 Bom.L.R. 712=1936 B. 322 See also 1937 Rang. 523 According to the plain meaning of Art. 48, time begins to run against the owner of the property lost, etc., from the time when he first discovers that it is in the possession of the defendant, and there is no question as to whether the owner of the property mentioned in the article was or was not reasonably diligent to discover in whose possession the property he is seeking to recover is There is no warrant for reading into the article words which are not there The words "whose possession" in column 3 mean the possession of some definite person who can be identified and against whom effective relief for restoration of the property in question can be obtained 38

PLEA OF LIMITATION—ONUS OF PROOF—In a suit governed by Art. 48 the onus is on the plaintiff to prove that he first learnt within three years of the suit that the property which he seeks to recover was in the possession of the defendant, i.e. that he obtained knowledge of the defendant's possession of the property within three years of the suit and that is all If he proves this, the defendant in order to succeed in his plea of limitation, has to prove that the fact that the property was in his possession became known to the plaintiff more than three years prior to suit 38 Bom.L.R. 712=1936 B. 322

Art. 49—Art. 49 contemplates a case of a cause of action arising ex delicto whether or not the wrongful taking or wrongful detention was preceded by a contract The material date is the date when detention becomes wrongful Even if possession was at its inception under a contract that would not preclude the application of Art. 49 for it comes into operation only when possession becomes wrongful In cases where the original possession of the defendant is lawful but becomes unlawful by reason of certain facts, Art. 49 is the ordinary article to apply 1 L.R. (1939) N. 498=1939 N. 177 Possession, which to start with is permissive cannot become unlawful until he asserts a title in himself or until he refuses to return possession A mere demand by the plaintiff would not be enough A suit by an owner of certain empty oil drums or their value from the defendant who had taken them on loan undertaking to return them whenever required is in time, and not barred by Art. 49 if filed within three years of the refusal by the defendant to return them, though beyond three years of the date of demand by plaintiff 55 L.W. 56=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 187

POSSESSION ORIGINALLY PERMISSIVE SUBSEQUENTLY BECOMING UNLAWFUL—Mere detention beyond period does not render possession originally permissive unlawful There should be demand and refusal to make it unlawful and time begins to run from the date of such demand and refusal under Art. 49 42 A. 45=52 I.C. 382 See also 27 I.C. 637=13 A.L.J. 81, 33 M. 56=20 M.L.J. 41 It is so even if there is assertion of ownership on the part of the defendant 2 R. 555=85 I.C. 10=1925 R. 146 See also 54 I.C. 159 Possession of title-deeds by mortgagee after satisfaction of debt secured thereby becomes

A suit for recovery of money secured by a pledge is really a suit for money lent and advanced and a suit to recover the balance due after the sale of the pledged property is none the less a suit for money lent and the period of limitation is three years under Art 57. The fact that movable property has been pledged does not change the nature of the suit 37 Bom L.R. 165. Arts 57 and 96—Where a customer of a bank draws cheques on it knowing that the funds to his credit are not sufficient to them but expecting the bank nevertheless to honour them, he impliedly applies to the bank for an overdraft or a loan. A suit for recovery of the amounts due by the customer in such a case is governed by Art 57 and must be instituted within three years from the date on which the earliest of the various sums paid to the customer or to his orders in respect of the cheques so drawn. The mere fact that some clerk or officer of the bank has been careless in honouring cheques drawn by the customer when presented for payment would not make the moneys paid under a mistake so as to mark Art 96 applicable to the suit for recovery of such sums when there is no evidence to show that the manager was or could have been under any misapprehension that the amounts were covered by security, especially when the customer had been a customer for a very considerable time and was a man in a large way of business. Art 96 would only apply to a case where money is paid to another under the influence of a mistake, that is, upon a supposition that a specific fact is true, which would entitle the other to the money but which fact is untrue and the money would not have been paid if it had been known to the payer that the fact was untrue. But where the money was not in fact paid under any such mistake Art. 96 cannot apply 197 I.C. 449=1941 P.W.N. 638

Arts 57 and 58 60—Art 58 applies to a case in which the lender draws his own cheque and gives it to the borrower. It does not govern a suit in which he transfers to the borrower a cheque which had been drawn by another person and endorsed in his favour by the payee. Such a suit comes within the ambit of Art. 57 only. 65 I.A. 131=I.L.R. (1938) A. 326=1938 P.C.

The mere handing over of a cheque by the lender to the borrower does not amount to a payment of the cheque. Nor does the period prescribed by Art 58 begin to run against the lender when the cheque received by the borrower is given by him to his own bank and the amount is credited to him by the bank 65 I.A. 132=I.L.R. Arts 59 and 60 SCOPE AND APPLICATION —In the case of a registered bond, the article which is applicable, is not Art. 59 but Art. 116 151 I.C. 426=1934 R. 227 Arts. 59 and 60 deal with transactions of two different natures, while the former applies to loans, the latter applies to deposits. That a transaction is a deposit, has to be proved, undoubtedly by the person alleging it to be so. The test to determine whether a particular transaction is one of loan or one of deposit is to ascertain whether the money paid or deposited was in the nature of an advance of loan so as to create the relationship of creditor and debtor between the parties or was merely a deposit without bringing into existence such relationship 184 I.C. 559=1939 All. 378 Where money is deposited by a customer with a banker, the death of the banker does not change the character of the sum. It cannot be said that the liability of the heirs of the banker is in any way different from that which existed between the original banker and the depositor. The money does not become a loan in the hands of the banker's heirs, so as to make Art. 59 applicable. Art. 60 would still apply both to the principal and the interest. The ordinary rule is that the cause of action for recovery of principal and of interest accruing due on it is a single cause of action and when the claim is a single claim for principal and interest, there can not be two periods of limitation applicable 183 I.C. 339=1940 P. 129 The word "deposit" used in Art. 60 covers all payments of the customer's moneys made to the banker which make up the credit balance in favour of a customer in the banker's hands. 29 Bom L.R. 423=1927 B. 362, 17 L. 481=165 I.C. 699=1936 L. 718, 15 P. 709=165 I.C. 593=1936 P. 559. 91=1931 L. 179 The suit itself may be taken to constitute a demand for the purpose of this Art. 60 15 L. 242 The demand contemplated in Art. 60 must be a legal demand. It must be made by a person capable of giving a valid discharge in the event of payment being made. If the deposit is payable to more persons than one it equally follows that the demand must be made by them all or at least by one of them duly authorized by the others and in a position to give a legal discharge on behalf of himself and the others. In the same way the demand referred to in Art. 60 must be a demand made directly on the party with whom the deposit lies in his capacity as depositor. The demand must be an unqualified demand for the whole sum due. A claim to deposit not addressed to depositors but put forward in a written statement in a suit in which both the claimant and the depositor were co-defendants is not a demand of the nature contemplated in Art. 60 I.L.R. The necessity for a demand may, however, be got rid of by special contract or waiver. A repudiation by the banker of the customer's right to be paid any particular sum would be a waiver of any demand in respect of such sum. in respect of improvement made to joint property—Art. 120 applies) The distinction between a loan and a deposit is that, in the case of a loan it is ordinarily the duty of the debtor to seek out the creditor and to repay the money according to the agreement. In the case of a deposit it is the duty of the depositor to go for the money to the banker or the deposittee and to make a demand for it. Where a certain sum is deposited with stipulations that money will not be withdrawn for three years and after that period, depositors to withdraw it jointly, and in the meantime interest to be paid periodically, such a transaction is not a loan, but amounts to a deposit with the person deposited, on the stipulation that it shall carry interest at a specified rate and shall be payable to the depositors on demand and with a further stipulation that such a demand shall not be made within three years. To such a transaction, Art. 60 applies (1936 L. 587, Affirm) 39 P.L.R. 377—1937 L. 81 In order to determine whether a bailment of a certain sum of money is a deposit for safe custody or a loan, the test to be applied is whether the bailee is to keep the moneys till the bailor asks for it or whether there is an obligation on his part to seek out the bailor and repay him. Where the appellant who received moneys from the respondent put them in his Bank account and credited them to the respondent and whenever the appellant paid any of these moneys to the respondent it was because the respondent had asked for them, and further there was no security, no receipt in writing, no promissory note and no agreement as to rate of interest. Held, that the moneys were simply held by the appellant for safe custody and that he was really acting as a Banker for the respondent and that, therefore, a suit by the respondent for the recovery of the moneys was governed by Art. 60 189 I.C. 444=42 Bom.L.R. 971—44 C.W.N. 1941=1940 P.C. 132 (P.C.) The character of a deposit with a banker is not altered by the fact that the person in whose name the money is deposited agrees in writing with another person that a part of it should belong to that other from the date of the agreement. The money still remains as a deposit, and suit to recover it by the respective parties is governed by Art. 60. The right to sue does not accrue until there is a demand and refusal Art. 115 cannot apply to such a case, as the claim can in no sense be one for compensation for breach of a contract. 47 L.W. 118=1938 M. 236=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 56

Art. 89 or 120 will apply to the case 7 Cut. L T 87

Arts 62, 97 and 120—Where a suit is for profits of property entrusted to the defendant by the plaintiffs for safe custody and management neither Art. 62 nor 109 apply to the case. It is Art 120 that applies. Art. 62 cannot apply to a case in which profits and not money is sought to be recovered. It only applies when the defendant has received money as distinct from profits into his hands. Nor could Art 109 apply because the receipt of profits was not wrongful. The defendant was in rightful possession and received the profits rightfully but it is his retention that was wrongful 1941 N L J 184=1941 N 181 Where before a decree for specific performance could be passed in respect of an agreement to assign a particular decree the defendant withdraws the money deposited in respect of the said decree and the plaintiff files a suit to recover it, it is a suit to enforce an equitable claim to follow the money withdrawn by the defendant contrary to agreement and as such it does not fall under Art 62 but comes under Art 120 of the Act, the starting point being the date of the conveyance to him of the decree 1941 N L J 665 Art 62 applies to cases in which there is a failure of consideration from the very beginning, or, in other words, where the transaction is void ab initio and the defendant is deemed to have received the money for the plaintiff's use. On the other hand, Art. 97 applies to cases where the consideration fails afterwards by reason of some subsequent event, as in the case of voidable transactions. Where, therefore an auction purchaser, who under a decree obtained by a third party loses a part of the property purchased by him, brings a suit against the decree-holder for refund of the purchase-money, the suit is governed by Art. 62 or 97 and not by Art 120 166 I C 705=1937 O 286=1937 O W N 83 Consideration in a contract of sale is not money paid for the use of the payer, so as to attract the operation of Art 62 of the Limitation Act, except perhaps when the contract is of such a nature that it is void in law ab initio. A test for the applicability of Art 62 is whether when the money was paid it was recoverable immediately by the plaintiff Art 97 and not Art 62 would govern a suit for recovery of part purchase price paid on sale which afterwards goes off by reason of the failure of the buyer to complete payment. There must be items on both sides of accounts I.L.R. (1940) N 441 = 1938 N 180, 191 C 595. Where the account upon which the suit is based includes a certain sum, which was brought forward from the previous year's account, it is clearly for the defendant to prove that the dues brought forward from the previous year's account were time barred, and in any case the mere fact that some of the items are statute barred can be of no avail to him where the suit has been brought on account stated [56 A 376 (P.C.), Rel. on] 167 IC 652 = 1937 P 348. Where the book of account contained entries of account of only one of the parties and there was nothing to show that there was an account stated between the parties, Art 64 had no application. 1930 A 467, 54 A 506. See also 1929 L 263 (balance struck and signed and accepted was novation of contract). Mere striking of the balance due on a certain date in the unsigned account books will not furnish a cause of action on account stated under Art 64. 38 IC 227 = 32 M.L.J. 536. See also 10 M 199, 5 P.L.J. 34 = 1 P.L.T. 190, I.L.R. (1938) A 741 = 1938 A.L.J. 773 = 1938 A 504, 27 S.L.R. 300 = 1933 S 324. The expression "account stated" has a technical meaning. Where the accounts were gone into, a balance was struck and the defendant signed the same but there was nothing before the Court to show that the several items for which credit had been given to the defendant were due to him from the plaintiff. Held, that it was not a case of account stated and that Art 64 was inapplicable. There can be account stated, although the balance of indebtedness is throughout in favour of one side. It is irrelevant whether the debt in favour of the final creditor is created at the outset by one large payment or consists of several sums of principal and several sums of interest. Nor is it material whether the only payments made on the other side were simply payments in reduction of such indebtedness or were payments made in respect of other dealings. In any event items must be ascertained and agreed on each side before the balance can be struck and settled. (English case-law discussed). (54 A 506, Reversed). 61 L.A. 273 = 56 A 376 = 67 M.L.J. 110 (P.C.). The essence of an account stated is not the character of the items on one side or the other, but the fact that there are cross items of account and that the parties mutually agree the several amounts of each and, by treating the items so agreed on the one side as discharging the items on the other side, pro tanto go on to agree that the balance only is payable. Such a transaction is in truth bilateral, and creates a new debt and a new cause of action. There are mutual promises, the one side agreeing to accept the amount of the balance of the debts as true and to pay it, the other side agreeing the entire debt as at a certain figure and then agreeing that it has been discharged to such and such an extent, so that there will be complete satisfaction on payment of the agreed balance. Hence, there is mutual consideration to support the promises on either side and to constitute the new cause of action. The account stated is accordingly binding, save that it may be set open on any ground—for instance, fraud or mistake—which would justify setting aside any other agreement. 67 M.L.J. 110 (P.C.), 1938 C 861, 189 IC 802. (Some items time barred, effect of). The acknowledgment which forms the basis of an account stated must be an acknowledgment within time. An account stated may contain some time barred items and yet the account stated may form the basis of a suit. But if the whole account is time barred, then the ban imposed by S 25 (3) of the Contract Act would apply. 1942 N.L.J. 248, 131 IC 867 = 1931 A 375. Where the account is not open and current at the time of the suit and the account closed and balance struck, Art 64 is applicable. 1922 L 182. See also 130 IC 570. Where the transaction between the parties were conducted as between a debtor and creditor, and on a certain date the balance was struck and it was agreed that the debtor should pay interest from that date on the amount found due by him and the creditor sued to enforce his rights. Held, that the suit was on an account stated and that it was governed by Art 64 or perhaps Art 57 and not by Art 85. Held further, that the mere fact that subsequent to the date of the striking of the balance, there were four items on each side of the account did not have the effect of converting it into a mutual, open and current account. 32 P.L.R. 65 = 1931 L 233. Suit on balance of account treated as one on account stated. See 3 L 326 = 1922 L 425. As to suit for money on accounts, based on decree, see 22 L.W. 195 = 1925 M 1260. For the article to apply, there need not be reciprocity of demands. 1923 C 578, 1923 L 645 = 37 P.L.R. 126. But see contra 54 A 506 = 1932 A.L.J. 279 = 1932 A 461. An entry of balance not containing a promise to pay cannot be relied upon to recover a time-barred debt. 25 IC 89 = 9 C.L.J. 263. An "account stated" does not extinguish the original debts on which the account is based. 63 IC 280. See also 189 IC 802. (Account stated and acknowledgment—Distinction between). See also 14 Luck. 478 = 1939 O 120. Where in a suit brought by a commission agent for commission, the accounts were stated and balance was struck, the proper article applicable to the suit is Art. 64.

100 I C 874 See also 140 I C 187 (L), 33 Bom LR 1200, 162 I C 178 1936 P 444 (Suit against surety). Plaintiff had been employed under the defendant from 1913 to 1928. In the books of the defendant's business, there were accounts of drawings by plaintiff from time to time, there was no account on the other side as the plaintiff's salary was never fixed. In 1928 an account was drawn up by the defendant's manager, showing credits for salary and debits for drawings and ending in a balance in favour of the plaintiff. Held that it was an account stated and involved a promise to pay the balance for good consideration. 38 CWN 813=1934 PC 144=67 MLJ 103 (PC). An account stated may only take the form of a mere acknowledgment of a debt and though if those circumstances amount to a promise, and the existence of a debt may be inferred, that can be rebutted by showing that there is no real debt at all. On the other hand there is another form of account stated a real account stated which contains entries on both sides and in which the parties have agreed that the items on one side should be set against those on the other, and the balance only should be paid, the items on the smaller side are set off and deemed to be paid by those on the larger side and there is a promise for good consideration to pay the balance. It is not necessary, to make out a real account stated that there should be debts in present, or that they should be legal debts. 67 MLJ 103 (PC). See also 1936 C 470=64 CLJ 75, 1937 C 535. Suit on alleged settlement of account—Heading of account and entries in handwriting of defendant not a statement of account 'signed' by the defendant sufficient for purposes of Art 63. 1940 M 887=(1940) 2 MLJ 334.

Arts 64 and 85 PRINCIPAL AND AGENT—ACCOUNTS—NATURE—MUTUAL, OPEN AND CURRENT ACCOUNTS—ACCOUNT STATED—SUIT ON—Cases of transactions between a creditor and his debtor must be distinguished from those of a principal and agent. Where the whole basis of the relation between the parties is that of principal and agent, the accounts between them are mutual, running and current accounts. The essentials of a mutual, open and current account are the reciprocity of dealing and the right to mutual demand. Where these are the relations between the parties an account, to be a settled account need not be signed provided that it is submitted to the party sought to be made liable on it and he has by words or by conduct, acquiesced in its correctness. Until an account is stated between the parties, the right of either of them is to bring a suit for account and to have accounts taken. 1940 PWN 28=21 PLT 41=1940 P 71.

Art 65 SCOPES—See 31 I C 479=9 SLR 90. Art 63 does not apply unless there is an agreement between the parties to pay the loss immediately on its being ascertained and in the absence of any specified time or specified contingency. So, a suit by a commission agent to recover loss on the transactions entertained on behalf of his constituents is governed by Art 83 and not by Art 65. 33 Bom LR 1200. Suit for recovery of a debt in kind payable in kind or for cash value is governed by this article. 4 LLJ 64=1922 L 122 (2), 1922 L 271, 49 I C 231=41 PR. 1918. Art 65 SCOPES—See 4 A 3, 31 I C 479 (Smd). As to applicability, see 37 M 175. A bond merely for the payment of a certain sum of money, without any condition in it is called a simple or single bond. 1923 O 19=26 O C 121. See also 22 I C 60 (Mad). Art 66 is not barred in its application to a suit for the enforcement of a bond against the executant himself. A suit on a bond executed by a Hindu after his death to enforce the same against his sons is governed by Art 66. The article makes no reference to the persons against whom the suit is brought. 1937 A LJ 403=168 I C 359=1937 A 559. Where money is deposited with a person for certain expenses and the balance is repayable with interest at a fixed date, the case is governed by Art 66 and not by Art 115. 37 M 175=24 I C 852, 164 I C 459=1936 R 338. As to suit for recovery of money deposited with another and repayable on the happening of a future event see also 22 I C 60=1914 MWN 264. Article is inapplicable where repayment is to be made within a period, but the amount might be repaid earlier. 3 A 276. Where a simple bond sets out firstly that the money is payable on demand and further on it sets out that the whole sum with interest should be paid within one year, it is not open to the debtor to make a payment before the end of the period of one year fixed, as the bond is not payable within that period unless the creditor makes a demand. Art 66 applies to a suit on a such bond and the period of limitation runs not from the date of execution but from the repayment of the principal with interest after a specified period and further provides that interest is payable annually and in default, the creditor was entitled to sue for the entire amount due without waiting for the expiry of the period specified in the bond, the bond is a single bond notwithstanding the default clause The period of limitation for instituting a suit on such a bond, runs from the date specified for payment as prescribed by Art 66 Time does not run from the date of the first default in payment of interest, nor does the whole amount of the bond become payable on that date so as there and then to induce the application of Art 80 It is doubtful if Art 68 would apply to such a case Though the bond contains a condition, it is not one which relates to the whole sum due on the bond Art 68 applies rather to bonds of the nature of security bonds The bond in question could not be called instalment bonds and it is only in the case of an instalment bond to which Art 75 applies that time begins to run from the date when the default is made 16 Luck 464=1941 O 210 (FB)

Arts 74 and 75—There is a well-defined distinction between Arts 74 and 75. The former applies to an instalment bond which does not contain any default clause, and in such a case, therefore, the plaintiff is entitled by the very terms of the bond to sue only for such instalment as remains unpaid. No question of waiver or default can ever arise in such a case. But where the document provides that in the case of default the obligee has the right to sue for the whole of the sum then remaining due, Art 75 applies 18 P 459 = 1939 P W N 367 = 20 P L T 443 = 1939 P 433 (F B), 1937 L 1. When a debt is payable by instalments and there is no default provision a new cause of action arises upon each default and the plaintiff can recover in respect of instalments falling due within three years before suit, vide Art 74 Limitation Act. But if there is a default provision Art 74 cannot be relied upon and under Art 75 if the plaintiff sues more than three years from the first default and there is no waiver, the suit is totally time barred, that is he cannot recover even those instalments which fell due within three years of suit. But the chief Court of Oudh is in favour of interpreting any facts which can possibly be so interpreted as favouring the view that the creditor has waived the exercise of the option on the first instalment when he bases his suit on subsequent defaults which are within limitation and does not seek to found his cause of action on the earlier defaults. The principle which holds good in regard to the first exercise of the option under the default clause holds equally good in respect of a claim founded on subsequent defaults. 194 IC 744 = 1941 O 485. An instalment bond gave the creditor the option to demand payments of three instalments, if default was made together with interest thereon from time to time, and also gave the creditor an option to bring a suit for the whole amount due under the bond, if the creditor chose to exercise his right in the whole amount. Held, that in view of the wording of the bond, Art 74 and not Art 75, applied, and hence it was open to the creditor to sue at any time for all those instalments which had become payable, within three years of the institution of the suit (38 P L R 357, Rev) 39 P L R 110 = 1937 L 1

Art 75—As to applicability, see 6 L 168 = 89 IC 294, 11 O L J 513 = 79 IC 848, 75 IC 98 = 1924 P 439, 31 IC 479 = 9 S L R. 90, 58 IC 615, 130 IC 571 = 52 C L J 591 = 1931 C 157. See also 1933 L 548 = 142 IC 851 = 34 P L R 145, 1934 A L J 1056 = 1934 A 1039 = 4 A W R 966, 1941 O W N 361 = 1941 O 210 (F B). It is immaterial whether whole amount becomes payable from a single default or from more than one default 3 L L J 522, 38 IC 302 (M). Where the instalment bond provides that, in case of default, the whole shall be payable on demand Art 74 governs the case 1923 M W N 699 = 1924 M 310. Where an instalment bond provided that, if default be made in payment of one or more instalments, the whole shall be due and the creditor elected to enforce the default clause Held that the suit was governed by Art 75, and that the creditor could not by merely saying that he chose to give up a part of the claim fall back on Art 74 1934 A L J 1035 = 1934 A 661 (F B). Where there is a covenant in a bond, entitling the creditor to sue for the amount due on the bond before the expiry of the stipulated period of four years, it is for the benefit of the creditor, and it is open to him to waive that option, and to wait for the full period of four years before putting the bond into suit, and that the time for recovery of the debt did not begin to run from the date of the first default 55 A 283 = 1932 A L J 550 = 1933 A 235. See also 1937 L 863. Where the plaintiffs waive the benefit of the provision as to the recovery of the whole amount, they will not be able to sue in future for the whole amount at once, but they are entitled to sue for instalments as they fall due under Art 75 the cause of action accruing on each default. 1929 A 812, 187 IC 221.

WAIVER, EFFECT OF.—In absence of waiver, time runs from date of default for a suit for recovery of over due instalments 15 IC 856, 11 IC 526 = 14 O C 129, 1925 N 298, 164 IC 431 = 1936 O 384, 167 IC 293 = 1937 O W N 336, 1937 L 863. See also 1930 L 124. If the plaintiff does not receive the offered payment, there is no default and consequently no waiver. 38 M 374=25 M L J 264.

WHAT CONSTITUTES WAIVER.—'Waives the benefit', meaning of 1934 A 1039=1934 A L J 1056=153 IC 205. Where the obligee under an instalment bond is given the right to sue for the whole amount on the occurrence of default in payment of any instalment, it is open to him to waive the benefit of that provision on the occurrence of default in payment of an instalment, and yet to avail himself of that provision when a similar default takes place in the payment of subsequent instalment. What amounts to waiver must depend upon the circumstances of each case. It cannot be laid down as a general rule that, wherever a person omits to claim a particular amount, it must be held to constitute a waiver. It is not necessary for a creditor to adduce affirmative evidence in support of waiver. In fact generally it is to be inferred from all the surrounding circumstances. 164 IC 431=1936 O W N 665=1936 O 384. See also 151 IC 852=11 O W N 1191=1934 O 455, 1941 O 74=16 Luck 280. Waiver must be something more than negligence. 1938 A M L J 50. It must be considered first whether the plaintiff had an option to waive his right to bring a suit at once on the happening of the default and whether as a matter of fact he did exercise the right of waiver. 1922 A 113, 99 IC 871=1927 S 158. Waiver must depend on some definite act or forbearance. 1929 C 292. Where whole amount and not merely the amount due on unpaid instalments, is claimed there is no waiver. 1929 C 292, 35 A 456=20 IC 933=11 A L J 664, 149 IC 972 (1)=1931 L 283 (1). Consent not to sue if waiver. See 31 IC 672=19 C W N 1172.

See also 164 IC 59=1936 L 570. Acceptance of an overdue instalment is waiver. 2 L L J 314, 59 IC 607 (S), 1929 A 881, 58 C 615=1931 C 157. But see 1933 N 70=144 IC 211, 1933 S 365. Payment and acceptance of amounts equivalent to overdue instalments are not sufficient to prove waiver, when such payments are not appropriated to any particular instalments. 18 N L J 104. Acceptance of portion only of such instalment is not waiver. 20 IC 156, 33 IC 606. See also 19 N L R 170=1924 N 61, 36 C 394, 19 M 162, 18 P 450=1939 P 433 (FB), 16 A 371, 27 B 1 (FB), 29 A 431, 12 M 192 on the point. As to proof of waiver, see 1937 O W N 1073=1938 O 42, 1937 L 863. An instalment bond provided that the creditor will be entitled on default of any one instalment to realize the full amount with interest in a lump sum or by miscellaneous amounts. There was default but the debtor made voluntarily miscellaneous payments which the creditor accepted and subsequently sued for the balance on the ground that he was entitled to sue for the whole amount. It was contended for the debtor that the creditor had waived such a right and that he was entitled only to the balance with interest from date of last default. Held that he was entitled only to the balance with interest from date of the last default. 1934 A L J 697. A creditor waiving default if and when entitled to take advantage of subsequent default. See 163 IC 165=38 P L R 286, 1936 L 570. The question whether there is waiver or not depends on the attendant circumstances of the act claimed as a waiver in each particular case. Where there is no evidence either that the debtors requested the creditors to excuse the default or that the payment of an overdue instalment was accepted as a consequence of waiver, the suit filed more than three years from the date of the first default cannot be saved from the bar of limitation by a plea of waiver. 1933 N 70. Mere abstention from enforcing rights in case of default does not amount to waiver. 47 A 552=23 A L J 424. See also 1924 B 301, 25 IC 938=88 L R 63, 47 IC 943 (C), 1929 C 292. But it is very strong evidence of waiver. 36 M 66=12 IC 57. It is not necessary for waiver that there must be acceptance of an overdue instalment. 36 M 66. See also 1929 C 309. Recovery of overdue instalments by suit amounts to waiver of right to sue for the whole as soon as default occurred. 19 N L R 170=1924 N 61, 1930 A L J 495. If the promisee had the option to sue for the entire amount on the first default, but he did not base his claim on that option but instead sued specifically for the last three instalments having his cause of action on each of the said defaults that is sufficiently indicative of his having waived his option. 137 IC 223=1932 O 176. MUTUAL, OPEN AND CURRENT ACCOUNT.—The term 'mutual' in relation to accounts is found in at least four different collocations and hence it is desirable to bear in mind that all cases concerned with 'mutual dealings' or 'mutual accounts' are not necessarily safe guides when considering what constitutes 'mutual open and current account' under Art 85 184 I.C. 139=1939 N 113 Where there is dual contractual relationship between the parties (i) that of borrower and creditor and (ii) that of principal and agent, and in these dealings, the plaintiff as creditor has demands against the defendant, while the defendant as the principal has independent demands against the plaintiff as his agent, and the items relating to all the dealings are entered in one account, such an account is clearly a mutual, current and open account and a suit for recovery of the amount due on it is governed by Art 85 The absence of a shifting balance is not a decisive factor in case of mutual, open and current accounts 185 I.C. 805=1939 L 356 See also 1941 P.W.N. 638 An 'open account', what is See 100 I.C. 815=28 P.W.L.R. 146 Dealings should be entered in an account consisting of mutual items of debit and credit 63 I.C. 950=23 Bom.L.R. 540 There must be transactions on each side creating independent obligations on the other and not merely transactions which create obligations on the one side, those on the other being merely complete or partial discharges of such obligations 44 M.L.J. 184=1923 M 278, 1936 C 382 See also 1923 L 656, 1923 L 347, 1922 L 338, 1922 L 316, 12 L 420=1931 L 241, 3 P.L.T. 492, (1911) 2 M.W.N. 440, 1927 M 819=303 I.C. 48, 1930 O 287, 15 N.L.J. 105, 1930 L 711, 1936 A.M.L.J. 68, 130 I.C. 574=1931 L 309, 1933 A.L.J. 1283, 1937 R 340, 58 C. 649=34 C.W.N. 1175 In other words the dealings must be such that there may be balance in favour of either party and not always in favour of one party in the very nature of the transactions 44 M.L.J. 184, 47 B 128=1923 B 82, 4 P.L.T. 571, 1927 B 225=29 Bom.L.R. 375, 35 Bom.L.R. 929=1933 B 450 But see also 106 I.C. 53 But actual shifting balance is not necessary 50 I.C. 669, 47 B 128, 1923 N 508, 1924 P 102, 29 Bom.L.R. 575=1927 B 225, nor does it afford a real test of mutuality 17 I.C. 48=23 M.L.J. 516, 142 I.C. 123=1933 N 50, 15 N.L.J. 105=29 N.L.R. 20 The question whether an account is mutual open and current so as to attract the operation of Art. 85 is one of fact and must depend upon the nature of the dealings between the parties, nature of the entries and other relevant circumstances In order that an account should be mutual, there must be dealings between the parties and such dealings must be capable of giving rise to independent obligations on each side of the account at any given period or stage One test commonly applied is the possibility of shifting balances sometimes in favour of one party and sometimes in favour of the other But that test is not conclusive or decisive of the matter The real test is whether the dealings between the parties are of such a nature that the balance might so shift An account current means a running account, that is, an account which is continued and not stopped or closed If the account is running, that is to say, if it is unclosed, then it is open and current Mere cessation of dealings between the parties, however, does not mean that the account is closed The real question in each case would be what is the intention of the parties 35 Bom.L.R. 929=1933 B 450 Where there is no open account on the date of suit, the plaintiff cannot sue on a mutual account and claim the benefit of Art 85 1933 B 450=35 Bom.L.R. 929 Each party must have a demand against the other, i.e., each party should be able to say against the other "I have an account against you" 5 C 759, 6 C.L.J. 158, 3 L.L.J. 362, 8 Bur.L.T. 116=27 I.C. 879 See also 17 P.W.R. 1920=54 I.C. 453, 47 B 128, 24 I.C. 128 (M), 17 I.C. 48=23 M.L.J. 516, 22 M.L.J. 14=17 I.C. 673, 6 B 134, 10 M 259, 32 A 15, 17 M 293, 22 B 606, 39 A 33, 132 I.C. 420 (A), 1939 N.L.J. 109=1939 N 113, 1940 A 209, 1936 A.M.L.J. 68, 1938 L 264 In order to bring a case within the article, it is necessary that the dealings on either side must be so independent of each other that neither party giving credit to the other relied on the debt which he had against him 140 I.C. 187 (L) The account must be continuous or current uninterrupted or unclosed by settlement or otherwise consisting of a series of transactions from which the balance due to one of them is or can be easily ascertained 1923 L 347, 3 P.L.T. 492 See also 6 M.H.C.R. 142, 100 I.C. 815=28 P.L.R. 146 Where independent obligations are created between the parties and the accounts are never closed even though annual balances are struck, the fact that the balance has been in favour of same party during the last few years does not take the transaction out of the category of Art 85 1 L.R. (1938) A 741=1938 A.L.J. 773=1938 A 504 A mutual, open and current account continuous as such so long as the account remains open and current It would not become a non mutual, open and current account, merely by reason of the fact that after a certain date the account was one sided The mutuality results from the reciprocal claims which can spring out of the transactions which once made the account mutual Where an acknowledgment closes the old account, then the old account ceases to be a mutual, open and current account It could cease to be open and it could cease to be current, but it could never lose the quality of mutuality With the end of either of the first mentioned characteristics would end the applicability of Art. 85 1939 N.L.J. 109=1939 N 113 P

Arts 89 and 90—Art 90 and not Art 89 is the article applicable to a suit in which the claim is based on the misconduct or neglect of an agent A suit by a sabha against an ex-secretary claiming a sum of money on the ground that he had wrongfully retained money due the sabha by not entering them in the accounts and had shown certain sums of money falsely as having been spent on behalf of the sabha when as a matter of fact they were not at all spent, is therefore governed by Art 90, as there is an allegation of misconduct, and the suit filed within three years of the discovery of the misconduct would be in time 48 LW 775=1939 M 114 See also 1938 M 38

Arts 89 and 120—In a case where a hundi is vested in the defendant for payment of debts of third person the defendant's obligation to account is equitable If the defendant is to be regarded as an agent of such third person for the purpose of paying off his creditors, the suit for accounts will fall under Art 89, if not under Art 120 But, in both cases, time will run from the date at which the defendant had denied such third person's claim, or in any other manner infringed or threatened to infringe his right 1936 M 876, 49 LW 608=1939 M 671 (Joint creditors—Pronote by debtor in favour of one—Arrangement that the latter should collect and pay the other his share—Relationship is one of trust, not agency—Art 120 applies)

But it does apply to a case in which it is not possible to the plaintiff to get any relief

until the instrument is set aside In other words, if the instrument is binding upon the plaintiff, then, even though the plaintiff may have been made to look as much like a suit for recovery of lands as possible, the plaintiff in order to get any such relief must have the instrument cancelled or at any rate have a declaration of its invalidity as against him 37 C W N 1141=1933 C 812, see also 1934 A L J 817=1934 A 507 In a suit for recovery of possession of land to which the plaintiff claimed to be entitled to inheritance and which had been transferred to the defendant by the deceased owner by means of fictitious sale deed, held, that the property having been found to be non ancestral and to be the self acquired property of the last owner, it was necessary for the plaintiff to obtain a cancellation of the sale-deed in favour of the defendant and that Art 91 applied to the suit, even though the main prayer in the suit was a decree for possession of the land 34 P L R 412=1933 L 399 Where a guardian sells immovable property belonging to a minor without the sanction of the Court and subsequently executes a second sale with the permission of the Court, the latter transferee can sue for possession outright and need not expressly sue to have the first sale set aside To such a case Art 120 and not Art 91 will apply 34 C W N 948 See also 1936 L 996 A suit by a creditor to declare the invalidity as against him of a fraudulent transfer executed by his debtor is not governed by Art. 91, but is governed by Art 120 8 O W N 593=1931 O 333

Arts 91 and 142—There is a wide difference between an instrument which is voidable and one which is void from the beginning In the former the right under the contract continues until it is avoided and therefore restoration of property handed over in pursuance of it cannot be claimed until the instrument is avoided either by the act of parties or through the Court. In the latter no legal contract ever came into being and so the rights of the parties are determined independently of the deed There is no need to avoid or cancel that which never existed in the eye of the law and so the substantial relief claimed would not be governed by Art 91, nor can the mere addition of an ancillary relief for cancellation which need never have been claimed make any difference These observations apply equally whether the transaction is embodied in one instrument or two If the legal parts can be separated from the illegal, then the relief of restitution in respect of the bad is not governed by Art 91 If they cannot, even then Art 91 would not apply, for the only difference is that the whole would be bad and so void ab initio instead of only a part, nor can the fact that the other side can elect in such a case to make restitution in respect of the bad and keep the good without altering the consideration make any difference It is Art 142 that applies to such a case I L R (1939) N 1=1938 N 335 (F B) See also 20 P L T 957=1940 P 201, 19 P L T 362=1938 P 69 In a suit where there is not only a prayer for cancellation of a document, as for example, a hubanama, sought to be avoided but also for confirmation of possession of the properties covered by the deed, the position must be recognised that if the defendant is put in possession by virtue of an instrument which is not void on the face of it, a suit for possession even

A decree obtained against a person treating him as a minor while in reality he is a major, is not a nullity. In a suit under Art 95 to set aside an ex parte decree on the ground of fraud, it is not enough if the plaintiff proves merely that there was no service of summons on him. He must show that the decree was obtained by fraud, he must show that the summons was fraudulently suppressed and by fraud of the plaintiff (in the former suit) he was kept in ignorance of the decree. 60 C.L.J. 120. Where a suit is filed to set aside a consent decree in a partition suit on the ground of fraud, Art 95 applies and limitation runs from the date of the discovery of the fraud. 145 IC 777=1933 S 53. A suit for refund of the purchase money paid under a registered instrument on the ground that the vendor had no title and there was no consideration is governed by Art 116 and time begins to run only from the date of knowledge of vendor's want of title or the purchaser is dispossessed of the property in consequence thereof. Where it was declared that certain property could not be sold in execution of a decree obtained by the plaintiff on foot of his mortgage deed and the decree became thereby infructuous and a suit for a simple money decree having been barred on that date, the plaintiff sued for damages for breach of a covenant for indemnity contained in the mortgage deed. Held, that the suit was governed by Art 116 and not by Art 62 or 97. Held, further that the suit was in time whether it was reckoned from the date of the objection to the plaintiff's execution or the date of the decree nullifying the decree in favour of the plaintiff. 1932 A L.J. 317=1932 A 358. On 24th February, 1926, the plaintiff paid the receiver certain amount as part of the purchase money of the estate of the insolvent. The Insolvency Court having refused to sanction the transfer, the purchaser applied in October, 1929, for a refund of the amount paid by him and the Court dismissed his application, and he thereupon instituted a suit in May, 1931, for recovery of the amount. Meanwhile the property had been sold in auction in September, 1927. Held, that the suit was governed by Art 97 and time commenced to run from the date of failure of consideration, namely, the date on which the property was sold to another person. 1934 A L.J. 864=1934 A 547. A and B were mortgagees of a share each. Both sub-mortgaged the entire share to C. A paid to C his share, of the sub-mortgaged debt, but B defaulted. C obtained a joint decree against A and B and had both their mortgage rights sold in execution, on 21-10-1927 and got possession of the same on 19-1-1928. A then filed suit against B on 9-1-1931 for the recovery of his share of the mortgage amount with interest, and the suit was framed as one for contribution. Held, the suit was barred by time, that Art 120 did not apply, that even if Art 99 applied, limitation ran from date of sale and not date of dispossession and that S. 69 Contract Act, had no application as payment was held not to have been made. 10 O.W.N. 919=1933 O 478.

Where an execution sale is declared a nullity, the starting point is the date of the decree of the first Court declaring the sale to be invalid and not of the appellate Court confirming the decree. 70 I.C. 45=1923 M 23. Arts 103 and 104—Under Mahomedan Law a divorce by means of a written deed is valid if communicated to the wife. Hence, time under Arts 103 and 104, for a suit for dower runs from the date of communication of divorce to the wife. The onus about the date of communication however in such a suit is on the plaintiff. 1941 L 166

Art 104—It is a part of the Mahomedan Law that, so far as a claim for dower is concerned, the marriage is dissolved only when it comes to the wife's notice, and there is nothing in Art 104 against that rule. So a suit brought by a Mahomedan wife for deferred dower is in time, if within three years from the date when the talak pronounced in her absence by her husband was communicated to her, though it may be more than three years from the date of the pronouncement. 133 IC 375=1931 M 647 Where a Mahomedan widow in possession in lieu of dower is dispossessed forcibly, limitation for her suit for the balance of her dower debt runs from such dispossession and not from the death of the husband. 33 A 569=8 ALJ 578 Divorce by husband—Talaknama offering to pay deferred dower in instalments—Suit by wife after three years—If barred—Decree for instalments not barred—Power of Court to grant. 1936 C 627

To a suit for specific performance of a contract of the lease, no article other than Art 113 applies, which expressly provides for such suits. Under that article the terminus a quo is the date fixed for the performance of the contract and if no such date is fixed, the date when the plaintiff has notice that performance is refused. 42 PLR 194=1940 L 225. See also 1932 L 36, 1933 A 410. This article applies to a suit for possession under a lease, where plaintiff was never put in possession. 1935 A LJ 662=1935 A 569.

STARTING POINT OF LIMITATION.—The date fixed for the performance must be a date expressly fixed in the contract itself which is to be specifically enforced and not a date which the parties may have fixed by necessary implication without stating expressly what it was. If not expressly stated, the date of notice of refusal of performance is the starting point of limitation. 1933 A LJ 300=1933 A 410. See also 139 IC 121=1932 L 36, 32 PLR 761, 1940 L 225, 1938 L 23 (Agreement to finance litigation). On the point, see also 5 C 175, 34 C 564, 31 M 51. Where a purchaser of a portion of property has agreed to release it of an existing mortgage, but he fails to do so the cause of action for a suit by the vendor on such covenant arises either on the date when such payment is to be made or at least not later than the date when the vendor calls upon the purchaser to do so. Such a suit is governed by Art 116, and if it is for specific performance, it is governed by Art 113. 60 C 761=146 IC 863=1933 C 641. See also 31 PLR 636 (a suit to enforce an agreement to sell under Punjab Colonisation of Government Lands Act subject to some conditions).

ARTS 113 AND 116.—Where a mortgage decree for sale is assigned under a registered deed, which provides inter alia that part of the consideration money remaining unpaid should be paid by the assignee to the assignor on the assignee realizing the decree, a suit by the assignor for the amount due and interest thereon is suit for compensation for breach of a contract falling under Art 116 and is governed by the six years' rule of limitation. It is not a suit for specific performance so as to make Art 113 applicable to it, nor is it a suit for indemnity. 1939 PWN 769=1940 P 155.

ARTS 113 AND 144.—Where a lease is registered it effects an actual demise and the right to possession becomes vested in the lessee. ART 115 APPLICABILITY—Disjunction between this article and Art 97 pointed out. 13 P 192=150 IC 975=1934 P 148 Art 115 applies to a case of express or implied contract and not a contract in writing registered. The article again applies to cases for compensation and not where the action is for a liquidated sum of money. 12 P 792 Applies to all cases of breaches of contract not otherwise specially provided for. 14 C 256 31 IC 335 (M) 3 A 600 (FB) 107 IC 493=1928 L 412 1930 O 395 The word 'compensation' has the same meaning as it has in S 73 of the Contract Act. 107 IC 493 Article applies also to a case of liability on a simple debt due and is not limited to cases of damages for breaches of contract. 39 IC 205=21 CWN 479 See also 1928 L 442, 6 B 76 Thus, a suit upon a letter of guarantee would be governed by the article. 39 IC 205=21 CWN 479 Also suit by mortgagee where the right to sue for the money arises from a contract. 20 IC 360 Suit for money due on a contract to supply marble for a flooring and also to construct the flooring is governed by this article, as neither Art 52 nor Art 56 would cover the claim as a whole. 2 L 376=1922 L 198 The word 'registered' in Arts 115 and 116 includes articles of association registered under the Indian Companies Act and is not confined to registration under the Indian Registration Act. 54 B 226=32 Bom LR 232 But see 1933 S 103=143 IC 713 (contra) See also 1937 P 293 Article 115 will not apply where part of the contract was in writing registered, i.e., contained in the articles of association. Article 115 is not strictly applicable to misfeasance in the nature of a breach of trust, nor is Art 116, as 'breach of contract' is not the sole liability sued on, nor is it the usual nomenclature for a breach of trust whether specific or quasi. 54 B 226=32 Bom LR 232 But see 1933 S 103=143 IC 713 holding that limitation for proceedings under S 235, Companies Act, is governed by Art 115. [49 M 468 (FB), Foll] See also 1937 P 293 Where a suit was filed to recover articles bailed with the defendant, but it appeared that no time was fixed for return of the articles held, that Art 115 applied and that limitation commenced from the date when the bailee should return the articles. If the contract of bailment is silent, the Court may take it that there was an implied term that the articles should be returned after the lapse of a reasonable time. 126 IC 682=7 O WN 769=1930 O 395

THE FOLLOWING SUITS ON EXPRESS CONTRACTS ARE GOVERNED BY THE ARTICLE—The word 'registered' in Art 116 means registered under the Registration Act. Hence registration of a company under the Companies Act is not equivalent to a registration of the Articles of Association, within the meaning of Art 116 and therefore limitation for proceedings under S 235, Companies Act, is governed by Art 115 and not by Art 116. ARTS 115, 116 AND 120—The directors are in a limited manner trustees Their liabilities are liabilities which depend upon their position as directors Their position as directors is governed by the Articles of Association and generally by the written constitution of the company The Articles are a part only of the contract Thus the liability of the directors under S 235, Companies Act, arises out of a contract which is partly in writing and partly not in writing Therefore, an application by the liquidator for compensation under S 235 for damages for misfeasance or breach of contract of the directors is not governed by Art 115 or Art 116, which deal with contracts exclusively in writing or not in writing Hence the application is governed by Art 120 See also 54 B 226 1937 P 293 A suit to recover license fee assessed by the Municipal Committee under Municipal Act in respect of a platform erected by the defendant in his holding, is governed by Art 120 and not by Art 115 The liability of the defendant does not arise out of any contract between him and the Municipality but out of an obligation imposed by the statute on the licensees of platforms to pay the fees assessed by the Municipal Commissioners The Municipality is authorized to recover such fees by distraint or suit 175 I C 86=1938 P 192 In a suit for assessment of a fair and equitable rent and compensation for use and occupation of land where the tenants are willing to pay a reasonable rent and dispute only the figure at which a reasonable rent should be fixed, it cannot be said that the tenants are guilty of any breach of implied contract to pay reasonable rent and therefore Art 115 does not apply to the case and the suit could be governed by Art 120 190 I C. 631=1940 C 400 right Act as well as the Registration Act. Thus, a suit by a share holder to recover dividends from a registered Company is governed by Art 116 42 M 33=35 M L J 256, I L R (1940) Bom 165=42 Bom L R 57=1940 B 97 (F B), 20 P L T 285, 54 B 226=32 Bom L R 232. But see 1933 Sind 103=143 I C 713, 1937 P 293. But a purchaser at a Court sale of shares in a Company cannot claim the benefit of this article 46 M L J 563-79 I C 94-1924 M 721. The word 'contract' does not include an award 19 I C 376=6 S L R 148. But see 16 I C 804 (Pun) cited under Art 115. The word 'contract' in Art 116 includes an implied 'contract' also 51 A 651=119 I C 243=1929 A 293. Where a personal covenant to pay is contained in registered mortgage, it being in writing registered, the relevant article is 116 52 L W 777=1940 P C 204=67 I A 431 (P C). It cannot be said that Art 116 applies only to cases where the document is signed by both the parties. Article does not contain the words 'executed by both parties' and there is no reason to interpolate them. If there is a valid contract, evidence by a registered document which though signed by one party only is complete, because it has been accepted by the other and breach of that contract has been committed, Art 116 will apply to such a case 50 A 651=1928 A 313. If the vendee promises to pay the purchase money is set out in the registered conveyance which is accepted by him the contract between the parties can be regarded as embodied in the conveyance, even though it is not actually executed by the vendee. The plaintiff's right to a personal decree on the failure of the defendant to pay the balance of consideration in such a case is governed by Art 116 9 R 56 1931 R 159. Where the liability of the vendee arises in virtue of the conveyance, i.e., upon a contract in writing registered within the meaning of Art 116 the six years' period allowed by that article applies 60 I A 183=11 R 186 1933 P C 143=64 M L J 655 (P C). Art 116 does not apply to a claim against the directors of a Company for misfeasance in the nature of a breach of trust because the whole of the contract governing the relationship of the Company and the directors is not in writing registered but part only, viz., that which is contained in the articles of association 54 B 226=32 Bom L R 232. See also 1937 P 293. Relinquishment of rights—Money paid as consideration—Failure of deed to take effect—Claim for refund of money paid—Limitation—Art 97 applies, but not Art 116 1930 A L J 1112. A suit for taking the accounts of a dissolved partnership cannot be deemed to be a suit 'for compensation for breach of contract' and is not therefore governed by Art 116 57 M 378=1934 M 162=66 M L J 625. The word 'compensation' need not be restricted to a claim for unliquidated damages and can include a claim for a sum certain 49 B 596=27 Bom L R 637=1925 B 440, 12 C L J 423, 3 A 600 (F B) 14 A L J 873. The word 'compensation' has the same meaning as it has in S 73 of the Contract Act and denotes a sum of money payable to a person on account of loss or damage caused to him by breach of the contract 107 I C 493=1928 L 442. Art 116 applies not merely to a suit for compensation for breach of contract in the narrow sense of the word compensation, but also to a suit for money payable under the terms of the contract, and it is applicable in all cases in which the contract is in writing and registered, notwithstanding that there may be an article directly applicable to the class of contract in question 9 R 56=1931 R 149. Thus, a suit for recovery of money due on a registered bond is governed by article 17 C W N 369=13 I C 440, 42 I C 609=6 L W 712. STARTING POINT OF LIMITATION—It depends on the article under which the suit would have fallen had the contract not been registered, whether under special articles or under the residuary Art 115 See 15 CLJ 17, 3 A 600 (FB) [In the numerous reported decisions, this article has been read along with other special articles which would apply if the contract is not registered for which, see under the respective articles] In a suit to recover compensation for the breach of contract to indemnify the vendee against the claims of a mortgagee, the starting point is the date when the purchaser is compelled to pay off the prior mortgage under Art 83 read with the article 2 L 316=64 IC 431 But see 60 C 761=146 IC 863=1933 C 641 In a suit for damages for breach of a covenant of title, time begins to run from the date of the breach of the covenant 45 B 955, 61 IC 70, 8 P 432, 1940 M 233 That is from the date when it is found that the vendor had no title or the purchaser is dispossessed of the property in consequence thereof 133 IC 76=1931 S 141 See also 14 NLJ 125 (FB), 41 LW 728=68 M L J 588 Where the purchaser could not get possession of some of the lands sold, and his suit against the person in possession was dismissed, limitation for a suit for damages against his vendor would start only from the date of dismissal of the suit against the stranger in possession 64 M L J 336=1933 M 126 As to starting of limitation for a suit by a purchaser from an auction purchaser who undertook to obtain delivery of possession from Court and give possession to him claiming possession of the property or return of consideration see 1933 M 153=143 IC 504 But where the vendor admittedly had no title to the property and the vendee had not been put in possession, a suit for the recovery of the purchase money must be brought within 6 years from the sale-deed 49 B 596=27 Bom LR 637, See also 31 IC 877=11 NLR 186, 25 LW 11=1927 M 273, 38 M 887, 38 M 1171, 35 M 39, 17 LW 254=1923 M 392, 29 M L J 454=31 IC 179, 88 IC 699, 21 IC 740, 118 IC 203 See also cases cited under Art. 97 on the point A suit for refund of purchase money under an invalid sale is governed by this article and time runs when the defect in title is discovered 8 P 432=1929 P 389, 1930 S 66 See also 137 IC 61=1932 N 3. Art 117—APPLICABILITY—See 8 L 54=102 IC 523=1927 L 200 (2) Under Art 117 a suit is filed in British India on a foreign judgment, it is in time, notwithstanding that under the law of the foreign state where the decree was obtained, execution of the decree in that state is barred by time, whether the decree is not enforceable because it is barred by the law of limitation prevailing in the foreign state is not relevant to be considered in a suit on a foreign judgment. The law applicable to the place where the suit is brought is applicable. The law of the place where the obligation arose need not be considered. Art. 117 deals only with the period of limitation. It does not create a right to sue. In India a foreign judgment itself forms a cause of action and a suit can therefore be based on it, and it has to be filed in six years. I L.R. (1939) B 639=41 Bom.L.R. 1084=1939 B 522 The date of the judgment in Art 117 is the date of the decree, and if there is the decree of the appeal Court, it is that decree which is the starting point for counting the period of limitation, and not the decree of the original Court. Suit for declaration of plaintiffs' exclusive title to property and also for declaration that the revisional survey entries in record of rights were wrong—Suit filed after six years—Plaintiffs were in exclusive possession of the property. Held, that the suit was not for the correction of record of rights but for declaration of plaintiffs' exclusive title, and was not time barred (1 P.L.J. 73, Dist.) 163 IC 408 (1)=1936 P 321 (2). Plaintiff was in possession of the land which was the subject of alienation by will in favour of the defendant, mutation was effected in favour of defendant whereupon plaintiff sued for declaration of his title. Held, that it was unnecessary for him to bring any suit to set aside the alienation by will as he was in possession of the property and that his suit fell under S. 45, Land Revenue Act, and was governed by Art. 120, Limitation Act, and not by Sch. A co-sharer's suit for his share of the income of the joint property is governed by Art. 120 and the starting point is when the right to sue accrues, i.e. when the right of the plaintiff is denied or when there is an ouster. He may be entitled to an account of the share of income for a period which may be more than 6 years before the date of suit. It cannot be said that even in the absence of ouster or assertion of hostile title to the knowledge of the plaintiff, his right to share in the income should be confined only to a period of 6 years before the date of suit. 55 L.W. 196=1942 M.W.N. 239=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 408. equitable claim against a trustee, hable to account for an account and ascertainment of what may be due, is Art. 120 and not Art. 62, and limitation does not begin to run until the "right to sue" accrues, i.e., until there is an accrual of the right asserted in the suit and its infringement or at least a clear and unequivocal threat to infringe that right by the defendant. Consequently, the plea of limitation fails when the defendant is unable to specify the particular date at which the claim to an account was denied by him. 35 CWN 145=60 MLJ 1=58 IA 1=8 R. 645=1931 P C 9 (P C)

Arts 120 and 125—A deceased had made a gift of his land to certain person During registration proceedings his daughter unsuccessfully contested the registration of the land in alienor's name However the daughter did not bring any title suit afterwards The reversioners of the deceased subsequently brought a suit for a declaration that the alienation was void against them and hence should be set aside Held, that the mere failure on the daughter's part to bring a title suit after failure in registration proceedings did not amount to constructive alienation for purposes of Art 125, which, therefore, did not apply, and the suit by the reversioners brought more than six years after the land registration entry was barred under Art 120 165 I.C. 21=1936 P 535 Where a Hindu widow and her daughter execute a sale-deed in respect of property inherited from the last male owner, the daughter having only a spes successionis, it cannot be said that there is any alienation by the daughter The alienation has to be regarded as one by the widow alone A suit by the daughter's son after the death of the widow, but during the lifetime of the daughter his mother, to have the alienation declared invalid and not binding on him is governed not by Art 125, but by Art 120, and would be barred unless brought within six years of the date of the alienation, 165 I.C. 448=1936 M.W.N. 339=44 L.W. 208 See also 1931 C. 47.

Arts 120, 127 and 132—See 1938 P 16 The right of a member of a Malabar tarwad to maintenance is a proprietary right and based on co-ownership in the property of the tarwad The claim to recover maintenance or arrears of maintenance falls within Art 127, and the mere fact that the claim is based on a karar executed by the members of the tarwad cannot alter the nature of the claim But Art 127 cannot be availed of by an assignee of the right from a member, the article being restricted in its scope to the members of a joint family The article applicable to a suit by an assignee is Art 120 Where the maintenance is charged on the tarwad income under a karar entered into by the members of the tarwad the claim so far as it is sought to be enforced against the income of the immovable property of the tarwad would be governed by Art 132 163 I.C. 190=43 L.W. 711=1936 M 573

mortgage—Suit by mortgagee as heir of mortgagor for possession of equity of redemption—Defendant obtaining mutation in his favour—holder of the office is a suit to establish a periodically recurring right attached to the office of mutawalli and is governed by Art 131 of the Limitation Act Art 120 does not apply to such a suit. A suit brought within 12 years of the Secretary of States refusal to recognise the validity of the plaintiff's claim would be in time. The fact that the allowance does not vary from year to year but is fixed would not make any difference as to the limitation applicable I L R (1941) M 387=1941 M 428=(1941) 1 M L J 374

Arts 120 and 142—Where in proceedings under S 145 Cr P Code the Magistrate passed an order for attachment of the property which was taken possession of by a Tahsildar who was appointed as receiver the possession of the receiver is in the eye of law the possession of the true owner and the plaintiff could maintain a suit for a mere declaration of his title and it is not necessary for him to institute a suit for possession. A suit is governed by Art 120. The suit being neither in substance nor in form a suit for possession of immovable property, Art 142 has no application 164 I C 118=1936 O W N 784 =1936 O 387

Arts 120 and 134 and S 10 MORTGAGES OF ENDOWED PROPERTY—SUIT FOR THEIR EJECTMENT—A suit for ejectment against the mortgagees of property dedicated to an endowment brought more than six years after the dates of mortgages being governed by Art 120 is barred. It cannot come under S 10 of the Act as that section expressly excludes assignees for consideration. Nor does it come under Art. 134 as a Hindu Religious endowment does not constitute a trust within the meaning of the article and secondly the suit is not for possession but merely for ejectment. 153 I C 48=1936 L 784. The words "payable" and "deliverable" in Col 3 of Art 123 indicate that there must be some person who is under a duty to pay the legacy or to deliver the distributive shares. It is not necessary however that the persons liable to pay must be executors or administrators. They must be persons in possession of the estate and legally bound to pay the legacy or hand over the distributive shares. The purchaser need not prove that he purchased without constructive notice of the limited title of the vendor 1917 M.W.N. 5=38 I.C. 194. Art 134 is not restricted in its application to purchaser in good faith, but applies also to an alienee from a trustee who takes the property with full knowledge that the alienor was acting in excess of his power 130 I.C. 780 =1931 L. 129.

TRANSFER BY TRUSTEE—The head of the Mutt is not a trustee with regard to the endowed properties and therefore Art 134 does not apply to an alienation by the head of a Mutt 44 M. 831=41 M.L.J. 346 (P.C.) 104 I.C. 125=53 M.L.J. 306=1927 M. 850 60 I.A. 124=12 P. 251=1933 P.C. 75=64 M.L.J. 505 (P.C.) Where the property transferred is claimed in the suit by a Mahant who alleges that it belongs to a religious institution, the rule of limitation governing the suit depends upon the nature of the property 1930 L. 191 (2). Art 134 does not apply to suits to avoid alienations of the generally endowed property vested in the sajadanashin and mutawalli of a wakf 35 Bom. L.R. 252=1933 B. 217. A mutawalli has a beneficial interest in the endowed property and an alienation made by him is valid during his lifetime and a suit by succeeding mutawalli to recover possession of the property alienated is governed by Art 144 1933 M. 533 64 M.L.J. 706. But see 60 I.C. 689. Art 134 does not apply to a wakf 50 C. 329=44 M.L.J. 624 (P.C.).

PERMANENT LEASE—A suit brought by a thebait of some family idols to recover possession of debutter property dedicated to the service of the idols but of which plaintiff's predecessors had granted a permanent lease, more than 12 years before suit is not barred by Art 134 38 C. 526 =21 M.L.J. 1145 (P.C.) See also 44 I.C. 567 =27 C.L.J. 201 43 C. 34=29 I.C. 337. The word transfer in Art 134 is wide enough to include a lease in perpetuity (43 C. 34 and 40 M. 745 Foll.) Where property belonging to the idol is transferred and the rent reserved in favour of the idol of the temple is only eight annas, such rent is not valuable consideration within the meaning of Art 134 126 I.C. 279=1930 M. 298.

POSSESSION UNDER TRANSFER—A suit by a succeeding trustee to recover possession of trust property mortgaged by his predecessor and foreclosed by the mortgagee is governed by Art 134 47 C. 866=58 I.C. 705. Art 134 is inapplicable to a transfer from a trustee or mortgagee under which possession is not taken by the transferee 40 M. 1040=33 M.L.J. 320 (F.B.).

MISCELLANEOUS—Art 134 does not apply to a person, who being interested in part of the mortgage redeems the whole, he being only a charge holder and not a mortgagee 38 A. 138 =34 I.C. 244. Though under Art 134 the possession derived under a mortgage could be perfected by twelve years adverse possession, yet if a new right accrued before 12 years were over to the ownership of the properties the adverse possession is broken up 39 M. 879. See also 35 A. 327. The operation of the article begins only from the date on which the purchaser takes possession 1930 M.W.N. 1148. See also 40 M. 1040=33 M.L.J. 320 (F.B.).

was instituted by A, a Hindu idol for injunction against B restraining him from disturbing A in his possession, on the basis of an alleged transfer to B by a former mahant of the plaintiff, held that what A asked for was not only an injunction but for setting aside the transfer to B and the suit was governed by Art 134 A. Held further that if however B filed a suit against A, no period of limitation would run against A in his defence. 178 I.C. 806=1938 L. 752. The word 'plaintiff' in the third column of Art 134 A must, in the case of a representative suit brought on behalf of the general body of worshippers or beneficiaries or persons interested in an institution be understood to refer only to the plaintiff or plaintiffs ex nomine on record and cannot be taken to mean every individual member of the community or body of persons who are represented by the plaintiff or plaintiffs on record. 50 L.W. 658 =1930 M. 85=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 920. Where in a suit on behalf of an idol for a permanent injunction restraining the defendant from dispossessing the plaintiff from a certain land the substantial relief claimed by the plaintiff is to set aside a transfer of the land made by a previous mahant in favour of the defendant the suit falls under Art 134 A and as limitation begins to run from the time when the transfer becomes known to the plaintiff the initial onus of proving that his suit is within time is on the plaintiff. If neither in the plaint nor at any subsequent stage of the case the plaintiff has ever fixed any date on which he alleges that he came to know of the transfer to the defendant, the suit must fail on that account. 40 P.L.R. 185=1938 L. 470.

Art 134 B—[See 73 C.L.J. 475 cited under Art 144 infra]. Where an estate known as the Paldi estate is held for life by each holder for the time being and passes on his death to the next holder unencumbered by debts or charges except those imposed by Government and the estate is made inalienable and impartible by rules framed by the Government on the lines of the Bombay Sarajan Rules which Sarajan Rules do not apply to the estate and there is no rule in the rules governing the estate to the effect that there is to be a formal resumption on the death of each holder and regrant to the successor, if any alienation of a part of the estate is made by a holder it will be invalid from its inception and not merely from his death. But if the alienee continues in possession of the part transferred to him for over 12 years during the lifetime of the alienor or his successor, he acquires a title to it by adverse possession not only as against the holder during whose tenure he completes 12 years' possession but as against all subsequent successors. Though the successor does not claim through his predecessor, but claims in his own right, the successor gets the estate as it was at the time of the death of the predecessor. If, therefore the estate had lost by adverse possession a particular part of it, and if the alienee had become its owner by the extinction of the holder's title thereto the estate which comes to the successor is the estate minus the part the ownership of which had passed from the estate to the alienee's family. It would be open to a person to acquire title by adverse possession for over 12 years, and the fact that the alienor holder had only a life estate would not come in the way of the acquisition of title by adverse possession. Even if the analogy of the head or mahant of a math is applied to the holder of the estate it would make no difference. On that analogy Art 134 B would apply, and if the alienee completes 12 years' possession after the death of the alienating holder, he perfects his title by adverse possession. 44 Bom.L.R. 146=A.I.R. 1942 B. 138. Where a perpetual lease is granted of trust property the lease is void and a suit by the succeeding manager to recover possession is governed by Art 134 (b) and time commences from the death or removal of the previous manager who effected the transfer. 14 L.R. 902 (Rev.) Art 134 B applies to a transfer of endowed property made, whether before or after the Amending Act of 1929 which introduced this article in the Limitation Act came into force.

The word 'transfer' in the article is wide enough to include a lease. 41 G.W.N. 693=1937 C. 305. See also (1941) 1 M.L.J. 644 (F.B.). The general rule is that the law of limitation applicable to a suit or proceeding is the law in force at the date of the institution of the suit or proceeding unless there is a distinct provision to the contrary. So a suit brought in 1930 by the Sayyadanashin of a Takia to recover possession of immovable property comprised in the wakf which had been transferred by trustee de son vivant is governed by Art 134 B as inserted by Act I of

A suit by a mortgagee without possession for possession of the mortgaged property on the basis of ownership is well within time, if lodged within twelve years of the foreclosure proceedings under Ben. Reg. XVII of 1806. 40 P.L.R. 798=1938 L. 809. For the purpose of Art. 135 the mortgagor must either have actual possession or an unconditional right to recover possession from somebody who has in fact got it and unless and until he has that right, time does not start to run. 57 B. 593=35 Bom. L.R. 956=1933 B. 439. The time for a pawns mortgagee to sue for possession begins to run from the date of redeeming the prior mortgagee who was in possession of the property and not from the date of his mortgage. 48 I.C. 916. Where according to the terms of a mortgage deed the mortgagee is entitled to obtain possession of the mortgaged property in default of payment of interest, and the mortgagor fails to pay interest in the very first year after the mortgage, the cause of action for a suit for possession accrues in that year. The fact that interest was paid and accepted by the mortgagee in certain subsequent years cannot by itself be held to be sufficient to show that the default was condoned and the parties were restored to their original position. 40 Bom. L.R. 48. But see (1938) 2 M.L.J. 251, 1939 N. 242. 1938 L. 570. Art. 136.—The expression "out of possession" in Art. 136 implies that some person is in possession adversely to the vendor some person holding in a character incompatible with the idea that the ownership remained vested in the vendor. 51 I.C. 123=29 C.L.J. 241. See also 64 I.C. 552=23 Bom. L.R. 967. Possession contemplated by Art. 136 is not confined to actual occupation only; it also includes constructive possession. 151 I.C. 357 (2)=1934 R. 223. Article applies to such possession as a member of the joint family is presumed to have, in the family property, until excluded therefrom. 51 I.C. 123=29 C.L.J. 241, (1911) 2 M.W.N. 175, 1915 M.W.N. 29. Where there have been transfers by successive vendors all out of possession the term "vendor" includes the first in the series of vendors entitled to sue for possession. 24 I.C. 216. Delivery of symbolical possession is operative against the judgment-debtor but is wholly ineffectual to affect the title or interrupt the actual possession of others. 29 I.C. 841=22 C.L.J. 574. The possession of one co-owner is in itself rightful and does not imply hostility as would be the possession of a stranger. must sue a stranger dispossessing his tenant from year to year and holding the land absolutely against them both within 12 years from the date of such dispossession. 15 I.C. 146=1912 W.N. 669. In the case of tenancy from year to year, limitation runs in favour of a person asserting permanent right in the property only from the date of the end of the tenancy under Art 139. 9 I.C. 141=21 M.L.J. 166. The relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties has not been established. Art 139 does not apply for a suit in ejectment of defendants by plaintiff. Whatever possessory rights a tenant at-sufferance may have against a rank trespasser, it cannot be claimed that the "tenancy-at-sufferance" is heritable. The son of such tenant cannot style himself as a tenant holding over. His possession is nothing better than that of a trespasser. His possession is clearly adverse to the owner of the land and would ripen into a prescriptive title by 12 years' possession. 30 N.L.R. 155=148 I.C. 561=1934 N 67. The limitation begins to run against the landlord from the date when by efflux of time tenancy comes to an end. 1934 N 67.

Art 140—Art 140 contemplates a suit by a remainderman or reversioner for possession of immovable property when his estate falls into possession. 65 I.C. 826=34 C.L.J. 129. By the expression "falls into possession," it means the time when a reversioner or a remainderman becomes entitled to the actual possession of the estate. 8 O.W.N. 349=1931 O 177. The possession of one trespasser can be tacked on to that of another and a continuity of adverse possession may result thereby only when the interest of both are not different and antagonistic. 119 P.L.R. 1914=22 I.C. 855. Art 140 governs suit against a trespasser by a lessor for the recovery of his leased out land. 15 I.C. 146=1912 M.W.N. 669. Art 140 has no application against a tenant as Art 139 governs such suits. 15 I.C. 146. Art 144 applies when the purchaser of the rights of a devisee sues to obtain possession of the property if the devisee or his transferee has once obtained possession and Art 140 applies if the devisee has not obtained possession. 56 I.C. 929. A person claiming only an equity of redemption does come within the meaning of remainderman. 56 I.A. 192=51 A 367=33 C.W.N. 761=1929 P.C. 158 (P.C.). If the plaintiff succeeds in making out a prima facie case under Art 140 the burden is on the defendant to show that the dispossession took place at a time when the property was in possession of the last male owner. 43 C.W.N. 772.

(P.C.) The basis of the doctrine of surrender is the effacement of the widow's interest, and not the ex facie transfer by which such effacement is brought about. There is therefore no difference between surrender to a daughter and surrender to the nearest male reversioner. 67 M.L.J. 20 (P.C.) This rule is applicable also to the case of a Mahomedan occupying a similar position. The wordings of Art. 141, Act XV of 1877, and of the present Act IX of 1908 make this amply clear. 108 I.C. 817=1928 O 155. Whether the adverse possession against the widow runs against the reversioner is a question of fact. 1928 A 361 (F.B.), 1931 O 25. A suit by a reversioner to recover possession of the properties of a limited owner sold in execution of a decree obtained against her husband is governed by Art. 141 and not by Art. 144. 48 C.L.J. 368. Where there has been no decree against widow or other act in law in the widow's lifetime depriving the reversionary heir of the right to possession on the widow's death, the heir is entitled after the widow's death to rely upon Art. 141 for the purpose of the determination of the question whether the title is barred by lapse of time. 56 I.A. 267=51 A 439=1929 P.C. 166=57 M.L.J. 160 (P.C.). On the death of the last taluqdar to an estate, succession to which was governed by the terms of the primogeniture sanad, his wife entered into possession of the properties and in the mutation proceedings, the position she claimed was that of a claimant to the estate under S. 22 (7) of the Oudh Estates Act, 18 as a limited owner. So the right of the next heir to sue for complete proprietary title accrues only after, and not before, the death of the limited owner. A suit for possession by him is governed by Art. 141. 150 I.C. 495=11 O.W.N. 351=1934 O 190.

(4) LIMITED OWNERS (MORE THAN ONE).—Article applies where the reversioner is entitled to the property on the death of more than one limited owner taking jointly, and time runs from the death of the last limited owner. 43 M. 855=39 M.L.J. 567.

SUIT FOR SHARE IN INHERITANCE—A suit for the share in inheritance is barred after lapse of twelve years of the death of the last male owner. 33 I.C. 712=81 P.R. 1916.

STATUTORY POINT—The starting point is the death of the last surviving widow. 33 A. 312=9 I.C. 50, 1930 O 481. The reversioner's right to sue accrues from the time of the death of the widow and possession for 12 years under a gift from the widow during her lifetime does not bar the suit. 1922 A 421. See also 65 I.C. 866=34 C.L.J. 141. When time has once commenced to run against the last male holder, it continues to run and is not suspended or, in any way, affected by the mere circumstance that the owner is succeeded by a female entitled to the usual woman's limited estate. After twelve years have run out from the date of the original entry of the trespasser, which happened in the lifetime of the last male owner all persons claiming through or under him are barred. It is settled law that Art. 141 of the Limitation Act is inapplicable to such a case. 43 P.L.R. 308=1941 L. 271. See also 1942 O.W.N. 191.

Arts. 141 and 143—Applicability—Award giving properties to Hindu widow for maintenance for life—Clause providing for forfeiture on widow becoming unchaste—Properties to go to husband's brothers on death of widow—Suit for possession of the properties by the reversioners within 12 years of the widow's death but beyond 12 years of unchastity—If barred—Limitation applicable—Waiver of forfeiture—Death of widow gives fresh cause of action for suit. 1937 A.L.J. 139=1937 A 268=1 L.R. (1937) All 268.

Arts. 141 and 144—Where under a special custom a widow is entitled to possess the property of her husband during her life, her possession, however long it lasts, could not be adverse to the ultimate heirs so as to create an absolute right to the property in her favour after the expiry of 12 years. This is so even though the husband had executed an invalid will in her favour giving full ownership in the property. Accordingly a suit for possession of the property by the ultimate heirs is governed by Art. 141, and not by Art. 144 and a suit by them within 12 years from the date of the death of the widow is, therefore, within time. 165 I.C. 322 (2)=1937 O 4. See also 50 L.W. 571=1940 M. 102.

Arts. 142 and 144—In all cases in which the applicability of Art. 142 or Art. 144 is in controversy, it is necessary to scrutinize the pleadings of the plaintiff and to ascertain exactly the allegations on which the plaintiff has come into Court and the reliefs sought by him. Sometimes the pleas raised in defence by the defendant are also relevant to the enquiry. 37 P.L.R. 171; 152 I.C. 906=1934 P. 593, 152 I.C. 1=1934 A.L.J. 973=1934 A 993 (F.B.), 147 I.C. 805.

NOTES

=11 OWN 104=1934 O 21, 30 SLR 472 In a case which falls under Art 142, the plaintiff must prove not only title but also possession within 12 years of suit. But before that article can apply, it must be shown, either that the plaintiff was dispossessed, or that he discontinued the possession. This can be established either by the facts admitted in the pleadings, or if not admitted there, then by the facts actually found. But unless that is done the case cannot come under Art 142 and so the residuary Art 144 would apply. 1938 N.L.J. 418=1939 N 7 See also 1932 N.L.J. 99, 1942 A.L.W. 225=1942 OWN 281. The essential difference between Arts 142 and 144 is that, in the first case the owner bases his claim from the date of his dispossession, and in the second he bases his claim on his title without regard to his possession or dispossession and time begins to run from the date that the defendant's possession became adverse to the plaintiff. Where the plaintiff sued on the basis of his title which was admitted, it was not for him to prove possession on his own part within 12 years, but it was for the trespasser to prove his adverse possession. [45 B 1020 (P.G.), Rel. on.] 108 IC 109=1928 O 246 See also 1928 L 306 (a case of waste land), 1937 Sind 226, 1940 Sind 49, 1940 M 798=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 190, 1938 L 241, 1939 L 172. A suit for possession, the claim being based on dispossession, is governed by Art 142, and the burden is on the plaintiff to establish his possession without limitation. 153 IC 371=1935 O 88. Where the plaintiff does not claim to have been dispossessed or to have discontinued possession Art 144 and not Art 142 applies. 30 N.L.R. 284=148 IC 62=1934 N 36. See also 151 IC 490=1934 L 576, 1937 P 252 (plot incapable of possession by actual user). In cases where the plaintiff sues for possession of immovable property both on the ground of title and on the ground of his possession having been disturbed by the defendant if he proves his title, the burden of establishing title by adverse possession lies upon the defendant, and if the defendant succeeds in proving that fact, the suit must fail, otherwise the plaintiff is entitled to a decree. To this extent, Art 144 will apply to such a suit but it may be that the plaintiff, though not able to substantiate his title, is in a position to prove his possession and dispossession by the defendant within 12 years. If that be the case, Art 142 will apply and the burden will be on the plaintiff. 11 OWN 104=1934 O 21. Whether Art 144 or 142 applies, depends on frame of suit but plaintiff has to justify such frame. 1930 L 330. Art 142—[See also under Art 144]—APPLICABILITY OF ARTICLE—Art 142 is restricted to suits which are in terms and substance based on the plaintiff's prior possession which he has lost by dispossession or discontinuance of possession. "Discontinuance" in Art 142 means that a person in possession goes out and is followed into possession by another person, because unless he is so followed he will in law be deemed to continue in possession and therefore there will be no discontinuance. I.L.R. (1939) All 454=1939 A.L.J. 94=1939 A 257. The word "discontinued" connotes three elements—two physical and one mental. There must be (1) actual withdrawal (2) with an intention to abandon and (3) that another should step in, begin to occupy after the withdrawal. Dispossession signifies expulsion, an adverse act which has the effect of putting out. It presupposes physical contact, a collusion, either with another person or with his physical acts. The physical presence on the property of the person affected is not necessary but the adverse act of the other party must have the quality of destruction. 69 C.L.J. 38=1939 C 354 See also 1938 Sind 198, 1938 N.L.J. 418=1939 N 7, 1942 N.L.J. 99. SUBMERGED LAND—CONSTRUCTIVE POSSESSION—Where a plaintiff sues to recover possession of lands as re formation in situ alleging that he has been dispossessed from them, the burden lies on him under S 142 of the Limitation Act to prove that he was in possession within twelve years of the suit He can discharge this burden by proving that he was in constructive possession within that period He would be in constructive possession, if he was the rightful owner and would be in time if he could prove either that the lands had appeared above water within twelve years of the suit, or if they had appeared earlier that they had become first fit for user within that period The fact that he had no physical possession at the time of the last submergence is not material for the purpose of enabling him to call to his aid the principle of constructive possession, provided that this title had not been extinguished by adverse possession before the last submergence For, if a trespasser was in possession before submergence and had not perfected his title by adverse possession for 12 years or more, on submergence his possession ceases and the possession of the owner revives and continues till the lands are again formed and become fit for user and occupied by another 44 CWN 935

Where plaintiffs put forward a case of effective possession and adduced evidence in support of it, but the Court found against it they cannot give up that case and rely upon the presumption of possession following title 1931 M. 282=60 M.L.J. 430. But see 54 M. 622 holding that even in such a case, the possession presumed by law must be displaced by proof of effective acts of possession by the defendant.

POSSESSION TITLE—In a case where the suit is resisted on the ground of acquisition of title by prescription it is not for the plaintiff to prove his possession within twelve years. It is for the defendant to prove his adverse proprietary title 1923 A 55. See also 1923 B 361. Effect of entry as to possession in the settlement record. See 2 L.L.J. 230. Possession under an illegal order or decree of a Court is not possession that can avail plaintiff under this article 29 IC 10.

EJECTMENT SUIT—The plaintiff in an ejectment action must in order to succeed strictly prove his own title 42 C 384=27 M.L.J. 333 (P.C.). In a suit for ejectment the onus is on the plaintiff to prove not only his title to possession but the fact of his dispossession or discontinuance of possession within twelve years 18 IC 17=25 M.L.J. 95 (P.C.) 8 L. 655 98 IC 1061 (2) 33 C.W.N. 1160. Title must be strictly proved to entitle plaintiff to ejectment 36 IC 890 20 C.W. 773. The period of limitation applicable to a suit for possession of a temple is that contained in Art. 142 and not Art. 131 52 IC 67 (4 Cal 683 Dist). In a suit for possession where the entry in the record-of-rights is in favour of defendants plaintiff must prove his possession within twelve years of a suit 54 IC 960. A suit to set aside an invalid sale to the extent of the plaintiff's joint share and for possession thereof is governed by Art. 142 and not Art. 123 42 IC 121. Court sale—Formal delivery of possession to purchaser—Judgment-debtor continuing in possession along with co-owners—Suit for partition—Decree in favour of purchaser—Subsequent suit to recover actual possession after a lapse of 14 years from the formal delivery is barred—No case of possess on and dispossession 50 A 813=1928 A 412. See also 1928 L. 910. Death of adoptive father—Widow enjoying property as of right—Suit to recover property filed after twelve years. is barred 1928 P.C. 165 (1) =109 IC 818=55 M.L.J. 251 (P.C.). The plaintiff filing his suit in the Civil Court within the ordinary twelve year's period of limitation for ejecting a trespasser is under no obligation to satisfy the Court that he had sufficient cause for not filing his suit earlier. All that he need prove is that he came within twelve years of the accrual of his cause of action 1930 A.L.J. 256=1930 A 193 (F.B.). The mere decision of a Tanaga or the mere passing of an order and a mere entry in the record-of-rights as well as a mere order under S. 145 Cr. P. Code, do not necessarily constitute actual physical possession 110 IC 623=1928 P. 653. Dispossession contemplated in Art. 142 refers to actual physical dispossession and there is no dispossession under that article until some one else takes khas possession. Dispossession is when a person comes in and drives out the other from possession 56 C 914=1929 C 297. Where a Hindu widow who had been enjoying the property as tenant in-common along with her brothers in-law sued to establish her possession and it appeared that her title had not been denied and that she had been receiving rents and profits, held, that there was no dispossession under the Act and that the suit was not barred by limitation 56 C 914.

PARTICULAR CASES—(1) ALLUVION—Where a plea of limitation and denial of plaintiff's title is set up in a suit for possession to accretions by alluvion the onus is on plaintiff to prove title and possession within limitation 34 A 612=17 IC 94. Trespasser whose title is not perfected by adverse possession cannot tack on to his period of possession the period during which the land remained submerged 19 O.C. 374=37 IC 715.

(2) WASTE LAND—[See Vacant Land] In a case where plaintiff sues for possession alleging dispossession by the defendant the onus is on him to prove his possession and the factum of his possession on within twelve years of suit 26 C.W.N. 724 1922 C 557. A suit for possession of waste land is governed by Art. 142 59 IC 891=111 IC 533. Where the plaintiff alleges he had effective possession of a waste land till dispossession by defendant one year prior to suit the onus is on him to prove his possession within twelve years of the suit 60 M.L.J. 430=130 IC 845=1931 M. 282. As regards waste and unoccupied lands the presumption is that possession follows title 39 IC 971 42 IC 412. See also 17 L. 449=1936 L. 208 53 C.L.J. 411=1931 C 501. The mere fact that the land in dispute was such as was not capable of actual continuous physical possession does not necessarily make it waste land so as to attract the application of the principle that possession follows title 58 C.L.J. 478=1934 C 294. In respect of waste land allowed to remain so, there cannot be a discontinuance of possession and the onus is on the defendant to prove when his possession became adverse 25 IC 12, 36 IC 207, 38 IC 120. See also 43 P.L.R. 222=1941 L. 241 (suit by Government for possession of public street).

(3) JUNGLE LAND—In waste and jungle lands possession may be exercised by grazing of cattle, putting up boundary marks, fences, etc. They form no exception to the general rule that the plaintiff must prove possession and dispossession within twelve years 23 C.W.N. 724=1923 C. 557, 1928 C. 118. In the case of ungle land it is not enough for the plaintiff to prove his title. But he can make a case by showing that the land in question was incapable of possession by any one or that in fact no one was interfering with his right. It is possession and not user that should be shown. In such a case the possession of the rightful owner must be held to continue up to the time when the lands are shown to be capable of being possessed. 33 C.W.N. 1766. See also 1937 P. 232. It was admitted that the lands were part and jungle lands, that the plaintiffs had a title to it but the defendant claimed a limited tenancy interest only as against the admitted proprietor, the zemindar Held, that the defendant must either show title to tenancy right by contract or by the fact that he has been in possession for the necessary period and the onus is equally upon him to show the date upon which he came into possession and his title began. Such cases are governed by Art. 142, and not by Art. 142, and it is impossible for the judge in trying such a suit to raise any presumption against the plaintiff by reason of the absence of any witness on the part of the plaintiff. 149 I.C. 453 (2)=1934 P. 339.

(4) INTEREST RIGHTS—Art. 142 applies to a suit for recovery of possession of a jalkar or declaration of plaintiff's title thereto. 34 I.C. 841. See also 23 I.C. 136, 2 P.L.J. 289, 39 I.C. 777.

(5) SERVICE TENURE—A suit by a patidar for possession of resumed lands is governed by Art. 142. 46 I.C. 895.

(6) VACANT LAND—In cases relating to vacant sites, possession follows title and the mere fact that a trespasser has taken possession of a portion of a vacant site cannot affect the constructive possession of the real owner on the portion not trespassed upon. In such cases, the wrongdoer can by lapse of time gain title only to the area actually possessed by him, and in suits governed by Art. 142, it is only with regard to the portion of the site actually in possession of the trespasser that the plaintiff will be required to prove his possession within twelve years. As regards the portion actually built upon by the trespasser, the plaintiffs must show that this portion was a vacant site within twelve years of the suit, and, if they succeed in proving this fact, their constructive possession within the statutory period will be presumed. 17 I. 449=1936 L. 268. See also 1938 O. 214. Waste land—Nature of possession—Absence of specific acts of possession—Effect—Land leased for cultivation—Lessee cultivating bulk of area—Small portion remaining waste but trespassed upon and reclaimed by others—Suit by lessee for possession—Limitation. Art. 142 applies. 17 P. 210=19 P.L.T. 133=1938 P. 222. Where a strip of land in question is a piece of waste land lying on the boundary of one's property, possession of such land must be presumed to be with the person who proves title to the property. 1938 O.W.N. 744=1938 O. 214. In a suit relating to waste lands which falls under Art. 142 it must be determined whether having regard to the evidence as to the nature of the lands and the possession, the plaintiff has been able to establish actual or constructive possession within the statutory period. 70 C.L.J. 534=1940 C. 185. Dispossession, referred to in Art. 142 is a forcible dispossession or ouster and the discontinuance referred to in it, being interpreted ejusdem generis with possession, means something of the nature of an abandonment. So where a suit is based on title and dispossession, Art. 142 or Art. 144 will apply, as the case may be, for a plaintiff may fail to prove title and may yet prove possession within twelve years and win his suit. Where, however, a suit is based on title and an alleged permissive occupancy, Art. 144 applies and the case can be decided fairly on the question of adverse possession. Long and uninterrupted possession of jagir land without rent or term or conditions, in the full sight of the jagirdars, evidenced by permanent houses and not temporary hutments, constitutes adverse possession in the full sense of that word. I.L.R. (1939) Kar 111=1938 Sind 198. Vacant land is capable of physical possession being taken of, if it is enclosed and the owners are deprived of all power over it. 111 I.C. 533. A Court must rely upon the presumption that possession follows title in case of land that was vacant before dispossession occurred where the evidence as to possession is conflicting. 111 I.C. 533, 38 L.W. 952=1933 M. 871=65 M.L.J. 769 (54 M. 622, Ref). If the position of a small isolated plot of uncultivated ground is such that the attention of the plaintiff zemindar would not be specifically directed to the question of whether it is in his mahal or in the mahal of another zemindar, the mere non-interference with the temporary occupation of this plot by the tenant of the other zemindar in the adjacent fields would not constitute any adverse possession. The plaintiff zemindar should be deemed to have continued his constructive possession and it could not be said that he was out of possession within the meaning of Art. 142. 1937 A.L.J. 131=1937 A. 238, 1938 O. 214. I.L.R. (1939) All 454=1939 A.L.J. 91=1939 A. 257.

ENCROACHMENT LAND—Where the dispute relates to certain encroachment land the onus is on the plaintiff who alleges himself to be owner and seeks to recover possession to establish that his possession was within twelve years. The initial fact of the plaintiffs' title comes to his aid in such a case with greater or less force according to the circumstances. 10 L.J. 517=115 I.C. 420.

Mining LAND—As to adverse possession of mining rights in a village granted on lease to defendant, see 58 I.A. 29=10 P. 407=60 M.L.J. 183=1931 P.C. 18 and 186 (P.C.).

SPECIAL CASES—CO-OWNERS—Where a person has begun to hold possession of land adversely to two co-sharers each being the owner of a moiety and before the expiration of the statutory period of limitation succeeds to one moiety upon the death of its owner, his possession continues to be adverse to the owner of the other moiety although he has become jointly interested with the other 38 M.L.J. 313 (P.C.). See also 1939 L 315. But as a general rule, in the absence of proof of ouster, possession of one co-owner or joint tenant is not adverse to other co-owners or joint tenants 64 IC 462. Where brothers and sister are co-sharers and are living amicably together, the brothers cannot establish title by adverse possession against the sister unless they had expressly set up an adverse title to her knowledge 1932 A.L.J. 621=1932 A 666. See also 1933 L 784, (1933) 2 M.L.J. 606. In cases where the litigating parties are co-owners or co-tenants having an equal right to use property for a specified purpose, the presumption of law is that the possession of one is the possession of all. Every such person is seized of the property per my et per tout, and anything short of denial of title cannot destroy the plaintiff's right 14 L 267=1933 L 705 (F.B.). To suits between co-owners or co-tenants inter se where the title of one is denied by the other, Art. 144 or Art. 120 would apply, according as the relief claimed is one for possession or injunction 14 L 267. The mere statement by some of the co-heirs that they are the exclusive heirs of the deceased cannot amount to an overt act which would make the statute of limitation run against the other co-heirs. In such cases in order to prove title by adverse possession there must be ouster 131 IC 105=1931 L 439. See also 134 IC 491. The mere fact that one of them was in exclusive enjoyment of a common well does not lead to the inference of ouster of the other co-owner 12 L 101-1931 L 339. In order that possession may be adverse, there must be (1) a disclaimer of the others' right by and open assertion of a hostile title on the part of the co-owner setting up adverse possession, and (2) notice thereof to others, either direct or to be inferred from notorious acts and circumstances 148 IC 926=1931 Pesh 7, 18 R.D. 39, 1934 A.L.J. 544, 1934 A 193. But exclusive receipt of profits continuously for a long period may point to an ouster, if the Court is satisfied that such taking of profits is an indication of a denial of right in the other co-tenant to receive them 58 B 410-36 Bom L.R. 284=1934 B 273. Where the co-sharer has built his residential house on the land, it amounts to an assertion of hostile and exclusive title to the knowledge of the co-sharers 148 IC 913, 1934 L 84 (1). The question whether the exclusive possession of a co-owner in a joint property amounts to ouster or not depends on the circumstances of each particular case. Different co-owners can be in exclusive possession of different portions of joint property. In such a case, the fact that one person constructs buildings is not such an injury as cannot be remedied in a partition suit 32 P.L.R. 653=1931 L 631. See also 8 O.W.N. 710, 8 O.W.N. 854=1931 O 381. Some overt act necessary 1927 L 887, 7 R 161, 1929 R 211, 1930 O 517. Overt act nullified by subsequent admission of title of true owner 106 IC 814=1928 L 317. If the person possessed of legal title to an estate is also in the enjoyment of the profits of that estate more or less his title cannot be held to have been extinguished by reason of the physical possession of the estate held by another person who has no title to it. Such person cannot put an end to the possession of legal owner by any secret intention in his mind. There must be an ouster or equivalent to an ouster 6 Luck 106=130 IC 65 (2)=1930 O 510. Co-owners—Purchaser from one has right to sue for joint possession 60 IC 589=23 Bom L.R. 60. Art. 144 applies where the question is between a co-partener in a joint Hindu family and a stranger 37 B 84-17 IC 657. See also 54 M.L.J. 394 (P.C.). Where an uncle and a minor nephew are members of a joint Hindu family and a mortgage is effected by the uncle comprising not only the share of the nephew but of the entire land of the uncle and the nephew in a suit for possession by the nephew on the allegation that he is the owner of the property, the uncle cannot be said to be a guardian of the plaintiff within Art. 44 and the alienation is effected by the manager of the joint Hindu family and a suit to set aside such an alienation is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 44 152 IC 633=35 P.L.R. 722=1934 L 601. DEUTER PROPERTY—Adverse possession will also destroy title in lands attached to an idol 36 B. 135=12 I.C. 926. Strong facts may be necessary in order to establish adverse possession in any case in which there is a reasonable possibility that the possession is being held under the idol's title, but where a non shebat is holding property in open derogation of the trust a plea of adverse possession can be sustained 60 C. 54=1933 C. 295=144 I.C. 792. Where a person enters into the possession of property as the mahant of math and holds it on behalf of the math until a certain compromise which he enters into with a rival claimant, the mere fact that the parties to the compromise purport to confer upon each other an unrestricted power of alienation in respect of the endowed property does not change the character of that person's possession and he does not hold the property adversely to the institution from the date of the compromise 62 I.A. 17=39 C.W.N. 433=1935 P.C. 44=68 M.L.J. 499 (P.C.). Under the law which obtained prior to its amendment by the Indian Limitation (Amendment) Act (I of 1929), the article applicable to a suit by a mahant to recover math property transferred by the preceding mahant is Art. 144, and the period of limitation does not begin to run until the death of that mahant 68 M.L.J. 499=57 A. 159=62 I.A. 47 (P.C.), 43 C.W.N. 102=1939 C. 21, 1936 P.C. 183=71 M.L.J. 105 (P.C.). Where a Mahant alienates property appertaining to a math without any legal necessity, the alienation is not void but is good for the period during which the alienor is in office. Where a Mahant alienated the math properties without any necessity, a suit by his successor in office to recover the properties transferred would be governed by Art. 144 and not Art. 134 and would be in time if brought within 12 years of the death of the alienating mahant 12 P. 251=60 I.A. 124=1933 P.C. 75=64 M.L.J. 505 (P.C.). If the alienation is by way of a permanent lease, the succeeding mahant can continue the lease in which case the lessee's possession will not be adverse until the death of that mahant. But when the alienation is by way of a gift in the absence of evidence to show that the possession which became adverse when the original grantor died was kept permissive by subsequent conduct the adverse possession counts from the date of the first mahant, and when completed by possession for the statutory period bars the title of the mutt 152 I.C. 251=67 M.L.J. 430=1934 M. 624. As to lessee from the head of the math claiming adverse possession, see 13 L. 677=140 I.C. 604. A person in adverse possession of property claiming to hold it as mutawalli does not prescribe for more than a routawalli's right in such property and may acquire to that extent the status of a mutawalli. The right of the office and the right to the possession of property are distinct jural concepts 1930 A. 866=129 I.C. 375. See also 40 P.L.R. 319=1938 L. 369 (suit relating to mortgage). Art. 134 does not apply to suits to avoid alienations of the generally endowed property vested in the Sajjadanashin and mutawalli of a wakf. Such suits are governed by Art. 134. Where as a result of the alienations the previous encumbrancers have been paid off, it cannot be said that there were several trespassers in succession so as to bar the true owner after the lapse of 12 years from the date of the earlier mortgage 35 Bom.L.R. 252=1933 B. 217. Where a mutawalli completely transfers wakf property to a stranger by sale or mortgage, the period of limitation for a suit to recover that property begins to run from the date of the alienation. Distinction between cases of permanent lease and sale pointed out 35 Bom L.R. 252. A sale by the mutawalli of wakf property, where the wakf provides for the private benefit of the family of the grantee as well as for the public benefit of a mosque, is valid during the lifetime of the vendor, and a suit by the succeeding mutawalli for a declaration that the sale is invalid and for recovery of possession of the property sold for the mosque is in time, if instituted within 12 years from the date of the death of the mutawalli who sold the property 31 L.W. 396=1930 M 582=58 M.L.J. 524, 37 L.W. 737=61 M.L.J. 706. There is no distinction in this respect between a lease and a sale 1933 M 533=37 L.W. 737=61 M.L.J. 706. Where a sale deed is a mere paper transaction and inoperative a suit by the vendor for possession of the property is governed by Art. 144 and not by Art. 91 I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 546=41 P.L.R. 637=1939 L 544. Where one of the uahuaidars sold his share of the endowed properties, limitation for a suit by another uahuaidar or his representative to set aside the alienation on the ground that the properties were inalienable would run from the date of the alienation 34 Bom L.R. 1469. As to adverse possession of debutter property, see 60 C 54=1933 C 295 and 137 I.C. 487=1932 M 328=62 M.L.J. 496 (Theory of perpetual minority of idol examined), 1932 A.L.J. 836, 34 Bom L.R. 1469 (Right to collect assessment of endowed land). A permanent lease of debutter property by a dharmaakartha when not justified by necessity for the preservation of the endowment, is valid during the tenure of office of the dharmaakartha and is not void ab initio so as to make the possession of lessee adverse from the date of the lease. The proper date from which the adverse possession generally runs in such cases is the date of death, resignation or removal of the dharmaakartha from office 63 I.A. 261=59 M 809=1936 P.C. 183=71 M.L.J. 105 (P.C.). It is, however, within the power of each successive dharmaakartha to authorise, create or continue a new tenancy, and where the successor permits the lessee to continue in possession and receives rent during his tenure of office, the receipt of rent must be deemed to be with the knowledge, which must be imputed to him, that the tenancy created by his predecessor ended with his predecessor's tenure and can therefore only be referable to a new tenancy created by himself, and so with each successive dharmaakartha and consequently the possession of the lessee does not become adverse till anything happens which takes the case out of the operation of the principle 59 M 809 (P.C.). So also in cases where lease is partly for necessity and partly not so 162 I.C. 325=1936 M 262. A trustee of a choultry alienated property belonging to the choultry as his own. He did not purport to pass title as manager of the choultry. Held, that the alienation was void, ab initio and possession of the alienee became adverse from the date of the alienation and not from the death of the trustee 180 I.C. 462=1938 M 60.

In the case of an invalid mortgage, the mortgagee prescribes as such and the result is in the ordinary circumstances that, after the period of limitation expired he is entitled to retain possession until his mortgage is redeemed. Adverse possession is limited to the intention of the person in possession 144 IC 439=14 P 1 T 294=1933 P 288. Under Art 144 the possession of the mortgagor, who redeems the mortgage, does not become adverse as against his co-mortgagor when he recovers possession of the property on redemption 1922 P 129 1923 P 98; 2 Luck 618=4 O W N 713. See also 1930 N 300=127 IC 889. The plaintiffs mortgaged four survey numbers with possession to 2. Subsequently the plaintiff sold the equity of redemption in two of the plots to G and the defendants. Later on the defendants successfully sued to redeem the original mortgage, but did not implead the plaintiffs as parties. The plaintiffs having sued to redeem the mortgage and recover possession of the several items, held, that the decree for redemption which the defendants had obtained created a charge in their favour by virtue of S 93 T P Act, and that the suit by the plaintiffs to recover possession was governed by Art 144 and not Art 148. Held further, that the defendants acquiring the property did not hold as co-sharers and that limitation commenced to run from the date of the possession after redemption 57 B 134 35 Bom LR 48=1933 B 114. Where a person was in undisturbed possession for 25 years under color of an invalid mortgage deed, his possession was with the permission of the mortgagor and that the latter could recover possession of the property (79 IC 232, Rel on) 1928 A 557. The possession by a mortgagee of mortgaged properties is not prima facie adverse to the mortgagor. Also the mere payment of the mortgage money without more cannot amount to adverse possession by the mortgagee after the date of payment 33 CWN 963 120 IC 789 (2). Mortgagor and mortgagee—Equity of redemption conveyed to mortgagee—Sale held to be invalid—Possession under sale is not adverse 53 B 676=31 Bom LR 778. As between the mortgagor and mortgagee neither exclusive possession by the mortgagee for any length of time short of the statutory period of sixty years nor any acquiescence by the mortgagor not amounting to a release of the equity of redemption will be a bar or defence to a suit for redemption if the parties are otherwise entitled to redeem. The proceedings relating to mutation of names in favour of the mortgagee under a void deed of sale does not change the character of possession so as to enable the mortgagee to obtain a title by adverse possession 118 IC 808=1930 O 17. In the case of possessory mortgage, where possession has been delivered to the mortgagee a trespasser obtaining possession may hold adversely to the mortgagee but not to the mortgagor 1929 P 639. So also adverse possession against the mortgagor does not affect the right of the mortgagee when it commences after the mortgage 50 CLJ 317=1930 C 313=34 CWN 519. tenure to be enjoyed as remuneration for services, the fact that no services have been performed for any length of time cannot by itself make the holding adverse. In order to make the possession adverse, there must be a refusal to perform the service or a claim to hold the land free of service. 1933 M 668. See also 1910 M W N 404 = A I R 1911 M 217.

TACKING—Having regard to the definition of "plaintiff" in S 2, sub-S (8) of the Limitation Act, a plaintiff claiming title by adverse possession cannot "tack" the possession of an independent trespasser from or through whom he does not derive his right to sue. [Dixon v Goyere, (1853) 17 Beav 421—51 E R 1097, Rel on.] But a mortgagor can, for the purposes of the Limitation Act avail himself of and tack "on to his own adverse possession the adverse possession of his mortgagee. 61 I A 78 = 61 C 362 = 1934 P C 23 = 66 M L J 134 (P C). See 1923 N 274.

TRUSTEESHIP—The person concerned can sue for obtaining control or management of a religious institution within 12 years under Art 144 when misapplication is not proved and the defendant does not deny the fact of his being a trustee. 43 M 253 = 37 M L J 460 (on appeal from 33 I C 216 = 1915 M W N 657). As between co-trustees, see 39 M L T 214 = 1927 M 948. If a person could extend the time for suing by alleging that he had mistaken the meaning of an instrument a most serious inroad would be made into the law of limitation and that quieting of title which is the reason for and the policy behind the statutes of limitation would be gravely disturbed. Hence if a trustee alienates property which he honestly believes to be his own but which on a true construction of the deed of trust belongs to the cestui que trust time which the trustee allows to pass owing to this mistake, counts when computing limitation for suit against alienee for possession. 180 I C 462 = 1938 M 60.

PARTITION SUIT—Suit by an heir for his share in a Mahomedan's property is governed by Art 144 and time runs from the date when the attempt to exclude or deny his right is made. 58 I C 42 = 44 B 943. See also 1922 L 993. Art 144 applies to a suit for partition between tenants in common although a tenant has acquired his rights by a purchase at Court auction. 29 I C 976 = 28 M L J 642. Art 144 and not Art 127 is applicable to a suit by one member of a family against another who is separate and divided from him for possession of immovable property which is not joint family property. Art 144 also applies to a suit by such a divided member to recover possession of property which has continued undivided after the division of the members of the family, because such property is no longer "joint family property". 58 I A 106 = 1931 P C 48 = 60 M L J 386 (P C). See also 31 N L R.

(Supp.) 191 = 162 I C 577 = 1936 N 80. As to suit to reopen a partition and to readjust the shares of the parties thereto, on the ground that certain properties allotted to the share of the plaintiff really belonged to a third party, see 54 M 883 = 1931 M 907 = 61 M L J 430 cited under Art 96.

WASTE LAND—As to adverse possession in respect of see 1927 L 753, 100 I C 51. In respect of follow land possession must be taken to follow title. 106 I C 130. See also 100 I C 51 = 1927 I 230, 98 I C 880. In the case of waste land possession is presumed to be with the owner and the mere fact that the owner has allowed his land to remain waste does not amount to a discontinuance of possession. 120 I C 702 = 1930 L 303. 1923 L 25. There is no rule to the effect that adverse possession cannot be acquired in respect of waste lands. 117 I C 636 = 1929 P 624. Tethering of cattle, keeping dung cakes, building a khurl and passing over the vacant site do not amount to adverse possession. 11 L L J 91 = 115 I C 71 = 1929 L 432. But they, taken in conjunction with the fact that the defendant had enclosed the land in dispute which had been in existence for a period much longer than twelve years would be sufficient proof of adverse possession. 1934 L 684.

MISCELLANEOUS—A person obtaining possession under a pre-emption decree should be deemed to be in actual physical exclusive and continued possession. 13 R D 707 = 1929 O 433. Possession if not permissive is adverse. It may be adverse even to the vendor in a case between the vendor and the vendee. (4 B 89, Rel on.) 33 C W N 117 = 119 I C 123 = 1929 C 218. Distinction as to starting point in case of void and voidable transfer. See 1938 M 60. Licence to build—Licensee not repudiating title of owner—Plea of adverse possession by licensee is not sustainable. 31 Bom L R 310. Where a conditional decree for possession has not been executed the possession of the defendant becomes adverse to the plaintiff which would mature into ownership after 12 years. 133 I C 555 (L). Lease by agent of principal's property—Suit to set it aside is governed by Art 144. 1931 M W N 856. Art 131 B has no application to a transfer of wakf property by a person who professes to make the transfer in his own right and in a secular capacity. The only article which can have any application to such a case is Art 144 and limitation begins from the date on which the transferor obtained possession of the disputed property in the assertion of a hostile title to the wakf. 73 C L J 475.

APPLICABILITY OF ARTICLE—See 1927 L 828, 1936 Pat 63, 1927 O 457, 1 Luck 529, 1927 A 311 In the case of a mortgage by conditional sale executed before 1882, i.e., before the T P Act came into force the mortgagor has a statutory right under the Bengal Regulations I of 1798 and XVII of 1806 to redeem within any stipulated period provided in the deed Therefore even if there had been only a period of some years in the deed, the statutory right existed by which the mortgagors could have redeemed from the date of execution and a suit for redemption brought after more than 60 years would therefore be barred by the period of limitation under Art 148 ILR (1939) All 990=1939 ALJ 1127=1940 All 29 When a mortgage deed provides that, if the mortgagor pays the mortgage money in the month of any Jeth within ten years the property would be redeemed and that, if the property is not redeemed within ten years the mortgagee would become its owner, the mortgagor's right to redeem arises on the first Jeth succeeding the date of the mortgage, and a suit for redemption instituted more than sixty years after the first Jeth would, therefore, be barred by time 1936 ALJ 1358=1937 A 32 See also 1940 Mad 639 Where a plaintiff in a suit for redemption of a Malabar kanom (usufructuary mortgage) seeks to dispossess persons who have been in possession for about 72 years, he should be required to prove positively that there is a subsisting mortgage which he is entitled to redeem and that must be proved by actual proof that the mortgage was executed within the period of limitation or by proof of a valid acknowledgment which would save limitation. It is enough for him to prove that the mortgage was executed in a month of which the last 28 days would be within limitation and the first two days outside There is no legal presumption that an event took place on any particular day within the month in which it is known to have taken place No such presumption if one exists can take the place of positive proof of the actual starting point when a suit is challenged as barred by limitation. 1940 MWN 446=1940 Mad 639 Suit by pawner mortgagor for redemption of a prior mortgage is governed by Art 148 and Art 132 14 L 596=34 P 1

ARTICLE—Where land belonged to the Crown when it emerged out of the sea and plaintiff claims adverse possession against Government, he has to prove possession for the full period of 60 years. Proof of less period does not shift the onus on to the Government to show that plaintiff's possession began within 60 years. 39 M 617=31 MLJ 324 (PG) (On appeal from 33 M 1=20 MLJ 66), 16 IC 626=12 MLT 159 is not now good law. When adverse possession is asserted as against the Government, it is not necessary that the adverse character of the possession should be actually brought home to the knowledge of the Government. It is sufficient that the possession be overt and without any attempt at concealment, and if the rights of the Government have been openly usurped, it cannot be pleaded that the fact was not brought to its notice. Apart from the longer period of limitation allowed to the Government by Art 149, there is no discrimination in the Act between the Government and the subject as regards the requisites of adverse possession. 61 A 78=61 C 262=1934 PG 23=66 MLJ 134 (PC.) decree or judgment 1936 L 742 The "date of the decree" in Art. 152 is the date when the judgment is delivered in accordance with O 20, R 7, C P Code, and not the date when the Acts whether sufficient to constitute adverse possession—Government granting treepatta of decree is signed or prepared. In a case where the decree, or the judgment and the decree are amended on an application under S 152, C P Code, the judgment or decree is not superseded in the eye of law, such amendment does not give the appellant a fresh starting point of limitation for filing his appeal. The time for filing the appeal runs from the date when the original judgment was pronounced, and if it is filed beyond time, the time can only be extended on an application made under S 5 of the Limitation Act 40 C W N 83=165 I C 53.

Art 154—The 'order contemplated by Art 154 is the finding that is recorded under S 476, Cr P Code, and consequently time for appeal begins to run from the time when the finding is recorded or is supplemented by an actual complaint. The fact that an appellant may not know that a complaint has been filed till after 30 days prescribed by Art. 154, have expired is immaterial as the appellate Court can excuse the delay under S 5 of the Act 52 B 164=108 I C 25=1928 B 64. Where a Court refuses to complain under S 476, Cr P Code, it amounts to an order to the effect that it will not complain and an appeal is governed by Art 154 1931 M W N 1064. The decisions in 40 C 239, 1 L 602 and 39 M 750 holding that applications made to a higher Court in proceedings under S 195, Cr P Code, are not appeals to which the article is applicable, are not good law. The time for 'filing an appeal under S 476-B Cr P Code' has according to Art 154 to be computed from the date of the complaint. But if the person against whom the complaint is filed is ignorant of the filing of such a complaint and on coming to know of it files an appeal within 30 days of his knowledge in such a case time can be extended under S 5 1938 N L J 183.

Art 155—Application for leave to appeal under S 449 Cr P Code is governed by the 60 days' period under this article 54 C 52=101 I C 657=1927 C 307. Also appeal to High Court under S 476-B, Cr P Code 104 I C 466=1927 C 718. In cases coming under ss 562 and 563, Cr P Code, the proceedings fall into two parts—the sentence does not immediately follow the conviction but that does not deprive the person convicted of the right given him by S 408 of appealing against either conviction only, or sentence only, or both. A person against whom a conviction is recorded under S 562 and who is subsequently sentenced more than 60 days after the recording of the conviction can appeal against the sentence if he does so within 60 days from the date of the sentence 1940 Rang I R 386=1940 Rang 257.

Art 156—Where judgment is pronounced on one day and the decree is to be passed on a later date on plaintiffs complying with a certain condition, time begins to run for purposes of appeal from the date of the decree 34 I C 807=9 S L R 193. Appeal to High Court—Starting point of limitation—Date of judgment 28 Punj L R 137=100 I C 909. See 135 I C 828=1932 R 54. See also 1941 Pesh 74. Although rules of the Lahore High Court require that an order of appointment of a guardian of property of minor should be conditional on furnishing a bond, still where the order appointing a guardian is not in these terms, it becomes final on the date on which it is passed and not on the date on which the security furnished is accepted and the period of limitation begins to run from the date of the order 41 P L R 592=1939 Lah 170. Where an ex parte decree was set aside by the Court which passed it within the appealable period and therefore no appeal was thereafter competent to the defendant but the High Court, in revision, restored the ex parte decree, limitation runs only from the date of the order of the High Court reversing the ex parte order and not from the date of the ex parte order itself. Art 164 OLD AND NEW ACT—APPLICABILITY—Limitation to be applied is that under the law existing at the time when the application was made 37 A 597=30 IC 573 If the right of defendant to make an application was lost under Art 164 of Act of 1877 the provisions of Art 164 of the new Act of 1908 cannot revive the right having regard to S 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 15 IC 551=39 C 506

SCOPE OF ARTICLE—It is only when summons is not duly served that ignorance of decree saves limitation 108 IC 753 Art 164 governs an application to set aside an ex parte decree passed on the original side of the High Court Such an application should therefore, be made not later than thirty days from the date of the decree or the date of the applicant's knowledge of the decree 46 C W N 280 Where a suit was adjourned at the instance of defendant's counsel but the defendant or his counsel did not appear on the adjourned date, and the suit was decreed ex parte held, that the case was not one where the summons was not duly served 1931 L 268 Knowledge of the suit on a particular date is wholly immaterial knowledge of the decree within 30 days is material for computing time 1930 L 397 See also 1931 I 268

CONSTRUCTION—NATURE OF KNOWLEDGE OF DECREE—The knowledge of the decree mentioned in Art 164 is knowledge of the particular decree and not a knowledge of a decree A vague information about there being a decree is not sufficient for the period of limitation to run against the applicant The question whether the knowledge which an applicant had on a particular date can be said to be a knowledge of the decree, is practically a question of fact and in a case where applicant filed an application for time in the execution proceedings, from the fact that he knew that a decree was under execution it cannot be inferred that he had complete information about the decree 18 Pat L T 72=1937 P 17 See also 47 B 485 27 N L R 53=134 IC 279=1931 N 119 'knowledge' in Art 164 means certain and clear conception of a fact i.e., of the decree in the particular case and not of a decree 38 C 391=15 C W N 309 See also 09 IC 621=1927 M 381, 46 IC 777 The time is 30 days from the date of the applicant's knowledge of the decree and not 30 days of the knowledge of the suit 1933 P 279=12 P 735=14 Pat L T 326

BURDEN OF PROOF—Where application to set aside ex parte decree is made more than 30 days after date of decree, the onus is on defendant to show that he presented the same within 30 days of his having knowledge of decree 109 IC 82, 1930 L 191, 1929 L 235 107 IC 284, 139 IC 131 (L) See also 164 IC 286=1936 R 305, 1926 L 379, 1938 Cal 535

SCOPE AND APPLICATION—The limitation laid down in Art 164 applies to the case of a defendant only 24 IC 27, 41 C 819 See also 38 M 442=21 IC 568, 25 A L J 1032 (deposit under S 17, Provincial Small Cause Courts Act) Art 164 applies not only to decrees but to orders in executions which are decrees in Civil Procedure Code 37 M 462=26 M L J 189 An order under O 21, R 30, sub-cl (2) and (3) granting leave to execute the decree against a partner is not a decree and consequently Art 164 can have no application 31 Bom L R 995=1929 B 386 A decision given under S 152, C P Code, granting an application for amendment of a decree is an order and not a decree Hence an application to set aside such an order is governed by Art 181 and not by Art 164 145 IC 823=1933 R 264 Time cannot be extended under S 151, C P Code, or Limitation Act, S 5 1922 L 266, 144 IC 394 (Nag) The mere fact that the original application to set aside an ex parte decree which was made in time was consigned to the record room would not in any way necessitate a fresh application 55 IC 824 A subsequent application must be considered as merely one in continuance of the suspended original application Consequently no question of limitation arises in such a case 55 IC 824 An application to set aside an order of adjudication of an insolvent passed ex parte has to be made under O 9 R 13 C P Code, and is governed by Art 164 138 IC 317=1932 L 522 The limitation applicable for setting aside an ex parte decree under S 150 of the Companies Act of 1882 is that provided by Art 164 1 L 187=55 IC 820 Act not applicable to proceedings on the original side of High Court 32 C W N 411 Application to set aside ex parte decree—Security bond filed with application, but not verified—Verification after limitation period Held, that the bond though not verified in the first instance, was perfectly good and effective and that the application was within time (29 A L J 1049 Ref) 1933 A L J 992=1933 A 933 See also 11 C W N 1639=1935 O 35

MEANING OF WORDS—"DEFENDANT"—The word "defendant" is wide enough to include the executor of the original defendant (since deceased) though not on record 38 M 442 "SUMMONS"—The summons referred to in Art. 164 is the summons for the first hearing of the case, and there is no essential difference between the case where a suit is adjourned owing to the absence of the presiding officer or some other cause and a case in which a suit is remanded for retrial by the appellate Court. The underlying principle in such cases is that where the existence of the suit has been brought to the notice of the defendants by due service of a summons on them, it is their duty thereafter to inform themselves of what is being done in the case. 154 IC 429=1935 Pesh 7

"DULY SERVED"—The words "duly served" in Art 164 are used in the same sense as in O 5, R 19 of the Code, and means "served" in such a manner as to give the defendant information of the proceedings taken against him. 42 IC 611=11 SLR 71. See also 1928 M 655=54 M L J 448, 1928 M W N 49=1928 M 815, 1927 M 507=52 M L J 477, 1927 M 487=52 M L J 512, 38 C W N 1066, 1939 Rang 436. A defendant, who has been duly served cannot get an ex parte decree set aside unless he can show that he was prevented unavoidably from appearing at the hearing and Art 164 is a bar if he does not seek to set it aside within 30 days after the decree. 27 IC 351=8 SLR 153. Duly 'served' in Art 164 cannot be construed to exclude a case where a summons was not served in sufficient time. 27 IC 351. In the case of substituted service a summons is duly served for the purpose of Art 164, even though it does not in fact come to the defendant's knowledge and as time runs from the date of the decree in such cases, an application for setting aside an ex parte decree made after the expiry of 30 days from the date of the decree is clearly barred by limitation. 131 IC 344=1931 L 118. In the case of substituted service, the article lays down that when the order is rightly made and the service directed by the order is properly effected, knowledge of the defendant is immaterial and time runs from the date of the decree. 122 IC 35=1930 M 222, 1931 O 369=132 IC 778. Where, however, an order for substituted service is improperly obtained as being made on insufficient material contained in an application supported by affidavit the summons cannot be said to have been duly served within the meaning of Art 164, and the time accordingly runs not from the date of the decree but from the date when it first came to the knowledge of the defendant. 122 IC 35=1930 M 222, 1924 L 191. Substituted service cannot always be deemed to be due service within the meaning of Arts 164 and 169. Due service is one which is believed to be effect of service by bringing the claim against him to the knowledge of the defendant or respondent. 134 IC 1202=1931 M 813=61 M L J 920. See also 1931 M 812=61 M L J 931, 1931 A L J 1049=1931 A 727 (F B), 1939 Rang 436=1939 Rang L R 606.

NOTICE—Where summons is once served, absence of notice of adjourned hearing will not attract the application of Art 164. 57 IC 15, 139 IC 354=1932 L 539. Article does not apply to a case where the defendant alleges service of summons but that he had no knowledge of any of the proceedings. 13 IC 642, 1912 M W N 361. The notice of the application for final decree being as effectual as if it had been served on him personally, the limitation for his application to set aside the ex parte decree runs from the date of the decree. 1923 N 13. Where the summons is served on a defendant too late to afford him sufficient opportunity of appearing at the hearing of the suit it is not a case of a summons 'duly served' within the meaning of O 9 R 13 C P Code. In such cases the Court ought to issue fresh summons. An omission on the part of such a defendant to prosecute inquiry which might have led to a knowledge of the date of hearing cannot be regarded as culpable or wilful so as to carry with it the consequence of knowledge. Such a defendant will be within time if he applies for setting aside the ex parte decree within 30 days of actual knowledge of the decree. 53 L W 246=1941 Mad 435=(1941) 1 M L J 319.

APPEAL—No appeal lies against refusal of an application to set aside an ex parte decree. There is no inherent power to extend time prescribed by Art 164. 1 P 277=1922 P 479.

REVISION—The lower Court acting on certain decisions then in vogue held substituted service was due service. Subsequently a slightly modified view was taken in other cases. Held it was not a case for interference in revision. 138 IC 146=1932 M 472.

ART 165 SCOPE AND APPLICABILITY—Where the judgment creditor fails to apply for removal of an obstruction under O 21, R 97, within 30 days he is not debarred from making an application under O 21, R 35 to obtain a fresh warrant for possession. He need not file a suit for that purpose. Art 165 has nothing to do with such an application for warrant for possession. 146 IC 11=35 Bom. L R 1035=1933 B 457 (F B). But it will be applicable notwithstanding the fresh order for possession to a subsequent application in respect of the same obstruction and if the obstruction is by the same person and in the same character, the mere fact that the decree-holder is applying under a fresh warrant for possession

Under Art 173, 90 days' time is allowed to the petitioners for review from the date of their knowledge, but the contention that, where the knowledge is after that period, there is no period prescribed by the Limitation Act and Art 181, at most applies is wrong 119 IC 99=1929 A 545

Art 174—Art 174 is applicable only to a case where the judgment-debtor seeks to inform the Court of a payment alleged to have been made by him out of Court to the decree holder. Art 176—Neither Art 176 nor Art 177 applies to a case where the deceased is neither plaintiff nor an appellant nor a defendant nor a respondent, but is merely an applicant or opponent, in a proceeding which is instituted as a preliminary step to the filing of a suit or as an appeal 28 SLR 150=148 IC 819=1934 S 36. the application for possession was made after the coming into force of the Act the application is governed by Art 180 and is barred, if not made within three years from the date when the sale became absolute 27 IC 420. An application for delivery of property sold in Court auction should be made within 3 years from the date when the sale becomes absolute. In construing the meaning of words "when the sale becomes absolute in Art 180, regard must be had not only to the provisions of O 21, R 92 (1) but also to the other material sections and orders of the Code including those which relate to appeals from orders made under O 21, R 92 (1). Where, therefore, there is an appeal from an order of the Judge disallowing the application to set aside the sale, the sale will not become absolute within the meaning of Art 180, until the disposal of the appeal even though the Judge may have confirmed the sale, as he was bound to do when he decided to disallow the above mentioned application (1932 C 75 Rev, 56 C 608, Overr.) 61 LA 248=61 C 945=1934 PC 134=67 MLJ 79 (PC), 62 C 66=1935 C 333. An application by a decree holder purchaser for delivery of possession of the properties purchased by him in Court auction is not an application to execute the decree and is governed by Art 180 32 IC 993=3 LW 191, 103 IC 335. See also 7 LW 16=43 IC 15. Application under O 21, R 90 and 92—After statutory period—Sale partially set aside—Application by purchaser for possession—Limitation—Suspension of. Art 181 CONSTRUCTION OF ARTICLE.—The expression "right to apply" in Art 181 should not be rigidly construed 18 VLR 58=1922 N 217. Art 181 does not apply to an application under S 16 of the Telegraph Act such an application being in the nature of a plaint 44 PLR 275.

APPLICABILITY OF ARTICLE.—GENERAL.—Art 181 is a residuary article adapted to many different classes of applications. The words in the third column are only the expression of a broad common law principle. They have to be interpreted and applied according to the substance of each case 60 C 19=1933 C 231.

As to the scope of the article, see 8 Pat LT 28. Art 181 applies to all applications for making of which the C P Code gives authority and to no others 1 L 187=55 IC 820, 102 IC 543=1927 N 262, 39 IC 553 (P), 145 IC 893=1933 ALJ 1283=1933 A 789 (FB). The preparation of a decree sheet in a partition suit is merely a ministerial act to which the provisions of Art 181 do not apply 188 IC 577=42 PLR 148=1940 Lah 202. Order for final decree for partition—Application offering to file stamp paper to have final decree engrossed on it is not subject to limitation 1937 Oudh 409. See also 60 IC 123=12 LW 535 (Act applies only to applications under C P Code). But see 54 A 1067=60 IA 13, 64 MLJ 403=1933 PC 63 (PC) in which the question as to the applicability of the article to applications by the Liquidator under Art 186 Companies Act, was doubted. Art 181 applies to all applications to Civil Court, unless they are governed by some other article or provision 1928 N 194. In determining whether the article applies the substance of the application and not its mere form is to be looked to 49 A 276=25 ALJ 201=1927 A 16 (FB). See also 19 NLJ 101 (application under S 62 C P Tenancy Act). Where a sale is void ab initio for want of jurisdiction it is not necessary for an applicant to ask the Court to order the purchaser to deliver back to him the property on the ground that he had obtained no title to it. Where the applicant makes such an application, it is governed by Art 181 and not by Art 166, and the mere fact that he has also asked for setting aside the sale will not affect the nature of the application 1937 R 126. See 1940 CWN 105=1940 Pat 303 1936 Pat 496=42 CWN 87, 1940 Pat 192. A decision given under S 152, C P Code, granting an application for amendment of a decree is an order and not a decree. Hence, an application to set aside such an order is governed by Art 181 and not by Art 164 145 IC 823=1933 R 264. The Limitation Act provides periods with reference to suits, appeals and applications, the last being matters arising out of suit. It has no application to proceedings in insolvency 29 IC 168=17 MIT 317. See also 60 IC 123=12 LW 535, 52 IC 188=1924 L 331. Art 181 governs application for an order absolute under S 89 1 P Act, and limitation commences on the date of the appellate decree L.R. 3 PC 174 (PC). An application for making conditional decree passed by consent absolute would be governed by Art 181 1923 A 29. An application under

RESTITUTION—APPLICATION FOR.—Where a judgment-debtor who has been dispossessed of property not covered by the decree in execution thereof, applies for recovery of possession, the application is governed by Art 181 and not by Art 113 24 Bom.L.R. 771=46 H 1031 5 Lah.L.J. 769=1921 L 166. See also 41 I.W. 78=71 M.L.J. 703, 1937 R.D. 21. Art 181 is applicable to an application for restitution. Time will run against judgment-debtor only from the date when the erroneous decree is superseded 24 C.L.J. 467=38 I.C. 17-21 C.W.N. 561. See also 1938 A.W.R. (B.R.) 113=1938 R.D. 182 1910 A.W.R. The right to apply for restitution accrues really on the date when for the first time a decision is given which entitles the party asking for restitution to have restitution 1933 C 422=144 I.C. 150. Where a decree is passed by the trial Court but reversed in appeal and the reversal is confirmed in second appeal the time for an application under S. 144, C.P. Code, runs from the date of the first appellate decree and the period taken up in second appeal cannot be deducted 1932 A.L.J. 724=1932 A 609, 150 I.C. 1096=1934 A.L.J. 503=1934 A 6-6 (F.B.) But see 1933 R. 180=11 R. 275, 1937 R.D. 21, holding that Art 182 applies to such applications and that even if Art 181 applies time begins to run from the date of the final decree. An application for restitution is in reality an application for execution of a decree and it is governed not by Art 181 but by Art 182, 44 L.W. 798=1937 Mad. 150=71 M.L.J. 795. Where an appellate Court has ordered restitution to a person who has been dispossessed under a decree and an appeal against that order has been dismissed by the High Court, the period of limitation under Art 181 for an application for assessment of mesne profits begins to run from the date of the order of the High Court 130 I.C. 78=1931 O 51. See also 150 I.C. 1096 (F.B.) noted above and 17 N.L.J. 281. Where an ex parte decree is set aside, application for restitution is governed by Art 181 and time runs from the date of the order setting aside the decree 32 P.L.R. 395=134 I.C. 206=1931 L 504. Application to enforce order of P.C. to obtain restitution—Art 183 applies 26 A.L.J. 587. See also I.L.R. (1940) Cal. 486=44 C.W.N. 438=1940 Cal. 260.

REVIVAL OR CONTINUANCE OF EXECUTION.—APPLICATION FOR.—See 11 I.C. 972, 61 I.C. 817, 22 Pat.L.T. 992. If as a result of execution, a decree has been satisfied and if the decree holder is compelled to refund or restore the property as a result of proceedings taken subsequently by the judgment-debtor or by a third party, the satisfied decree revives on the refund or the restoration of the property and an application to execute the revived decree would be competent within three years from the time when the right to apply accrued to the decree holder. In such cases, the starting point for an application would be the date when the decree holder is compelled to refund

the amount or restore the property. Where the High Court merely declares that the execution proceedings are ineffectual and it is the executing Court that orders restitution limitation runs from date on which restitution takes place 1935 L 166. Where a decree holder is prevented by an injunction from executing his decree, he must apply for execution within three years from termination of the injunction period, to save his decree from being barred 42 A 564=56 IC 1006. See also 166 IC 950=18 Pat LT 90=1937 P 43, 1927 A 802, 49 A 276=25 A L J 201=1927 A 16 (FB), 100 IC 790, 148 IC 525=1934 A L J 363=1934 A 294. But see 11 L W 42 and other cases cited infra. An execution application, which has not been judicially disposed of but simply removed from the Court's file for statistical purposes does not require to be revived. The Court had only to be apprised of in some recognized manner, and a subsequent application presented to the High Court requesting it to deal with the prior pending application, is not one to which either Art 181 or 182 of the Act applies 55 IC 526=11 L W 42. See also 19 L W 20=45 M L J 822, 118 IC 769, 133 IC 316=1931 A 458=1931 A L J 436, 58 C 1113=134 IC 939=35 C W N 510 (execution stayed until further orders). All applications are not governed by the Limitation Act. Art 181 does not apply to an application to continue execution proceedings which have been stayed I L R (1940) All 245=1940 A L J 180=1940 All 151 (FB). Art 182 does not apply to the case of an application to revive and carry through a pending execution and such an application is not barred if brought more than 3 years after proceedings had ceased to be pending 36 M 553=14 IC 264=24 M L J 545. Where, owing to an order staying a sale in execution of a decree, the decree holder is prevented from taking further steps in the execution proceedings a subsequent application for execution must be treated as an application to continue the previous proceedings or to revive or carry through a pending execution which was suspended by no act or default of the decree holder 50 IC 116=20 O C 75. See also 53 IC 426=6 O L J 656 142 IC 534=1933 M 325=38 L W 268 22 P L T 99. In such a case limitation is three years from the date on which the stay came to an end 142 IC 534=1933 M 325=38 L W 268. An application for reviving execution proceedings is governed by Art 181 and the time commences to run from the time when the right to apply first accrues. The general principles of suspension of limitation might be applied in cases where a plaintiff or decree holder is prevented under the circumstances from taking action in pursuance of his rights. It cannot be said that by reason of an appeal against the order setting aside the sale the decree holder should be considered to be prevented from making a fresh application for execution of his decree 31 C W N 102=1930 C 229. The application was barred by limitation as it was made more than three years from the date when the sale was set aside 31 C W

N 102=1930 Cal 329. Application for reviving execution proceedings, filed within 3 years after the petition for setting aside ex parte decree was finally disposed of in appeal was held to be in time 35 C W N 540. Where, on an application by the judgment-debtor, the satisfaction of the decree was recorded by the lower Court and where this order was reversed on appeal and the decree holder subsequently applied for execution, held that Art 181 applied, and that time began to run from the date of the appellate decree, i.e., from the date when the bar to the executability of the decree was removed 38 L W 557=1933 M 785=63 M L J 747. If execution case is struck off at request of decree holder on his own statement, subsequent application by him will not be in revival of the prior one. So Art 181 will not apply but only Art 182 1937 A L J 372. Application for substitution under R 11 of O 22, C P Code—Starting point of limitation 10 P L T 763=1929 P 565 (FB).

EXECUTION AGAINST SURETY—Period of limitation for execution against the surety who had executed a surety bond when the decree was first put into execution, undertaking to pay the decree amount in case the decree holder failed to realise the amount from the judgment-debtor does not run under any of the clauses of Art. 182 which is not exhaustive of all execution applications. Art 181 applies to such a case. Limitation is 3 years from the date when the decree was kept alive against the judgment-debtor 1933 O 209=143 IC 808=8 Luck. 427. See also 41 C W N 1099=1937 Cal 452=63 M L J 507 noted infra under Art. 182. Surety for judgment-debtor undertaking to produce him on each date of hearing—Failure to produce him on certain date—Execution proceedings terminating after several subsequent hearings—Execution against surety—Limitation. See 158 IC 459=1935 L 174 (2).

REVIVAL OF SUIT—APPLICATION FOR—An application by a Hindu reversioner to continue a suit instituted by a nearer reversioner since deceased is governed by Art 181 49 IC 268=9 L W 166. An application on the death of the plaintiff by a person on whose behalf the suit was filed by the plaintiff in a representative capacity to be brought on the record as ex nomine plaintiff is governed by Art 181 54 M 770=132 IC 289=1931 M 590=60 M L J 659. An application to the Court to restore a suit in the exercise of its inherent power is governed by Art 181 47 IC 137.

MISCELLANEOUS—An application by the judgment-debtor to set aside sale on the ground that the sale was without jurisdiction is governed not by Art 166 but by the residuary Art 181 163 IC 34=1936 P 495. Execution sale—Property of co-owner included in—Symbolical delivery of possession—Transferee from co-owner not having notice of sale and delivery—Application by transferee to establish his title within 3 years of his knowledge is within the art 181. The starting point of limitation is the date when his possession was sought to be interfered with 1929 M W N 811=1930 M 12

An application by the legal representatives of a deceased decree-holder for reviving the execution proceedings dismissed for default on the death of the decree-holder is not governed either by Art 181 or 182 of the Limitation Act. The Code of Civil Procedure nowhere provides for such an application. It is a proceeding by which the inherent jurisdiction of the Court is invoked. The Court will exercise its inherent powers if it considers that justice requires its exercise and if it is satisfied that there are no such laches on the part of the applicant which would disentitle him to relief. 46 C W N 326. Where a decree for money is made payable in instalments and in default of payment of any instalment the whole decretal amount becomes payable immediately, it is open to the decree holder to apply for execution even after three years from the date of default, and to recover such of the instalments as have become due within three years of the date of his application. A default clause in an instalment decree is certainly for the benefit of the decree holder and his failure to avail himself of it should not be held to deprive him of the remedy he would have apart from the clause. It is open to the decree holder either to apply for the full amount on default or to waive that privilege. 163 I C 937—38 Bom L R 492—1936 B 268. Article 181 applies to an application for restitution under S 144 C P Code. An application under S 144 is not an application for execution and Art 182 does not apply to such an application. 40 P L R 692—1938 Lah 456. See also 41 P L R 208—1939 Lah 73, 1938 A W R (B R) 113. The application for execution against the sureties is an application for execution of a decree as by operation of S 145 C P Code the sureties become judgment debtors under the decree. Such an application for execution therefore comes under Art 182. It cannot come under Art 181, Limitation Act 41 C W N 1099—1937 Cal 452. Art 182 the Limitation Act has no application to the execution of a decree for possession of immovable property conditional on the payment of a sum of money on a future date. Art 181 is the article applicable to an application for execution of such a decree, and time begins to run from the date of the decree or at any rate on the date fixed for payment of the Arts 181 and 183—An application for a final decree for sale in a mortgage suit in the High Court, under O 34, R 5 C P Code, is governed by Art 181 and not by Art 183. An application for a final decree in a mortgage suit is barred by limitation under Art 181 if made more than three years after the date of the preliminary decree passed under O 31, R 4, C P Code. Such an application is not one to enforce the preliminary decree and Art 183 is therefore, inapplicable. 43 C W N 537. See also 13 Rang 325. An application made under S 144 C P Code, to have restitution in consequence of an order of His Majesty in Council is governed by Art 181, and not by Art 183. Such an application cannot be regarded as one for enforcement of the final judgment or decree within the meaning of Art 183 but is one for relief which is consequential upon the appellate Court's decree of reversal. 1 L R (1910) 1 Cal 486—44 C W N 438, 1910 Cal 260. Art 182 APPLICABILITY—Where a decree-holder applies for execution and the judgment-debtor being entitled to and having had an opportunity to raise a plea of limitation does not do so and an order for execution by attachment is made on the application, the judgment debtor is precluded from raising that plea at a subsequent stage in the execution proceedings. 37 C W N 752—1933 C 855, also where a decree holder could have applied for fresh execution at any time after the dismissal of first execution petition, but the delay is due to his own negligence or laches and not to any defect in the decree or to any circumstances connected with the decree which prevented him from putting in an application for execution, Art 182 applies. 59 M 759—44 L W 403—1936 M 284—71 M L J 180. EXECUTION AGAINST SURETY—Art 182 is not exhaustive of all execution applications. Period of limitation for execution against a surety who had executed a surety bond when the decree was first put into execution undertaking to pay the decree amount in case the decree holder failed to realise the amount from the judgment-debtor, does not run under any of the clauses of Art 182. Art 181 applies to such a case 1933 O 209. See also (1940) 2 M.L.J. 831. It was held in the case of execution against a surety who had executed a surety bond at the time of attachment before judgment, that limitation on the bond began to run from the date of the decree itself and that execution was barred under Art 182 142 I.C. 368=1933 M. 219=37 L.W. 127. Surety for movables attached in execution—Limitation—Application for arrest of second surety—Prior application for recognition of assignment of decree and for arrest of first surety, if available to save limitation as against surety. Held that (i) steps taken in execution against the judgment-debtor are not steps against the sureties nor are steps in execution against sureties steps in execution of the decree itself so that the proceedings for the recognition of the assignment of the decree did not save limitation, (ii) that the application was governed by Art 181 and not Art 182, (iii) that the application for the arrest of the first surety, in which no relief was sought against the second surety, did not save limitation against the second surety and that the petition was, therefore, barred by limitation 38 L.W. 450=1933 M. 722=65 M.L.J. 507.

Art 182 (2) SCOPE AND EFFECT.—See 6 P 780=B Pat 1 T 379=1927 P 215. The word "appeal" in Art 182 (2) means an appeal the result of which affects the decree sought to be executed. It does not mean any appeal which only affects the decree holder's right to execute it at a particular time and in a particular circumstance. An appeal against an order dismissing an application by the judgment-debtor to record satisfaction of the decree, which would leave the decree valid and without modification, cannot be regarded as an "appeal" within the meaning of Art. 182 (2), for purposes of extending limitation. 52 L W 277=(1910) 2 M L J 371. The language of Art 182 (2) is sufficiently wide so include an appeal the result of which may affect the decree or order which it is sought to execute, in such a way as to render the execution proceedings in connection with such decree or order infructuous. Where, therefore, after an order for restitution was obtained by the respondent, the appellant continued litigation in various Courts and at last his final appeal failed, an application for execution for the order for restitution filed within three years from the date of the order in such final appeal but more than three years after the order for restitution was made, is not barred by limitation. 44 C W N 859. It is perfectly plain on the language of Art 182 that the words "where there has been an appeal," in the last column, mean an appeal from the decree sought to be executed, and not an appeal from another decree though made in the suit. 41 Bom L R 921=1939 Bom 454. See also (1937) 1 M L J 407. A preliminary decree in a partition suit was passed on 18th April, 1918, and confirmed by High Court on 20th March, 1923. A final decree was passed by the trial Court on 30th September, 1919, and on an application for execution filed on 24th March, 1925, held, that the appeal referred to in Art 182 (2) was an appeal against the decree sought to be executed and as no appeal had been preferred from the final decree which was the decree sought to be executed, time began to run from 30th September, 1919 and the application was therefore barred, even though it was within three years of the date when the High Court confirmed the preliminary decree. 37 L W 180=1933 M 315=64 M L J 251=56 M 458. See also 1928 P 581, 6 P 780=102 I C 811=1927 P 215, 19 Pat L T 798=1938 Pat 188. trial Court was ultimately decreed in appeal on a question as to the starting point of limitation for the execution of the order for costs against the guardian, it was held that the order for costs though not varied by the final order, in appeal was at least closely related to it since both were passed during proceedings in the same suit and that was sufficient reason for taking the date of the final decree in the suit on appeal as the proper starting point of limitation. 1912 O A 226=1912 O W N 315. There is no definition of appeal in the C P Code and any application by a party to an appellate Court asking to set aside a decision of a subordinate Court is an appeal within the ordinary acceptation of the term. An appeal is no less an appeal, because it is irregular or incompetent. Hence an appeal against an order granting the review comes under the definition. 57 B 388=35 Bom L R 432=1933 B 255. Any application by a party to an appellate Court to set aside or rescind a decree or order of a Court subordinate thereto is an "appeal" within the meaning of Art 182 (2). 45 L W 457=1937 M 385=(1937) 1 M L J 453 (F B). The word "appeal" in Art 182 (2) does not mean bona fide appeal. 74 I C 679=1924 C 349. But see 1923 C 288. For purposes of Art 182 (2), it is sufficient that there has been an appeal and there is no warrant for reading into the words of the article any qualification either as to the character of the appeal or as to the parties to it. The expression "where there has been an appeal" means an appeal which is likely to affect the decree sought to be executed. Where pending an appeal from a preliminary decree in a mortgage suit, which was confirmed on appeal, a final decree is passed, an application for execution of the final decree would be in time, if filed within three years of the date of the appellate preliminary decree, though beyond three years of the date of the final decree itself. cls (2) and (3) of Art 182 is really one of the particular tribunal which passed the order by which the original decree is imperilled. If the order is made by the appellate Court, then Art 182 (2) applies, but if the order is made by the original Court which passed the decree to be executed, then cl (3) applies and the date from which limitation runs is the date of the order of the original Court. All cases in which the Court reconsiders its own judgment whether in applications for restoration or in applications for review so called are cases of review within the meaning of Art 182 (3). An order allowing or rejecting an application for restoration of a proceeding decided ex parte is an order on "review" and therefore gives a starting point of limitation for execution 18 Pat LT 231=1937 P 337=16 Pat 306. Art 182 (3) is not applicable to cases where an application for review has not been granted but rejected and in such cases limitation is not enlarged under the article 20 Pat 513=1941 P 11 N 477=22 Pat LT 26=1941 Pat 213. Where there has been a review of the decree the period of limitation for purposes of Art 182 (3) should be taken to run from the date of the review, notwithstanding that the persons against whom time is reckoned were not parties to the review proceedings [63 M L J 329 (P C), Rel on] 141 IC 175 (2)=1933 M 276=64 M L J 75=36 L W 919. See also 1930 P 207. A second execution application (filed after the amending Act IX of 1927 came into force) was returned for correction of some defects and only represented along with a third application for execution more than three years from the date of the first application. Held that so long as no final orders had been passed on the second application it was still pending and no question of limitation arose 64 M L J 401=37 L W 469=144 IC 167=1933 M 530. As to the meaning of final order see 1932 O 148 (FB). Recording of payment by Court under O 21, R 2 is not a final order 1932 Oudh 198. Where there was an application for review and an appeal against the order on review, the decree holder is entitled to the benefit of cls (2) and (3) of Art 182. The words in Art 182 (3) decision passed on review mean a decision passed in review proceedings and whatever such a decision is it gives a fresh starting point of limitation 162 IC 223=38 Bom LR 215=1936 B 162.

Art 182 (4) SCOPE AND EFFECT OF CL (4).—The correction of mere clerical errors in a decree, e.g. error in the number of the suit or in the name of judgment debtor, does not amount to an amendment within the meaning of Art 182 (4). Where the decree as it stood before such correction was fully capable of execution and the decree holder took no steps for its execution for a period of three years, the decree becomes barred, and the subsequent verbal corrections will not have the effect of reviving the said decree or giving a fresh start to the decree holder 67 CL J 92=41 C W N 1131=1937 Cal 581. Art 182 (4) lays down clearly and without reservation that when a decree has been amended the period of limitation is three years from the date of the amendment. It is not stated that the amendment should have been made within three years from the date of the original decree or at a time when the original decree was subsisting. It is not the function of the executing Court to question the correctness or propriety of the amendment of the decree 1 LR (1941) Lah 659=43 PLR 11=1941 Lah 131. See also 41 C W N 1330 1937 Pat 453 1938 Pat 57. Where the original decree is incapable of execution time runs from the date when a decree properly capable of execution has been drawn up 64 IC 522=34 CL J 397. Where a decree capable of execution becomes barred its amendment cannot entitle the decree holder to a fresh period of limitation under Art 182 (4), because after it is dead it cannot be revived by a subsequent application for amendment 5 Lah L J 398=1924 L 329. See also 1933 M W N 23=37 L W 180=64 M L J 231=1933 M 315=56 M 458, 1936 Mad 434=70 M L J 700 147 IC 815=11 O W N 10=1934 O 43. The words of cl 4 of Art 182 are quite unqualified and do not speak of any particular form of amendment whether the amendment is necessary or not whether the decree is capable of execution without the amendment it does not qualify the matter of amendment in any way under Art 182 (4), if a decree has been amended the starting point of limitation for execution is the date of the amendment. The fact that the amendment is applied for and made after three years from the date of the decree is immaterial. If an application for execution is made within three years of such amendment it is in time and not barred. The executing Court is not competent to sit in appeal over the Court which passed the decree or made the amendment it has only to see whether the decree has been amended in order to see whether the execution application is barred by limitation 16 Pat 290=18 Pat L T 18=1937 Pat 316. See also 16 Pat 453=18 Pat LT 679=1938 Pat 57. Art 182 (4) allows an application for execution to be made within three years from the date when the decree is amended. It is beyond the competence of the executing Court to decide as to whether the order for amendment of the decree was proper or not. It may be the duty of the Court allowing the amendment to consider as to whether an amendment should be at all when the application is made more than three years after the date of the decree, and there is an order for amendment passed in such cases the parties of course could challenge that order by way of revision, but it is no business of the executing Court to enter into the propriety of the question as to whether the amendment should have been made or not, and once the decree is amended it has got to take the amended decree as it stands and allow execution of it provided the application for execution is made within three years from the date of the amended decree 65 C.L.J. 455=41 C.W.N. 1330 See also 1935 A.L.J. 289

Art 182 (5)—Scope of—Difference between para (5) and the rest of the paragraphs. While all the paragraphs in Art 182 excepting para. (5) deal with the question of what is the time from which limitation begins to run in the case of a first application for execution, para (5) alone deals with the case of subsequent applications. The wording of para (5) shows that it refers to an application for execution where there has been a previous proceeding in execution in the Court. The other paragraphs do not deal with such a question 1 L.R. (1930) A. 312=1938 A.L.J. 117=1938 All 210. What is clearly contemplated by Art 182 (5) is that a judicial order is to be made on an application by the decree-holder, being a step-in aid of execution and in order that an application for transfer should benefit the decree holder it must be in essence in continuation 162 IC 981=1936 P. 313. A decree entitling a landlord to a certain enhancement of rent is not capable of execution. The entry of the decree in the revenue records is not execution of it but merely a record of the facts as they exist. Accordingly, Art 182 has no application to a mutation in accordance with such a decree 16 Lah L.T. 26. The terminus a quo under the unamended form of Art 182, cl (5) is the date of the application for execution or to take some step-in aid of execution and not (as under the amending Act IX of 1927) the result of the application, i.e. the date of the final order passed on such application 61 IA 62=38 C.W.N. 229=1934 P.C. 14=66 M.L.J. 79 (P.C.)

AMENDMENT NOT RETROSPECTIVE.—The amendment will not disturb vested rights and so, subject to this limitation, an application made after the 1st January, 1928, will necessarily be governed by the amended Act 1930 P. 207

STEP IN AID OF EXECUTION—(a) TEST OF APPLICATION BEING STEP IN AID.—There can be a step-in aid of execution without any application for execution having ever been made at all 178 IC 202=1938 Lah 326. Anything done by the decree holder through the machinery of the Court or any proceeding taken by the executing Court which is calculated to advance the case of the decree-holder in the direction of his ultimate object of reaping the fruits of his decree, can be treated as a step in aid of execution and save the running of limitation against him 18 Lah 671=39 P.L.R. 680=1937 Lah 404. The necessary conditions which must be satisfied for the application to be one for execution or to take some step-in aid of execution of the decree or order are that (1) the application must be in accordance with law, (2) it must be made to the proper Court, and (3) there must be a final order passed on the application. These conditions are adjectival both to the application for execution and to the application to take step-in aid of execution of the decree or order 137 IC 768=1932 O. 148 (b). A step-in aid of execution can be taken before an application for execution of the decree has been made in Court 1 L.R. (1939) All 728=1939 A.L.J. 746=1939 All 483. A step-in aid of execution implies that there is already a decree which can be executed and in furtherance of which the step is taken. Where under O. 20, R. 12, C.P. Code, the Court fixes the amount of the mesne profits but defers the drawing up of the decree until payment of the necessary Court fee by the plaintiff an application by the plaintiff praying the Court to assess and receive the deficit Court fees or to prepare the final decree cannot be considered to be a step-in aid of execution under Art 182

Art 183 SCOPE AND APPLICATION—The provisions of Art. 183 regarding acknowledgment as well as payments are self-contained and must be read independently of Ss 19 and 20 of the Limitation Act 10 P 213=132 IC 109=1931 P 218. According to law, decree bears the same date as the judgment, and the right to enforce the decree under Art 183 of the Limitation Act would prima facie accrue from the date of the judgment. Ordinarily, preparation of the decree (including assessment of costs) does take a little time but there is no provision of law allowing this time to be deducted in computing the period for an application for execution ILR (1939) Lah 319=41 PLR 105=1939 Lah 110. The word "payment" is used in Art 183 in a wider sense than in S 20 and not qualified in any way as to the mode in which the payment is to be made or as to the person who is to make it. A sum of money realised in execution in partial satisfaction of the decree amounts to "payment" and provides a fresh starting point for limitation 1931 Pat 218. "Money" secured by decree includes costs, and payment of costs would save limitation 1931 Pat. 218. To constitute a revivor of the decree, there must be expressly or by implication a determination that the decree is still capable of execution and the decree-holder is entitled to enforce it 41 CLJ 159=1925 C. 668. "revivor" of the decree there must be expressly or by implication a determination that the decree is still capable of execution and the decree-holder is entitled to enforce it. An order of revivor of a decree against two persons jointly, et al., partners of a firm against whom the decree has been passed, when made in an application for execution against one of them only, does not keep the decree alive against the other. Arts 183 and 181—An application for execution of a conditional decree passed by the High Court is governed by Art 183 and not by Art 181. In the case of conditional decrees the proper practice is for the decree holder to apply for the execution of the decree on notice to the judgment debtor and to file in support of his application a petition alleging default. If the judgment debtor does not deny default or if his denial is not believed, the decree holder obtains the order he seeks. It is not necessary for him to file an application merely to establish default as a preliminary to a further application for a substantive order. 41 C WN 1133. THE LOCAL AUTHORITIES LOANS ACT (IX OF 1914)

PREFATORY NOTE—The local authorities derived their ordinary borrowing powers under Act VI of 1879 as amended by Act XV of 1885 Act I of 1905 and Act V of 1907 The Local Authorities (Emergency) Loans Act (XII of 1897) amended by Act XI of 1912 enabled them to borrow for certain emergencies such as famine relief and the prevention of epidemic They were empowered to raise money by issuing short term bills repayable within a year, and to pay off previous loans by Act III of 1904 (amended by Act VII of 1908)

Certain practical difficulties have arisen in the working of the Local Authorities Loans Act (XI of 1879) and it is proposed to amend that Act so as—

(1) to remove all doubts as to the competency of Port Officers to borrow under the Act

(2) to make it clear that in the case of loans raised under S 7 of the Act (i.e. loans raised in the open market) the Government of India can—

(a) by rule delegate the power of sanction to Local Government

(b) direct that the unexpended balances of such loans shall be applied in the reduction of the debt of the local authority concerned or utilised in carrying out works which the local authority is legally authorised to carry out

(c) by rule delegate to Local Governments subject to such conditions as the Governor General in Council may by rule impose the power referred to in the preceding clause

2 At the same time it is considered desirable to take this opportunity of consolidating the existing Acts which relate to loans raised by Local Authorities

Those Acts are as follows —

(1) The Local Authorities Loans Act (XI of 1879) as amended by Act XV of 1885 Act I of 1905 and Act V of 1907 This is the general Act under which local authorities derive their ordinary borrowing powers

(2) The Local Authorities (Emergency) Loans Act (XII of 1897) as amended by Act XI of 1912 This extended the scope of the general Act by enabling local authorities to borrow money for certain temporary emergencies such as famine relief and the prevention of epidemic diseases

(3) The Local Authorities Loans Act (III of 1904) as amended by Act VIII of 1908, which empowered certain of the more important local authorities in India (specified in the Schedule to the Act) to raise money by the issue of short term bills repayable within twelve months Opportunity was taken to embody in this Act a provision (section 3) enabling local authorities under certain restrictions to raise money in order to repay money previously borrowed

3 These three Acts together with their various amending Acts have been consolidated in the draft Bill and if the latter becomes law will disappear from the Statute book The amendments mentioned in paragraph 1 above have also been provided for in the following manner —

Amendment (1)—This is covered by the substitution of the words "any person" for the words "any body corporate Municipal Committee or other persons" in the present definition of local authority as given in section 3 of Act XI of 1879 See clause 2 of the Bill

Amendment 2 (a)—This has been provided for by clause 4 (1) (vii) of the Bill

Amendments 2 (b) and (c)—These have been provided for by clause 4 (1) (xv) of the Bill

4 In addition to these amendments opportunity has been taken to reconcile certain discrepancies and to effect certain simplifications in the existing law which are due to the fact that the Acts now in force have been passed at different times to deal with special circumstances Apart from this the Bill makes no change of principle in the existing law and in particular does not affect the borrowing powers conferred on any local authority by any special enactment—(Statement of Objects and Reasons, Fort St George Gazette 3rd November 1903 Pt III p 331 Gazette of India 1914 Pt V p 5 For Report of Select Committee, see ibid 1914 Pt V, p 17, for Proceedings in Council, see ibid, 1914, Pt VI, pp 159, 189 and 496)

PREFATORY NOTE—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons attached to the Lunacy Bill—

The bulk of the law relating to the custody of lunatics and management of their estate in India is at present contained in the following Acts—

- (1) The Lunacy (Supreme Courts) Act (XXXIV of 1858)
- (2) The Lunacy (District Courts) Act (XXXV of 1858)
- (3) The Indian Lunatic Asylums Act (XXXVI of 1858)
- (4) The Military Lunatics Act (XI of 1877)
- (5) The Indian Lunatic Asylums (Amendment) Act (XVIII of 1866)
- (6) The Indian Lunatic Asylums (Amendment) Act (XX of 1889)
- (7) Chapter XXXIV of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898
- (8) Section 30 of the Prisoners' Act 1900

2 The first three of these Acts are based in great measure on the English Lunacy Regulation Act 1853 (16 and 17 Vict. c. 70) and the English Lunatics Act 1853 (16 and 17 Vict. c. 96). These English Acts after frequent amendment are now replaced by the Lunacy Act 1890 (53 Vict. c. 5) as amended by the Lunacy Act, 1891 (54 and 55 Vict. c. 65). It is in the opinion of the Government of India desirable that the law relating to the custody of lunatics in India should be amended and assimilated with the modern English law on the subject and the present Bill has been prepared to effect this purpose. Opportunity has also been taken to re-arrange and consolidate as far as possible the whole law relating to lunatics.

3 The provisions of section 30 of the Prisoners' Act 1900 and much of Chapter XXXIV of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898 cannot be conveniently inserted in any general Lunacy Act and they have therefore been left untouched. Subsections (2) and (3) of section 471 and the whole section 472 of the Code of Criminal Procedure which merely regulate the places in which criminal lunatics may be confined and prescribe the manner in which such lunatics are to be visited have however been incorporated in the present Bill.

4 All changes of any importance made by the Bill are specified in Notes on clauses annexed and the tables attached to the Bill show in detail the amendments proposed to be made in the law and the manner in which each section of the Acts in force has been dealt with. The main features of the Bill are noted below.

5 Chapter II deals with the confinement of the lunatics in asylums on reception orders and covers much the same ground as the Lunatic Asylums Act 1858. In so far as such reception orders can be made otherwise than on petition the law is left practically unchanged.

6 Sections 4 to 11 and 18 to 20 however make a considerable change in the law. At present the confinement of lunatics in asylums on the application of relatives and friends can be effected as follows—

(a) In Presidency towns by an order under section 7 of the Lunatic Asylums Act 1858 (1) after the person whom it is desired to confine has been found to be a lunatic by inquisition or (2) accompanied by the medical certificates specified therein, an order under section 7 of the Lunatic Asylums Act 1858, can only be made for the confinement of a lunatic in an asylum in a Presidency town and

(b) outside the Presidency towns only by an order of the Civil Court.

7 Under the present Bill the procedure prescribed by the Lunatic Asylums Act 1858 has been changed and where application is made for the confinement of a lunatic (not being a lunatic so found on inquisition) in an asylum the application must be made by petition to a magistrate and a reception order can only be made by him. The distinction between asylums in Presidency towns and asylums outside such areas has given rise to administrative difficulties and inconveniences and serves no useful purpose. It has therefore been discarded.

8 It will be observed that under the Bill reception orders can only be made in Presidency towns and in this particular the provisions of Act XXXVI of 1858 have been followed. Local Governments can however apply the provisions of the law regarding such reception orders to areas outside the Presidency towns.

9 The procedure prescribed for the issue of reception orders is based on English Lunacy Act 1890. The manner in which medical certificates are to be given and the method of examination are prescribed in the Act carefully and every care has been taken to prevent the improper confinement of any person in the asylum on a false allegation of lunacy.

10 Chapter IV is a reproduction with slight verbal changes of the present Lunacy (Supreme Courts) Act 1858. It is probable that substantial amendments bringing the law and procedure more into accordance with the modern English law may be desirable but the Government of India do not think it expedient at present to make any change in this part of the Bill until the High Courts concerned have been consulted.

11 Chapter V deals with lunacy proceedings in District Courts and embodies with slight changes the existing law as contained in Act XXXV of 1858. It may possibly be desirable at a later stage to assimilate as far as possible the procedure in the District Courts to that which may be finally adopted for the High Courts. Doubts have been expressed whether that Act empowers a District Court to issue orders for the detention of a lunatic in an asylum (see In re Joga Kuar, I.L.R. 30 C. 973). This question has now been set at rest by the provisions of clause 70 (1) which is taken from the English Lunacy Act, 1890.

12. Chapter IX is new but contains little that is not sufficiently explained in the Notes on clauses. Special attention may, however, be drawn to clause 94 which penalises the detention of lunatics in asylums in contravention of the Act and also the detention of lunatics or alleged lunatics in unlicensed institutions. This clause is based on S. 315 of the English Act. This clause does not prohibit the detention of lunatics by their relatives or in their own houses. The Government of India are, however, of opinion that in the public interest it is desirable that complete control should be exercised over all private institutions where lunatics are confined for payment.

14 Whenever any person is brought before a Magistrate under the provisions of sub section (1) of section 13, the Magistrate shall examine such person, and if he thinks that there are grounds for proceeding further, shall cause him to be examined by a medical officer, and may make such other inquiries as he thinks fit, and if the Magistrate is satisfied that such person is a lunatic and a proper person to be detained, he may, if the medical officer who has examined such person gives a medical certificate with regard to such person make a reception order for the admission of such lunatic into an asylum.

See 48 —The language of s. 48 is not mandatory but permissive. By the use of the word "may" a discretion is given to the Court to make an order under the section. The words "concerning any matter whatsoever connected with the lunatic or his estate" are very wide, and empower the Court by the proceedings mentioned in the section to decide a question as to whether the properties referred to in the application before the Court form part of the estate of the lunatic. The intention of the legislature is to provide a summary procedure in regard to matters concerning lunatics and their estates. The Court should however, refer the parties to a regular suit in cases which it considers likely to be complex or lengthy or properly matters which should be voiced by way of a suit and which cannot conveniently be dealt with by the summary procedure indicated in sec. 48. 1938 M W N 1143=48 L W 856=(1938) 2 All L J 1072. The use of the word "petition" in s. 48 of the Act is used in contradistinction to a "suit" and indicates that matters properly the subject of the provisions of the section can be brought before the Court by a proceeding other than a suit. The Court having been seized of the matter regarding the lunatic and his estate by means of an original petition under which it is found that the person is of unsound mind and incapable of managing his affairs, it is not necessary that any further proceedings arising in respect of the matter should have to be prosecuted by means of an original petition. 1938 M

58 Where any such stock or Government securities or share in a company is or are standing in the name of, or vested in, any person residing out of British India and not in any part of the United Kingdom, the Court upon being satisfied that such person has been declared lunatic, and that his personal estate has been vested in a person appointed for the management thereof, according to the law of the place where he is residing may order some fit person to make such transfer of the stock, securities or shares or of any part thereof, to or into the name of the person so appointed or otherwise, and also to receive and pay over the dividends and proceeds as the Court thinks fit

General

59 If it appears to the Court that the unsoundness of mind of a lunatic is in its nature temporary, and that it is expedient to make temporary provision for his maintenance or for the maintenance of such members of his family as are dependent on him for their maintenance, the Court may, in like manner as under section 56, direct his property or a sufficient part of it to be applied for the purpose aforesaid

60 (1) When any person has been found under this Chapter to be of unsound mind and it is subsequently shown to the Court that there is reason to believe that such unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court may make an order for inquiring whether such person is still of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs

(2) The inquiry shall be conducted as far as may be in the manner prescribed in this Chapter for an inquisition into the unsoundness of mind of an alleged lunatic, and if it is found that the unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court shall order all proceedings in the lunacy to cease or to be set aside on such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem fit

61 The Court may, from time to time, make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter in matters of lunacy

Inquisition

62 Whenever any person not subject to the jurisdiction of any of the Courts mentioned in section 37 is possessed of property and is alleged to be a lunatic the District Court within whose jurisdiction such person is residing may, upon application, by order direct an inquisition for the purpose of ascertaining whether such person is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs

NOTES

Under S 65 it is open to the Courts to find that a man is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others. Both conditions must be satisfied before a man can be found to be a lunatic under the Act. The mere fact that a man's mental condition is weak will not enable such an order being passed. 90 I C 878=30 C W N 180. It is indubitable that an order directing an inquisition into a man's state of mind is a very serious thing and that such an order is intended by the statute to be a judicial determination carefully made upon adequate materials. It will not be wise to make such an order without serving a notice upon the lunatic first. In such an application the Judge should then consider carefully whether the case is one which calls for an order directing an inquisition. 54 C 836. Where lunatic is served with notice inquisition can proceed ex parte, even though the lunatic cannot be traced thereafter. See 96 I C 956=1926 S 223. Orders for the custody of lunatics and for the management of their estate do not come into question at all until there has been a finding of lunacy as a result of an inquisition. There is no question of interim orders on such matters pending the determination as to the person's state of mind. Where notices were issued on a petition for inquisition and on the date of hearing evidence was recorded and orders were passed simultaneously ordering an inquisition and declaring the person to be a lunatic. Held, that the procedure adopted was wrong in law. 54 C 836=103 I C 72=1927 C 636. Applicants in cases under S 62 should come into Court fortified with a valid medical certificate of insanity. 96 I C 778=24 A L J 906. Where the fact of lunacy is being disputed, Court should not have its conclusions on mere personal observation but follow the procedure laid down in this section. 27 Punj L R 649=1926 L 586. [See also cases under Ss 38 and 41 supra.] An inquisition under S 62 once started must be prosecuted to the very end. Before such an inquisition is ordered or started there ought to be a careful and thorough preliminary enquiry and the Judge ought to satisfy himself that there is a real ground for an inquisition. An application for an inquisition should ordinarily be supported by affidavit or by examination on oath of the applicant and by a medical certificate of some doctors as to the condition of the alleged lunatic. It would also be desirable in many cases that the Judge should seek some personal interview with the alleged lunatic with a view to satisfy himself that there is a real ground for supposing the existence of an abnormal mental condition which might bring the person within the Lunacy Act. 42 A 504=58 I C 617, 49

A 3=1927 A 225 (1). On the section, see also 29 M, 310.

JURISDICTION—The alleged lunatic was a person ordinarily residing within the District Court of Nadia where he had his house and family. In 1927 however, he was for sometime living temporarily in Calcutta for the purpose of his treatment and during that time the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Calcutta had passed an order directing the authorities of the mental hospital to receive the alleged lunatic. In 1928 an application was made to the District Court Nadia, for an inquisition under the Lunacy Act. Held that it could not be said that at the date of the application the alleged lunatic was subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Calcutta so as to take away the jurisdiction of the District Court to make an order for inquisition. 35 C W N 543=134 I C 1135=1931 C 711. Where a lunatic is a permanent resident within the jurisdiction of a particular District Court and has properties in that district and his wife applies to the District Court for the appointment of a person as manager of his properties that District Judge has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the application and to direct inquisition under S 62 notwithstanding the fact that the lunatic temporarily resides in a mental hospital outside the jurisdiction of that Court. 1929 C 512. Temporary removal of a lunatic to the mofussil does not oust the jurisdiction of the High Court over the lunatic and an application under S 62 in relation to such lunatic must be made on the Original Side of the High Court. 57 I C 768=32 C L J 314. A temporary removal vests jurisdiction over the lunatic in the District Court in whose jurisdiction he is removed unless the lunatic is at the same time subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court. It is not necessary that the property of the lunatic must be within the jurisdiction of the District Judge. 57 I C 768=32 C L J 314.

Secs 62 and 65—Where an application is made to ascertain whether certain persons are of sound mind by an inquisition, the Judge should form his independent judgment on the point. After examining the parties he may reject the petition in limine if he thinks that no prima facie case for enquiry is disclosed. Or he may after examining the pleadings of the parties or as a result of his own personal interview with the alleged lunatic come to the conclusion that there are grounds for supposing that the mental condition is such as to bring him within the Lunacy Act. In that case he must order an inquisition and proceed in the manner mentioned in S 65 (a) on the materials before him. It is only when these findings have been arrived at as a result of Lunacy.

63. (1) Application for such inquisition may be made by any relative of the alleged lunatic or by any public Curator appointed under the Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841 (hereinafter referred to as the Curator), or by the Government Pleader, as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or if the property of the alleged lunatic consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land, by the Collector of the District in which it is situate.

(2) If the property or any part thereof is of such a description that it would by the law in force in any Province where such property is situate subject the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the application may be made by the Collector on behalf of the Court of Wards.

Regulation of proceedings of District Courts.

64. The provisions of sections 40, 41 and 42 shall regulate the proceedings of the District Court with regard to the matters to which they relate.

Inquisition by District Court and finding thereon.

65. (1) The District Court, if it thinks fit, may appoint two or more persons to act as assessors to the Court in the said inquisition.

(2) Upon the completion of the inquisition, the Court shall determine whether the alleged lunatic is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs or may come to a special finding that such alleged lunatic is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others.

66. (1) If the alleged lunatic resides at a distance of more than fifty miles from the place where the District Court is held to which the application is made, the said Court may issue a commission to any subordinate Court to make the inquisition, and such subordinate Court shall thereupon conduct the inquisition in the manner hereinbefore provided in this Chapter.

(2) On the completion of the inquisition, the subordinate Court shall transmit the record of its proceedings with the opinions of the assessors if the inquisition that the jurisdiction of the Court to proceed further with the case arises. In determining these questions the paramount consideration is the benefit of the lunatic. 122 I.C. 570=1930 L. 289.

Sec. 63.—See cases under Ss. 61 and 62 See also 1926 Sind 223.

Secs. 63 and 80: "CURATOR"—MEANING OF.—The word "curator" is used in the Lunacy Act in the sense of a public curator appointed under the Succession (Property Protection) Act. Hence a person who has not been appointed curator in the above sense can be removed from guardian of the lunatic under S. 80, Lunacy Act. 146 I.C. 553=1933 L. 626.

Sec. 65.—See 33 C.W.N. 180; 1930 L. 289, cited under S. 62.

ORDER IN LUNACY.—BINDING NATURE OF.—Although an order in lunacy is not a judgment which is conclusive against the world as one of the judgments enumerated in S. 41 of the Evidence Act, it is still relevant and binding upon the parties thereto and those who claim under them just like any other judgment of a Civil Court. 56 M. 904=1933 M. 624=65 M.L.J. 279.

FINDING AS TO LUNACY.—INTERFERENCE BY HIGH COURT.—A person who is not sufficiently intelligent to manage his own affairs, is not necessarily of unsound mind. Under S. 65 there must be a finding that the alleged lunatic is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs. The High Court has power to interfere to correct a wrong finding under S. 65 (2). 30 N.L.R. 224=148 I.C. 462=1934 N. 27.

Secs. 65 and 67.—For purposes of S. 65 the degree of unsoundness of mind of a person has to be found in relation to his capacity to manage the affairs of his estate. Where it is found that a person could not look after property, whether big or small but could at best only look to his physical needs, a Court would be stultifying the scope of the Act if it deprived such a person of the protection that law gives him. A suitable person should be appointed for his estate as contemplated by S. 67 (2). I.L.R. (1939) All. 510=1939 All. 333.

assessors have been appointed, and its own opinion on the case; and the District Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the application in the manner provided in section 65, sub-section (2):

Provided that the District Court may direct the subordinate Court to make such further or other inquiries as it thinks fit before disposing of the application.

Judicial powers over person and estate of lunatic.

Custody of lunatics, and management of their estates.

67. (1) The Court may make orders for the custody of lunatics so found by inquisition and the management of their estates.

(2) When upon the inquisition it is specially found that the person to whom the inquisition relates is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others, the Court may make such orders as it thinks fit for the management of the estate of the lunatic including proper provisions for the maintenance of the lunatic and of such members of his family as are dependent on him for maintenance, but it shall not be necessary to make any order as to the custody of the person of the lunatic.

68. If the estate of a lunatic so found or any part thereof consists of property which, by the law for the time being in force, subjects the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the Court of Wards shall be authorized to take charge of the same.

69. (1) If the estate of a lunatic so found consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land, but is not of such a nature that it would subject the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the District Court may direct the Collector to take charge of the person and estate of the lunatic:

Provided that no such order shall be made without the consent of the Collector previously obtained.

(2) The Collector shall thereupon appoint a manager of the estate, and may appoint a guardian of the person of the lunatic.

70. All proceedings of the Collector in regard to the person or estate of a lunatic under this Chapter shall be subject to the control of the Provincial Government or of such authority as it may appoint in this behalf.

71. (1) In all other cases the District Court shall appoint a manager of the estate of the lunatic and may appoint a guardian of his person:

Provided that a District Court may, instead of appointing a manager of the estate of a lunatic, exercise any of the powers conferred on the High Court under sections 56 and 59.

(2) Any person who has been appointed by the District Court or Collector to manage the estate of a lunatic shall, if so required, enter into a bond in

Such permission may be granted subject to any condition or restriction which the Court thinks fit to impose

(2) Before granting any such permission the Court may cause notice of the application for such permission to be served on any relative or friend of the lunatic and may make or cause to be made such inquiries as to the Court may seem necessary in the interests of the lunatic

76 (1) Every person appointed by the District Court or by the Collector to be manager of the estate of a lunatic shall, within six months from the date of his appointment, deliver in Court or to the Collector as the case may be, an inventory of the immovable property belonging to the lunatic and of all such money or other movable property, as he may receive on account of the estate together with a statement of all debts due by or to the same

(2) Every such manager shall also furnish to the Court or to the Collector annually, within three months of the close of the year of the era current in the district, an account of the property in his charge, exhibiting the sums received and disbursed on account of the estate and the balance remaining in his hands.

77. If any relative of the lunatic, or the Collector by petition to the Court, impugns the accuracy of the said inventory and statement, or of any annual account, the Court may summon the manager and inquire summarily into the matter and make such order thereon as it thinks fit; or the Court, at its discretion, may refer any such petition to any subordinate Court or to the Collector if the manager was appointed by the Collector.

78. All sums received by a manager on account of any estate in excess of what may be required for the current expenses of the lunatic or of the estate, shall be paid into the public treasury on account of the estate, and shall be invested from time to time in any of the securities specified in section 20 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, unless the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing, directs that such sums be in the interest of the lunatic otherwise invested or applied.

79. Any relative of a lunatic may with the leave of the District Court sue for an account from any manager appointed under this Chapter, or from any such person after his removal from office or trust, or from his legal representative in case of his death, in respect of any estate then or formerly under his care or management or of any sums of money or other property received by him on account of such estate.

80. (1) The District Court, for any sufficient cause, may remove any manager appointed by it not being the Curator, and may appoint such Curator or any other fit person in his place, and may compel the person so removed to make over the property in his hands to his successor and to account to such successor for all money received or disbursed by him.

(2) The Court may also for any sufficient cause, remove any guardian of the person of the lunatic appointed by it, and may appoint any other fit person in his place.

(3) The Collector, for any sufficient cause, may remove any manager of the estate of a lunatic or guardian of the person of a lunatic appointed by him, and may appoint any other fit person in place of such manager or guardian; and the District Court, on the application of the Collector, may compel any manager removed under this section to make over the property and all accounts in his hands to his successor and to account to such successor for all money received or disbursed by him.

81. The District Court may impose a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees on any manager of the estate of a lunatic who wilfully neglects or refuses to deliver his accounts or any property in his hands within the time fixed by the Court, and may realize such fine as if it were a sum due

NOTES

Sec 89 —Under S 89 the Court has to determine whether the father has the means to maintain the son. The word means in that section has no relation to their source. Thus if there is a person legally bound to maintain the lunatic and if he has the means to maintain him with or without reference to joint family property under the Lunacy Act the Court can make an order for the costs of his maintenance in the asylum. 51 B 120=29 Bom L R 52=1927 B 91

SCHEDULE II

[Repealed by Act XVII of 1914]

THE MAINTNANCE ORDERS ENFORCEMENT ACT
(XVIII OF 1921)

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Bill.—The Imperial Conference of 1911 passed a resolution that in order to secure justice and protection for wives deserted by their husbands and children who had been deserted by their legal guardians either in the United Kingdom or in any part of the Dominions reciprocal legal provisions should be adopted in the constituent parts of the Empire in the interests of such destitute and deserted persons. As a result the English Act (X and XI Geo V c 33) was recently passed to facilitate the enforcement in England and Ireland of maintenance orders made in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions and protectorates and vice versa. Section 12 of the Act empowers His Majesty to extend it by Order in Council to those Dominions and Protectorates which make reciprocal legal provisions. The object of the present Bill which generally follows the lines of the English Act is to make such reciprocal provisions by facilitating the enforcement in British India of maintenance orders made in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions and Protectorates and vice versa. That is read with the English Act the present Bill allows the enforcement of orders for the maintenance of wives and children deserted in England on persons liable under such orders who have come to British India and vice versa for the enforcement of maintenance orders in favour of wives and children deserted in British India by those liable to support them if such persons have gone to England.

2 The Bill makes provision for the following classes of cases—

(1) Where after making of maintenance order the husband (or the person liable for maintenance) has gone from British India to another part of the Empire in which reciprocal legislation is in force,

(2) Where the husband or other person liable has gone from British India to a reciprocating part of the Empire before making of any maintenance order,

(3) Where after the making of a maintenance order in a reciprocating part of the Empire the husband or other person has come to British India; and

(4) Where before making of a maintenance order in a reciprocating part of the Empire the husband or other person liable has come to British India

As regards cases falling under head (1), clause 5 enables an order made by a Court in British India to be transmitted to the Courts in the other reciprocating part of the Empire to be registered and enforced there. Similarly, clause 4, read with clause 8, enables an order made by a Court in a reciprocating part of the Empire in cases falling under head (3), to be registered and enforced in British India. In cases falling under head (2), clause 6 authorises the making of a provisional order in the absence of the husband or other person liable which will have no effect unless confirmed by a Court in the reciprocating country to which the husband has gone and clause 7 deals with the opposite class of cases falling under head (4).

3. Sub clauses (6) and (7) of clauses 6 and 7 provide for the variation and revocation of orders and for appeals.

Clause 3 (2) enables reciprocity, similar to that for which the Bill provides in the case of parts of His Majesty's Dominions to be established with such Indian States as may pass legislation for the enforcement in such States of orders made by British Indian Courts.

"The procedure for enforcing orders registered in a High Court will be the same as that for an order originally obtained in the High Court, but for a Court of summary jurisdiction the method in which orders will be enforced has been left to be prescribed by the rules" (Statement of Objects and Reasons, Fort St George Gazette, Pt III, dated 22nd March, 1921, pp 4 and 5).

Extracts from the report of the Select Committee—Clause 1—We have added an extra sub-clause to make it clear that this Act will extend only to British India though it applies in respect of certain orders made elsewhere but enforceable in India.

Clause 2—Definitions

(a) The words "other than illegitimate children" have been omitted from the definition of dependants and the corresponding words of the English Act, i.e., "other than an order of affiliation" have been inserted in the definition of "maintenance order" so as to follow the wording of the English Act.

(b) The definition of "maintenance order" has also been amplified to make it clear that such an order includes orders passed by Courts either in the exercise of civil or criminal jurisdiction.

(c) A definition of "proper authority" has been inserted as it was considered to be incorrect to prescribe by rules the authority of the reciprocating territory from which communications should be received. The laws passed, or to be passed, in such territories will provide for the proper authority for the transmission of communications. Consequential amendments following this definition have been made in clauses 4, 5, 6 and 7 of the Bill.

(d) The definition of "reciprocating British possession" has been changed into a definition of "reciprocating territory" as the term "British possession", as defined in the General Clauses Act 1897, does not include the United Kingdom. Consequential amendments have been made throughout the Bill to give effect to this change in definition.

Clause 4, sub clause (1)—The words "in Council" have been omitted after the words "Governor General" where they first occur, as, under the English Act, communications have to be addressed to the "Governor" of the Possession, and the term "Governor" under the English Interpretation Act, 1889, as applied means the Governor General, and not the Governor General in Council.

Clause 6 marginal heading—The words "of Summary Courts" have been inserted in the marginal heading to make the meaning clear.

Clause 6, sub clause (1).—The words, "if such persons had wilfully neglected to attend the Court" have been substituted for the words "if a summons had been duly served on the person and he had failed to appear at the hearing", to bring the wording of this sub clause into conformity with the wording of section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898.

Sub-clause (6)—The words "or to which it was sent for confirmation" have been inserted after the words "was confirmed" in the proviso to this sub clause as it is proposed that a Court which has made a provisional order, may vary or rescind that order after the taking of further evidence before order has actually been confirmed in the reciprocating possession and also that it may vary or rescind the order after it has been confirmed.

Sub clause (7) of clause 6 has been omitted following the provisions of the maintenance sections in the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898. There is no appeal from an order of maintenance under that Code, and this sub clause would therefore be misleading. In the absence of any provision for such appeal we do not consider it desirable that there should be an appeal in the cases dealt with under this clause, which are treated as analogous to maintenance cases dealt with under the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Sub clause (4) of clause 7—We are of opinion that the clause, as it stood would perhaps not permit of the confirmation of a provisional order, made for example in the United Kingdom, for a sum greater than Rs 50 per mensem (now Rs 100) which is the limit imposed by section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898. The limit for maintenance orders in the case of a wife in the United Kingdom is two pounds a week and for a child one pound a week. It was considered desirable that it should be open to the Court to enforce provisional orders up to the full amount of the provisional order, but not to increase the order beyond that amount. Amendments to impose a limit aforesaid have been made in this clause.

Provision has been made in sub-clauses (5) and (6) for the transmission of records in the same manner as is provided in the proviso to sub-clause (6) of clause 6.

Sub-clause (7) of clause 7 has been omitted for the same reason as sub-clause (7) of clause 6.

Clause 8, sub-clause (1) —The words "in the exercise of its civil jurisdiction" have been inserted after the words "High Court" to make it clear that, except in the case of orders executed by Courts of summary jurisdiction which will be orders for the payment of comparatively small amounts, the procedure in execution will be in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure. The difference in execution procedure in the various High Courts necessitates a double procedure in the Bill so as to cover registration in High Courts possessing only appellate jurisdiction.

A new clause 9 has been inserted as we think that it is just to a wife or other person, in favour of whom a maintenance order is made that such person should receive the full amount awarded and not be debited with the costs of transmission and other incidental charges. Such charges should be borne by the person against whom the order is made.

Clauses 9, 10 and 11 have been renumbered clauses 10, 11 and 12.

Provision has been made in clause 12, as renumbered for the fixing by rules, made by the Governor General in Council of a scale of costs and charges in connection with things done under this Act. We consider it expedient that the rule in this matter should be made by the Governor General in Council, as there will be communications between British India and countries outside and the Governor General in Council is in the best position to fix a fair scale of charges in this respect —(Report of the Select Committee.)

[5th October, 1921]

An Act to facilitate the enforcement in British India of Maintenance Orders made in other parts of His Majesty's Dominions and Protectorates and vice versa this section is limited by S 488 Cr P Code. This Act confers no jurisdiction on Magistrates in India to award any sum they think fit as maintenance payable to wife and children who are in India and whose husbands or fathers are in England. This Act is merely an extension of the principle laid down in S 488 Cr P Code and was enacted to meet cases where the wife and children are in India and the husband in England and vice versa. 1937 M W N 1127.

"reciprocating territory" means any part of His Majesty's Dominions outside British India in respect of which this Act for the time being applies.

3. (1) If the Central Government is satisfied that provisions have been made by the Legislature of any part of His Majesty's Dominions for the enforcement within that part of maintenance orders made by Courts in British India, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare that this Act applies in respect of that part of His Majesty's Dominions and thereupon it shall apply accordingly.

(2) The Central Government may, by like notification, declare that this Act applies in respect of any British protectorate, or in respect of any State in India, and where such a declaration has been made, this Act shall apply as if such protectorate or State were a reciprocating territory.

4. (1) Where a maintenance order has, whether before or after the passing of this Act, been made against any person by any Court in any reciprocating territory, and a certified copy of the order has been transmitted by the proper authority of that territory to the Central Government, the Central Government shall send a copy of the order to the prescribed officer of a Court in British India for registration, and, on receipt thereof, the order shall be registered in the prescribed manner.

(2) The Court in which an order is to be so registered as aforesaid shall, if the Court by which the order was made was, in the opinion of the Central Government, a Court of superior jurisdiction, be a High Court, and, if the Court was not, in its opinion, a Court of superior jurisdiction, be a Court of summary jurisdiction.

5. Where a Court in British India has, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, made a maintenance order against any person, and it is proved to that Court that the person against whom the order was made is resident in a reciprocating territory, the Court shall send to the Central Government, for transmission to the proper authority of that territory, a certified copy of the order.

6. (1) Where application is made to a Court of summary jurisdiction in British India for a maintenance order against any person, and it is proved that that person is resident in a reciprocating territory, the Court may, in the absence of that person, if after hearing the evidence it is satisfied of the justice of the application, make any such order as it might have made if that person had wilfully neglected to attend the Court; but in

(4) Where any such provisional order has come before a Court in a reciprocating territory for confirmation and the order has by that Court been remitted to the Court of summary jurisdiction which made the order for the purpose of taking further evidence that Court shall after giving the prescribed notice proceed to take the evidence in like manner and subject to the like conditions as the evidence in support of the original application

(5) If it appears to the Court hearing such evidence that the order ought not to have been made the Court may rescind the order but in any other case the depositions shall be sent to the Central Government and dealt with in like manner as the original depositions

(6) The confirmation of an order made under this section shall not affect any power of a Court of summary jurisdiction to vary or rescind that order

Provided that on the making of a varying or rescinding order the Court shall send a certified copy thereof to the Central Government for transmission to the proper authority of the reciprocating territory in which the original order was confirmed or to which it was sent for confirmation and that in the case of an order varying the original order the order shall not have any effect unless and until confirmed in like manner as the original order

grounds on which the order might have been opposed has been transmitted to the Central Government and it appears to the Central Government that the person against whom the order has been made is resident in British India the Central Government may send the said documents to the prescribed officer of a Court of summary jurisdiction with a requisition that a summons be issued calling upon the person to show cause why that order should not be confirmed and upon receipt of such documents and requisition the Court shall issue such a summons and cause it to be served upon such person

(2) A summons issued under sub-section (1) shall for all purposes be deemed to be a summons issued by the Court in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction

(3) At the hearing it shall be open to the person to whom the summons was issued to raise any defence which he might have raised in the original proceedings had he been a party thereto but no other defence and the certificate from the Court which made the provisional order stating the grounds on which the making of the order might have been opposed if the person against the order was made had been a party to the proceedings shall be conclusive evidence that those grounds are grounds on which objection may be taken

(4) If at the bearing the person served with the summons does not appear or, on appearing, fails to satisfy the Court that the order ought not to be confirmed, the Court may, notwithstanding any pecuniary limit imposed on its power by any law for the time being in force in British India, confirm the order either without modification or with such modifications as to the Court after hearing the evidence may seem just

Provided that no sum shall be awarded as maintenance under this section, or shall be recoverable as such, at a rate exceeding that proposed in the provisional order

(5) If the person to whom the summons was issued appears at the hearing and satisfies the Court that for the purpose of any defence it is necessary to remit the case to the Court which made the provisional order for the taking of any further evidence, the Court may for that purpose send a certified copy of the record to the Central Government for transmission to that Court through the proper authority of the reciprocating territory, and may adjourn the proceedings

(6) Where a provisional order has been confirmed under this section, it may be varied or rescinded in like manner as if it had originally been made by the confirming Court, and where on an application for rescission or variation the Court is satisfied that it is necessary to remit the case to the Court which made the provisional order for the purpose of taking any further evidence, the Court may for that purpose send a certified copy of the record to the Central Government for transmission to that Court through the proper authority of the reciprocating territory, and may adjourn the proceedings

8 (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, where an order has been registered under this Act in a High Court, the order shall, from the date of such registration, be of the same force and effect, and all proceedings may be taken thereon as if it had been an order originally obtained in the High Court in the exercise of its civil jurisdiction, or in such Civil Court subordinate to that High Court as may be named by the High Court in this behalf, and that Court shall have power to enforce the order accordingly

(2) A Court of summary jurisdiction in which an order has been registered under this Act or by which an order has been confirmed under this Act, and the officers of such Court, shall have such powers and perform such duties, for the purpose of enforcing the order, as may be prescribed.

9 A Court in registering or confirming an order for maintenance in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall direct that the charges for the transmission to the Court, from which the order has been received or in which the provisional order has been made, as the case may be, of the sum awarded as maintenance shall be borne by the person against whom the order has been so made or confirmed, and shall be recovered from him in addition to the sum awarded as maintenance and in addition to, and in the same manner as, such other costs and charges as may be awarded or levied by the Court

10 For the purposes of this Act, any document purporting to be signed by a judge or officer of a Court outside British India shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have been so signed without proof of the signature of judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed it, and the officer of a Court by whom a document is signed shall, until the con-

1892	II	The Marriage Validation Act	Repealed in part Act X of 1914

PREFATORY NOTE—This Act was passed in order to validate certain marriages solemnized under Part VI of the Christian Marriage Act, 1872. That Act provided for the solemnization of marriage between persons of whom both were Native Christians but not of marriages between persons of whom one only was a Native Christian but through ignorance of such provision of law marriages were permitted to be solemnized under Part VI of that Act between persons of whom one only was a Native Christian and it was deemed expedient that such marriages having been solemnized in good faith should be validated. It is to validate such marriages that this Act was passed. (See Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

[29th January, 1892]

An Act to validate certain marriages solemnized under Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872

WHEREAS provision is made in Part VI of the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, for the solemnization of marriages between persons of whom both are Native Christians, but not of marriages between persons of whom one only is a Native Christian,

AND WHEREAS persons licensed under section 9 of the said Act have in divers parts of British India, through ignorance of the law, permitted marriages to be solemnized in their presence under the said part between persons of whom one is a Native Christian and the other is not a Native Christian,

Validation of irregular marriages
Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to any marriage which had been judicially declared to be null and void or to any case where either of the parties has since the solemnization of such marriage and prior to the commencement of this Act, contracted a valid marriage

5 References in this Act to the Indian Christian Marriage Act, 1872, shall, so far as may be requisite, be construed as applying also to the corresponding portions of the Indian Marriage Act, 1865¹

6 If any person licensed under section 9 of the said Act to grant certificates of marriage between Native Christians shall at any time after the commencement of this Act solemnize or affect to solemnize any marriage under Part VI of the said Act or grant any such certificate as therein mentioned knowing that one of the parties to such marriage or affected marriage was at the date of such solemnization not a Christian, he shall be liable to have his licence cancelled, and in addition thereto he shall be deemed to have been guilty of an offence prohibited by section 73 of the said Act, and shall be punishable accordingly

NOTES.

Sec. 6 —[See also cases cited under Ss. 1 and 2, supra] S. 2 of Act XIII of 1923 declares that the provisions of S. 6 of the Married Women's Property Act of 1874 shall apply in the case of any policy effected by any Hindu in Madras after 31st December, 1913. It does not further enact that they shall not apply to policies effected before that date. Those policies are governed by the old Act. 52 M. 936=1929 M. 825=57 M. L. J. 793. The Act does not apply to Hindus. A Hindu wife cannot claim the benefit of its provision. 37 B. 471=19 I. C. 736=15 Bom. L. R. 320. (See also cases cited under S. 1, supra) S. 6 does not apply to a policy of assurance effected by a Hindu on his own life for the benefit of his wife and children, and the money due on it forms part of the estate of the deceased available for payment of his debts. 18 C. W. N. 1335=25 I. C. 220. But see also 35 M. 162, 37 B. 471, 25 M. L. J. 65=37 M. 483 (F. B.). Life insurance policy—Wife's claim as nominee of deceased husband. See 114 I. C. 658. The Act does not apply to Hindus. The Governor-General in Council has no power to exempt the Hindu, Mahomedan and Buddhist communities from the operation of the Act. 18 C. W. N. 1335=20 C. L. J. 44. Act does not apply where a wife claims to recover the money due to her under a policy of life insurance as the nominee of her deceased husband. 32 C. W. N. 34=47 C. L. J. 387. Where a Hindu male insured his life "for the benefit of his wife and children" and died leaving a daughter, held, that S. 6 creates a trust in favour of the daughter and the amount of the policy is not available to the creditors, but in cases contemplated by S. 6

the beneficiaries have no cause of action apart from the Act. 25 M. L. J. 65=37 M. 483 (F. B.). But see 20 C. L. J. 44, supra. In order to constitute a trust "for the benefit of the wife" within the meaning of S. 6 of the Married Women's Property Act, it is not necessary that the words "for the benefit of the wife" or other words equivalent thereto should appear in the policy of insurance. If on a reading of the words used in the policy, it appears that the assured has intended, in the event of his death, that the policy should enure for the benefit of his wife then the policy may be deemed to be for her benefit. 55 M. 171=1932 M. 220=62 M. L. J. 111. The word "policy" in S. 6 means a document or documents evidencing the contract between the parties and constituting the policy. If the document known as the "policy" stands alone, and does not incorporate in it any other document, only the "policy" can be looked at but if it expressly incorporates another document, e.g., where the policy contains a provision making the proposal and declaration of the assured part of the policy, then such proposal or other document must be deemed and treated as part of the policy of insurance. The Court must therefore in such a case look to the proposal or declaration also to discover to whom the insurance money is payable in a case when the "policy" proper does not itself contain any words indicating to whom the money shall be paid. 1 I. LIFE INSURANCE POLICY—BENEFIT RESERVED FOR WIFE—SUIT TO ENFORCE—FORM.—The plaintiff's husband had insured his life for her benefit with a certain company at Calcutta. The business of the said company was subsequently taken over by the defendant company. The insured subsequently obtained a loan from the defendants and he later on surrendered his policy on receipt of a certain amount. After her husband's death the plaintiff sued to recover the insurance amount on the ground that a trust had been created in her favour. She sta

INSURANCE POLICY PAYABLE TO ASSURED—TRUST—ATTACHABILITY IN EXECUTION—S 6 applies to Mahomedans and would govern a policy effected by a Mahomedan male on his own life for the benefit of his children. A trust is therefore created in favour of the person or persons for whose benefit the policy is effected though the interest taken by them is contingent. Such interest may be transferred and may also be released by the beneficiaries as it is not in the nature of a mere right to sue. The effect of such release is to revoke the trust. 54 L W 544=1942 Mad 136=(1941) 2 M L J 740. Where a policy of life assurance is expressed to be for the benefit of and to be payable to the assured or his wife if the assured predeceases his wife no trust is created in favour of the wife at once. There is no vested interest in the wife until the happening of the event contemplated by the policy namely the death of the husband. The latter during his lifetime is not lettered by any trust in favour of his wife as the trust would arise only on his death and an assignment of the policy by him to a stranger during his lifetime is valid and enforceable against the wife on the death of the assured. 45 L W 480=(1937) 1 M L J 735=1937 Mad 645. The circumstance that the benefit to the wife under a policy of insurance effected by the husband is of a contingent character, i.e. depending on her surviving her husband if he died before the named date mentioned in the policy does not prevent it from being a benefit under S 6 of this Act. There will therefore arise a trust in favour of the wife under S 6 1937 M W N 303=1937 Mad 571=45 L W 616. An endowment policy on the life of the husband which nominates the wife to receive the amount payable in the event of the husband's death falls within S 6 of the Act and creates a trust in favour of the wife. The fact that the wife's interest is rendered contingent by special provision in the nomination does not prevent or affect the creation of a valid trust. I L R

Where the money under a policy of insurance is made payable to self or wife' the words self or wife can be construed to mean that the policy is to be for the benefit of the assured or in the event of his death before the policy matures it is to be for the benefit of his wife. That is the only reasonable interpretation to be placed upon the words self or wife. There is therefore a trust created in favour of the wife of the assured in the event of the assured dying before the policy matures. And there can be a contingent trust under S 6 of the Act. A trust in favour of the wife attaches itself to the policy under S 6 from the very moment of its birth although the wife is not entitled to claim anything under the policy unless and until the event referred to in the policy happens. It is not open to a creditor of the assured to treat it as the property of the assured. I L R (1938) Mad 867=1938 Mad 413=(1938) 1 M L J 281. Where there is no mention in the policy itself that it was for the benefit of the wife and children but there is a statement in the proposal form that the object of the policy was for family provision such statement is not sufficient to bring the policy within the ambit of S 6. Most married men taking out insurance policies on their lives payable only at death do so with the intention of making provision for their family but it does not follow that they intend to divest themselves of all interest in the policy and to create an irrevocable trust in favour of the wife or children. THE MEASURES OF LENGTH ACT (II OF 1889)

PREFATORY NOTE.—The Honble Mr Scoble in moving for leave to introduce a Bill to declare the Imperial yard for the United Kingdom to be the legal standard measure of length in British India said —

"The Bill has its origin in five communications from Bengal Madras Bombay, Rangoon and Karachi Chambers of Commerce asking that the English standard yard may be declared by law to be the standard measure of length for British India

"The Bengal and Rangoon Chambers have their request on the general ground that it is anomalous that there should be no legal standard of length in this country while there is one in the United Kingdom and that the absence of such a standard causes, in their opinion 'difficulties in the working of the piecegoods trade of the country'. The Karachi Chamber's representation is in similar general terms the main ground being that in the working of the piecegoods trade of this country a standard of length is essentially necessary for the protection and convenience of the same. But the Bombay and Madras Chambers go more into particulars and urge the fixing of a legal standard of length on the ground that under the existing law the marking of false lengths on cloth goods is not punishable and ought to be made so

"Without entering upon the question whether the existing law is sufficient to deal with cases of cheating by false measurements I think it must be admitted to be desirable that some standard measure of length should be adopted and that by the adoption of such a standard fraud will be at all events rendered more difficult than it is at present. This is not the first time that the question has been considered by your Lordship's council. In 1870 Colonel Strachy introduced a Bill to regulate the weights and measures of British India and described its object to be to adopt once for all on a definite basis the multitude of transactions of trade and commerce which till now had been left to be settled too often in a manner that placed the buyer at the complete mercy of the seller and gave the most objectionable openings to fraudulent dealings. Unfortunately as I think the French metre was adopted in Act XI of 1870 as the unit for measures of length but this Act was disallowed by the Secretary of State and Act XXXI of 1871 which took its place relates only to measures of weight and capacity

On looking through the report of the committee which was appointed in 1868 to revise the system of weights and measure for British India and which report was the basis of the legislation of 1870 I find it stated with reference to measures of length the English yard foot and inch appear to be now used generally throughout British India and again in linear measure the Department of Public Works has done much to introduce our scale. The English yard has practically superseded the ever varying measures of the Native dynasties throughout India. In all parts of the country people now use the English foot and inch and hawkers sell their cloth by the English yard. It is probable that in the 20 years which have elapsed since these observations were written English measures of length have become even more widely used and the statement of the Bombay Chamber of Commerce may be accepted that the English yard with its sub division of feet and inches is now so generally known and used throughout the country that it forms by far the most convenient length for adoption

The object of the Bill which I ask leave to introduce is to give a settled legal meaning to the words which denote these measures and thus pave the way for future legislation on the line of the Merchandise Marks Act which came into force in England last year and the main provisions of which appear to be quite as much needed in this country as at home". THE METAL TOKENS ACT (I OF 1889).

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following extracts from the Statement of Objects and Reasons would explain the circumstances that led to the passing of the Act—

"The main object of this Bill is to prohibit the manufacture and issue, and restrict the circulation, of stamped or unstamped pieces of copper such as during the recent depression in value of that metal, private traders at Jugadari, Gaya, Ludhiana, Meerwar and other places have been making and issuing in large quantities for use as money. The pieces circulate at much above their intrinsic value, and their circulation both deprive the tax-payers of this country of that profit on coinage of copper which belongs to every Government, and perpetuates the currency of an inconvenient form of coin.

The other object of the Bill is to suppress the manufacture in British India of coins resembling or apparently intended to resemble or pass for coins which are legal tender or in actual use and circulation in any foreign country. (See Statement of Objects and Reasons, Fort St. George Gazette, 28th February, 1888, Supp. p. 2.)

The Hon'ble Mr. Steel, Member in charge, said—

The Bill proposes to prohibit the manufacture and importation of unauthorised coin and to forbid the receipt of such coin by any local authority or Railway Administration, but it does not prohibit the ordinary circulation of the coin now in existence. It would thus appear that the Bill strikes at only one of the evils that have been described. It does not propose to redress the existing inconvenience to the public, and may even increase this inconvenience by depriving the holders of those coins of some of the outlets by which they could have got rid of them.

The Bill will certainly secure for the revenue, the profit accruing from the issue of token coinage, but it will only partially achieve this object. While the circulation of unauthorised coin, is permitted, there will be temptation to import it, and the importation can only be effectively prevented by stringent inquisitorial and punitive measures which the Government will be unwilling to put into practice. It would be observed that the Government, for good and sufficient reasons recommended that offences under this Act shall not be cognizable, that is to say the law shall only be put in force under the order of a superior Magistrate and the Police shall not be allowed to interfere with the public of their own motion. Under these conditions preventive measures cannot be completely successful. We could have effectively accomplished all our objects by preventing the circulation of unauthorized coin altogether. In this case it would have been necessary in the interest of the poor that Government should undertake the buying up of all the process of metal in circulation by giving in exchange for them our own current copper coins. It would have been necessary to give long notice—possibly two years' notice—of the intended conversion. With these safeguards the interests of both the public and the Government would have been completely served but it remains only to be considered whether the cost of conversion could have been productive. Now it is understood that at the ruling exchange these pieces of metal are worth intrinsically more than our own copper coins and the operation might presumably be carried out at some cost. The production of the large quantity of coins required might cause a strain upon our mints but these are not fully employed and if necessary we might import coin from Birmingham and probably do this as economically as we can make it for ourselves.

If such a plan were adopted it might possibly be found that the interval of two years might be employed to pour unauthorized coin across our frontier but if this apprehension were justified there would be much less objection to stringent preventive measures to be adopted for a limited period than to the same measures which under the present Bill may possibly become a permanent administrative necessity.

I think the bill can do some good in itself. I believe it proceeds in the right direction and I hope it will lead the way to a bolder and larger measure which in my opinion will alone be completely successful. I look upon the measure as palliative in preparation for a radical cure.

THE MULTI-UNIT CO OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (VI OF 1942)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

PREFATORY NOTE.—“Multi unit co-operative societies that is to say co operative societies operating over more than one province are ‘corporations within the meaning of entry 33 in List I of the Seventh Schedule of the Government of India Act 1935’ and the legislative and executive jurisdiction in respect of their incorporation regulation and winding up is exclusively Central. Any provisions of the Co-operative Societies Act 1912, or of the Provincial Co-operative Acts which might purport to vest executive jurisdiction in respect of such multi unit societies in provinces can have no valid basis. It is therefore, necessary to legislate for the incorporation regulation and winding up of co operative societies operating over more than one province

2 The Bill applies to the multi unit societies the existing legislation applicable to societies operating within a single province. It will apply to all multi unit societies irrespective of the nature of their work. Provision has been made to enable the Government to appoint a Central Registrar but as the number of multi unit societies in existence at present is small it is proposed to entrust the functions of the Central Registrar to the Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendment.

1913	VI	The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act.	See XXXII of 1930

PREFATORY NOTE.—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons annexed to the Bill:—

The object of this Bill is to remove disabilities and great hardship that has been created by the recent decisions of the Privy Council in Abdul Fata Mohamed Ishak and others v. Russoway Dhar Chowdhury and others (L.R. 22 Ind. App. 76) and other cases. The power of a Mussalman to make a settlement for or in favour of his family, children and descendants or what is known as wakf-alat-aulad in the Mussalman Law, is paralysed.

In the case above cited it was held that under Mussalman Law, a perpetual family settlement expressly made as wakf is not legal and valid merely because there is an ultimate gift to the poor and it confirmed the decision in Ashumulla Chowdhury v. Amarchand Khundu, reported in L.R. 17 Ind. App. 37, the principle of which was approved in a subsequent case of Abdul Gafur v. Nazamudin (L.R. 19 Ind. App. 170) where it was laid down that a gift is not good as wakf unless there is a substantial dedication of the property to charitable uses at some period of time or other.

The decision does not fix any limit of time, it simply says "some period of time or other". It does not define what is "substantial dedication". Thus it introduces the greatest uncertainty in the law, and is generally opposed to the true principles and correct exposition of the Mussalman jurisprudence. The Bill is intended only to reproduce the Mussalman Law of Wakf-alat-aulad in a codified form with certain safeguards for the authenticity of the wakf-nama and for prevention of fraud upon creditors or otherwise.

It is not intended to codify or define the general law of Wakf which must be governed by the Mussalman Law. The Bill is a simple one and the important provisions are as follows:—

Clause 3.—Defines the power of a person professing Mussalman faith to create wakf.

Clauses 4 and 5.—Are intended to secure authenticity of Wakf-nama and prevent fraud upon creditors or otherwise.

Clause 10.—Deals with testamentary wakf.

Clause 11.—Deals with registration of wills and empowers the persons mentioned therein to have the will registered.

[7th March, 1913]

An Act to declare the rights of Mussalmans to make settlements of property by way of "wakf" in favour of their families, children and descendants.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen regarding the validity of wakfs created by persons professing the Mussalman faith in favour of themselves, their families, children and descendants and ultimately for the benefit of the poor or for other religious, pious or charitable purposes; and whereas it is expedient to remove such doubts, It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT, 1913.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

2 In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "Wakf" means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognized by the Mussalman law as religious pious or charitable

(2) "Hanafi Mussalman" means a follower of the Mussalman faith who conforms to the tenets and doctrines of the Hanafi School of Mussalman law

The ultimate object of the wakf has to be implied by use of other words 1930 A 837 The object of the proviso to S 3 is that it should appear on the construction of the instrument of wakf that the ultimate benefit is either expressly or impliedly reserved for the poor or for any other purpose recognised by the Mahomedan Law as a religious or charitable purpose of a permanent character The word 'wakf' therefore used in S 3 should not only satisfy the definition of that word given in S 2 but should also satisfy the limitations of the proviso before a wakf can be adjudged to be lawful within the meaning of the Act 8 O W N 1302 When a definite rule of Mahomedan Law is laid down by the legislature it must follow that it overruled certain interpretations which did not find favour with the legislature 1930 A 837 Where a person executed a wakfnama and placed the mutawalli in possession of certain properties but the deed did not contain any direction for an ultimate benefit to religious or charitable purposes held that a valid wakf was not constituted 129 I C 163=1931 O 133 Where the annual profits of the wakf properties were Rs 700 a year and after deducting the expenses which were specified in the wakfnama the aggregate of which came to Rs 225 the balance of Rs 475 was to be spent by the mutawallis in equal proportions for the maintenance of themselves and their children held that that wakf was valid by virtue of (a) and (b) of S 3 of the Act provided the requirements of the proviso attached to the section were fulfilled 8 O W N 1302 Under the Act it is open to a Mussalman to create a wakf of property which would be perfectly valid even although the income during his own lifetime was devoted entirely to his own support and so long as he remained alive such a wakf would be perfectly valid even if he did not spend anything upon religious and charitable purposes in his lifetime 1927 O 162 Where a man has set aside property with the directions that his expenditure upon religious and charitable objects shall be made from a portion of the income of the property and where it is admitted that he has expended sums upon religious and charitable objects the only possible conclusion would be that he utilised a portion of the income at any rate for such objects Under the Hanafi law this is sufficient 4 O W N 360=102 I C 77=1927 O 162 The Act is not purely a declaratory statute and is not retrospective in its operation A wakf invalid in its inception is not validated by the subsequent passing of the Act 53 I C 764=24 C W N 18 A wakfnama though not governed by the Act will be valid if the donor was a pose and intention of the grantor was a religious and charitable purpose and the secondary or subsidiary object was to secure for his daughters and surplus that his remaining

Sec 3 Proviso SCOPE—The prov so to S 3 does not effect any change in the Muslim conception but simply states what the Muslim law is The effect of that proviso must therefore be judged by the principles propounded by Muslim jurists According to them there are two distinct principles One is analogous to the cypres doctrine The other principle is that a wakf will not fail for mere vagueness or uncertainty of the object For when the object is not specified by the wakif the usufruct is to be applied to the benefit of the poor The proviso to S 3 states that the ultimate benefit in a wakf al-aulad can also be impliedly reserved for the poor or for any purpose recognised by the Mussalman Law as religious pious or charitable purpose of a permanent character If the proviso imposes need not be excluded from the wakf If the wakf is for the purpose of charity these words used in the wakfnama will imply a gift to the poor, which is an effective gift and the wakf will comply with the provisions of the Act Further if the wakf deed manifests an overriding intention to give to charity in the contingency of the failure of the descendants of the wakif that would call in the application of the cypres doctrine Per Kundkar J—If the objects of the wakf are indicated with reasonable certainty it is not necessary that they should be named A gift for 'Karikhair' (works of charity) in a deed of wakf cannot be condemned as vague and indeterminate as the objects of the donor's bounty are possible of ascertainment by reference to the principles of Mahomedan Law Even if the expression Karikhair does not indicate the objects of bounty intended by the wakif with sufficient certainty the doctrine of cypres could be invoked 74 C L J 261=1942 Cal 180=46 C W N 561 See also 1940 Oudh 324 (F B) 1941 All 235=I L R (1941) All 443 The proviso to S 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act is imperative and the absence of an express or implied provision for the ultimate reversion of the property to some charity makes the wakf absolutely invalid 165 I C 515 The word impliedly in the proviso to S 3 of Act VI of 1913 has not been defined anywhere but it must mean that the reservation of the benefit for the poor, etc can be indirectly inferred from the recitals in the deed coupled with surrounding circumstances 1936 A L J 231=1936 A 404 But where a deed of wakf alal aulad contains no such indication and it is impossible to say that the wakf had any such purpose in view even as a remote possibility and indeed where the wakf does not seem to have contemplated the extinction of the line of his descendants at all it is difficult to say that any reservation of such benefit is implied (Ibid) A mere recital in the deed that the wakf alal aulad was being made in accordance with law Act VI of 1913 does not imply that the requirements of that Act were fulfilled A mere reference to the Act should not be considered sufficient as that Act refers to various purposes (Ibid) Where among other things a deed of wakf recited that if may God forbid there be extinction of my descendants at any time the amounts allotted above to my heirs shall be utilised for some charitable purposes according to the scheme to be prepared by Court and the Court shall in that case, have

THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT (XXXII OF 1930). [25th July, 1930.]

An Act to give retrospective effect to the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913.

WHEREAS the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, does not apply to wakfs created before its enactment;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to validate such wakfs without infringing any rights contrary thereto which may have already accrued or been acquired: It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called THE MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING ACT, 1930

Act VI of 1913 to apply retrospectively.

2. The Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, shall be deemed to apply to wakfs created before its commencement:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed in any way to affect any right, title, obligation or liability already acquired, accrued or incurred before the commencement of this Act.

power to utilise the money only for such kare-i-khair as would be correct and valid according to entire Mahomedan religion' It was held that the words kare-i-khair were used in a larger sense so that money may be devoted not only to objects of khairat but for objects which might or might not be charitable and that the settlor deliberately used a wider language to give a greater discretion to the Court and to the mutawalli to administer the trust. It was held further that the condition laid down in the proviso to S. 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act had not been duly complied with and the wakf failed for uncertainty. I L. R. IMPLIED RESERVATION OF ULTIMATE BENEFIT—"WAKF-FI-SABI-LILLAH" IN TRUSTEESHIP.—The reservation of the ultimate benefit contemplated by the proviso to S. 3 of the Wakf Validating Act can either be made expressly or impliedly. The answer to the question whether the reservation of the ultimate benefit for those purposes has been made by a deed of wakf must depend on the intention of the wakf as disclosed by the deed. In a case where the words "wakf fi-sabi-lillah" have been used and wakf has been created in perpetuity, and there is provision for the appointment of the mutawallis for all time to come, and a portion of the usufruct of the wakf property has been reserved for pious and charitable purposes and the wakf had in contemplation the possible extinction of the line of his descendants who were to be the principal recipients of the profits of the wakf property, the irresistible conclusion is that the wakf intended by implication to reserve the ultimate benefit for the purposes enumerated in the proviso. 1935 A. PREFATORY NOTE—The following is the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to the Bill—

For several years past, there has been a growing feeling amongst the Muhammadan community throughout the country, that the numerous endowments which have been made or are being made daily by pious and public spirited Muhammadans are being wasted or systematically misappropriated by those into whose hands the trust may have come in course of time. Instances of such misuse of trust property are unfortunately so very common that wakf endowment has now come to be regarded by the public as only a clever device to tie up property in order to defeat creditors and generally to evade the law under the cloak of a plausible dedication to the Almighty. In some cases the mutwallis are persons who are utterly unfit to carry on the administration of the Wakf and who by their moral delinquencies bring discredit not merely on the endowment but on the community itself. It is believed that the feeling is unanimous that some steps should be taken in order that incompetent and unscrupulous mutwallis may be checked in their career of waste and mismanagement and that the endowments themselves may be appropriated to the purposes for which they had been originally dedicated.

In some cases difficulties have arisen in finding out whether any particular properties are really subject to wakf or not. There are numerous wakf properties all over the country unknown to the public which the mutwallis are treating as their own private property and are dealing with them in any way they think fit or necessary. It therefore seems that there should be a system of compulsory registration requiring a mutwalli to notify to some responsible officer not merely about the fact of the wakf of which he is the mutwalli but also the nature and extent and other incidents of the endowment. Further even where a wakf is well known and mutwalli is obviously thoroughly incompetent to carry on his duties the public find a difficulty in instituting suits to remove him from his post by reason of the cumbrous procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure. It is with a view to facilitate the institution of such suits that a provision has been made in this Bill. Lastly, there appears to be a general consensus of opinion amongst the Muhammadans throughout the country that there should be some responsible officers who may go about and find for themselves whether the various wakf properties scattered throughout the country are being properly managed or not. It is not intended that Government should be called upon to bear the burden of appointing such an officer or his staff and a provision has therefore been made in the Bill authorising the Central Committee (to be appointed in pursuance of the provisions of the Bill) to levy a rateable contribution from the mutwallis for the purpose of meeting the cost of entertaining such an officer and his staff.

The sub joined notes on the more important clauses of the Bill amplify the objects and reasons of the Bill—

NOTES ON CLAUSES

1 Clause 3—This provision is similar to the provision for the maintenance of Registers under the Land Registration Act 1876 (Bengal Act VII of 1876) and other Acts.

2 Clause 4—This provision is similar to the one for the compulsory registration and mutation of names of proprietors under the Land Registration Act 1876.

3 Clause 11—This provision is intended to compel mutwallis to keep regular accounts and to ensure compulsory publication of such accounts as there is reason to believe that in numerous cases mutwallis do not keep any proper accounts at all. It is hoped that this system of compelling mutwallis to keep and publish accounts will be a wholesome check on waste and mismanagement.

4 Clause 13—The provision is meant to give the accounts full publicity so that any member of the public may know how things are going on with regard to the various endowments.

5 Clause 16—The idea as to the appointment of District Committees is taken from the provisions in this respect in the Bengal Charitable Endowments Public Buildings and Festivals Regulation 1810 (Bengal Regulation XIX of 1810) and it is expected that a system of having District Committees will afford a wholesome check on the proper management of wakfs in each district.

Clauses 20 to 23 are meant to simplify the procedure regarding the institution of the removal of undesirable mutwallis and for the appointment of mutual rever necessary.

Clause 27—It is expected that in the case of every wakf after all the the wakf have been carried out, there will always be a net balance in the the mutwalli which may be utilized for various public purposes. The Bill therefore gives power to the Collector to realize such amounts from the mutwallis and place them at the disposal of the General Committee.

8 Clause 28—The duties imposed on the Collector by the Bill are extremely heavy and onerous and it is not expected that the Collector will be able to attend to such duties conveniently or without detriment to his other legitimate duties. The Bill therefore gives power to the Collector to delegate his powers so far as he may think necessary to any person whom he thinks fit and proper to exercise such powers. At every district headquarters there always happen to be responsible Muhammadan officers who may very properly be called upon to devote a portion of their time to duties which are obviously of such great importance to the best interests of the Muhammadan community.

9 Clause 31—Gives power to the Collector realize the duties due from mutwallis by the simple procedure laid down in the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913 (Bengal Act III of 1913). Definitions

2 In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context —

(a) "benefit" does not include any benefit which a mutwalli is entitled to claim solely by reason of his being such mutwalli,

(b) "Court" means the Court of the District Judge or, within the limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court, such Court subordinate to the High Court as the [Provincial Government] may, by notification in the [Official Gazette], designate in this behalf,

(c) "mutwalli" means any person appointed either verbally or under any deed or instrument by which a wakf has been created or by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be mutwalli of a wakf, and includes a naib-mutwalli or other person appointed by a mutwalli to perform the duties of the mutwalli, and, save as otherwise provided in this Act, any person who is for the time being administering any wakf property,

(d) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act, and

(e) "wakf" means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognized by the Mussalman law as religious pious or charitable, but does not include any wakf, such as is described in section 3 of the Mussalman Wakf Validating Act, 1913, under which any benefit is for the time being claimable for himself by the person by whom the wakf was created or by any of his family or descendants.

NOTES

1920 could be applicable, it does not deprive the District Judge of his jurisdiction to proceed under Act XLII of 1923.

Sec 2 (b) —An application under S 2 for registration of a wakf estate has to be presented in the Court of the District Judge which is the Court competent to entertain the application. The Court of an Addl District Judge is a Court different from that of the District Judge, but under S 8 (2) of the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act it is competent to the District Judge to transfer the application for registration of a wakf estate to the Additional District Judge and on such transfer the Additional District Judge has jurisdiction to deal with the matter. 1942 P W N 94.

Sec 2 (e) —A District Judge has no jurisdiction to pass an order appointing a mutwalli under S 2(c) of the Act. 34 P L R 81=1933 L 27.

Sec 2 (e) —"Wakf" as defined by S 2 (e) means the permanent dedication by a person professing the Mussalman faith of any property for any purpose recognized by the Mahomedan Law as religious pious or charitable. The purpose of benefiting Madressas is a purpose recognized as charitable by the Mahomedan Law. It is not however necessary that the dedication should be by a beneficial owner. There may be a dedication by a trustee as well, though of course he must keep within the terms of the trust. Where certain persons collect money for the purpose of building a Madressa and then build the same, and the trustees purchase immovable property out of the funds of the Madressa and execute a declaration of trust admitting the purchase for the support of the Madressa and declaring that they hold the property upon trust, in substance for the Madressa there is a good dedication for the purpose of a wakf. 1 L R (1941) Bom 328=43 Bom L R 152=1941 Bom 152. Where a testator by his will bequeathed the whole of his property owned and possessed by him on the date of the will and also property which he may acquire thereafter in favour of his two sons in equal shares, but no list of the property on which the bequest was to operate was attached to the will, and the testator further stated that there was some wakf property attached to the maubara of which he was a mutwalli and prescribed a scheme of succession to the office of mutwalli but the recitals in the will neither fixed with any definiteness the property which was the subject matter of the wakf nor did they in any way state the terms of the nature of the wakf, and there was no evidence of any dedication of property or of any purpose for which the wakf was found. Held, that there was no evidence to justify the treatment of any property as wakf property within the meaning of that term as defined in the Mussalman Wakf Act, 1923. 7 O W N 926=1930 O 509. (1) Within six months from the commencement of this Act every mutwalli shall furnish to the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property of the wakf of which he is the mutwalli is situated, or to any one of two or more such Courts, a statement containing the following particulars, namely:—

(a) a description of the wakf property sufficient for the identification thereof;

(b) the gross annual income from such property;—

(c) the gross amount of such income which has been collected during the five years preceding the date on which the statement is furnished, or of the period which has elapsed since the creation of the wakf, whichever period is shorter;

(d) the amount of the Government revenue and cesses, and of all rents, annually payable in respect of the wakf property;

(e) an estimate of the expenses annually incurred in the realisation of the income of the wakf property, based on such details as are available of any such expenses incurred within the period to which the particulars under clause (c) relate;

(f) the amount set apart under the wakf for—

(i) the salary of the mutwalli and allowances to individuals;

(ii) purely religious purposes;

(iii) charitable purposes;

(iv) any other purposes; and

(g) any other particulars which may be prescribed

(2) Every such statement shall be accompanied by a copy of the deed or instrument creating the wakf or, if no such deed or instrument has been executed or a copy thereof cannot be obtained, shall contain full particulars, as far as they are known to the mutwalli, of the origin, nature and objects of the wakf.

If the case falls under the Act then S 5 lays down a substantive law which makes it incumbent upon the mutwalli to file the statement as required by S 5. Sec 6-A—A Court has to see that the law is enforced. When there is special order made apparently under S 6-A of the Mussalman Wakf Act, as amended by Bombay Amendment Act of 1935 directing certain particulars and accounts to be delivered by a mutwalli of wakf and that order is obeyed, the mutwalli is obeying such order is on the face of it guilty of contempt of Court and that is a matter which the Court can deal with under the Contempt of Courts Act 1926. 44 Bom L R 231

Ss 6 C and 6 M—The question whether certain property is wakf property is one of the matters which the Court can inquire into under S 6-C of the Mussalman Wakf Act as amended by Bombay Amendment Act of 1935, but is not a matter which can be referred to the Wakf Committee under S 6 M. The Court has therefore no jurisdiction to refer to the Wakf Committee for investigation and report the question whether a property is wakf property and is so for what purpose. 44 Bom L R 231

S 6 D—In the case of a wakf whose property is situate beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of a District Court, the mutwallis cannot be called upon by that Court to contribute to the Wakf Administration Fund under the Mussalman Wakf (Bombay Amendment) Act of 1935. The only wakfs which can be called upon to make a contribution to that Fund are the wakfs to which under the principal Act (Mussalman Wakf Act of 1923) the Court directing a contribution to be made has jurisdiction. There is nothing in the Act which extends the jurisdiction of the Court to cases in which the mutwallis reside within the district or in which they apply the income within the district. The jurisdiction of the Court is confined entirely to cases in which the wakf property is situate within the limits of its jurisdiction. 11 L R (1939) Bom 212=41 Bom L R 931=1939 Bom 417

7 Notwithstanding anything contained in the deed or instrument creating any wakf, every mutwalli may pay from the income of the wakf property any expenses properly incurred by him for the purpose of enabling him to furnish any particulars, documents or copies under S 3 or S 4 or in respect of the preparation or audit of the annual accounts for the purposes of this Act

Evidence given before the committee is not made evidence in proceedings before the Court and the Judge should therefore hear the accused and take evidence himself. 44 Bom L R 231

See 10 — See also 52 A 167 cited under S 5, supra. There is nothing in the Mussalman Wakf Act either in its preamble or in its provisions to indicate that it was the intention of the legislature that the Court designated to receive the particulars referred to in the Act is to enter into an elaborate inquiry as to the existence of the wakf or to determine the right to mutwalli ship between rival claimants. By leaving the right to mutwalli ship undecided the object of the Act is not frustrated because Ss 5 and 10 act as preventive against applications under

S 3 being made by persons who are not actually mutwallis. 19 Pat L T 617=1933 Pat 137. See also 1940 Nag 161 Interpretation of the Statute 9 O W N 538=1932 O 210=7 Luck 601 (T B). It is necessary for a Court to decide whether the person who is alleged to be in default is or is not the mutwalli of a 'wakf' within the meaning of the Act. The mere fact that the party denies that he is mutwalli is immaterial if there is other evidence to show that he occupies that position. 1932 A I J 266. An offence under the section is an offence within the meaning of S 4 (o) of the Cr P Code, and consequently triable by a Magistrate and not by the District Judge. 22 S L R 141=1928 S 43. All that is needed to bring home an offence under S 10 read with S 3 to a defaulting mutwalli is to establish by evidence that he is a mutwalli in respect of property which is wakf within the meaning of the Act. Whether the character of the property as wakf and his own position as mutwalli are admitted or are established by evidence if denied S 10 is equally applicable. 1932 A L J 262=1932 A 362. Under S 10 the District Judge has the power to punish a mutwalli if, without any reasonable cause, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, he fails to furnish statement of particulars of documents or statement of accounts. That is purely a penal proceeding in the course of which the judge may enquire as to whether a wakf is one to which the Act is applicable. But, till that stage arises, the judge cannot hold any such enquiry and compel a mutwalli who is not admitting the applicability of the Act to file accounts. 52 A 167=1930 A 81. In case of prosecution under S 10, the Magistrate has jurisdiction to proceed with the inquiry as to whether the property is wakf or not. On a prosecution under S 10 it is clearly necessary in the first place for the prosecution to show that the person charged is a mutwalli of the wakf. If that fact is denied, the Magistrate may hear evidence on the point and determine it in the usual way. If he finds that the person charged is a mutwalli, then the next question is whether there has been default under the Act. If the default is proved or admitted and the person charged says that he had reasonable cause for making default, then the burden of proof of that is upon him. (52 All 167 Foll.) 58 B 302=36 Bom L R 311=1934 Bom 169. Where the existence of the wakf is denied by the defendants, the District Judge has no jurisdiction to proceed with an application asking that action under S 10 of the Act be taken against the defendants. There is nothing in the Act to show that any power has been conferred on the District Court to go into the question as to whether the properties about which applications are made, are wakf properties. If a party denies the existence of wakf the only order that can be passed is that the applicant should get the matter settled by instituting a regular suit. 1935 A L J 307=1935 A 254. Under S 10 the District Judge can impose the penalty of fine but there is no provision in the section for imposing a sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. 1932 A L J 266. The District Judge and not the Criminal Court is the proper authority to enforce the provision contained in S 10. 54 A 475=1932 A L J 262. The District Judge is the proper Court to decide whether fine should be imposed under S 10 of the Act. He has to decide whether statements of accounts furnished are true or not and whether they had been furnished within due time. It cannot have been intended that after he has decided that statements are untrue or are not furnished within due time and that a fine ought to be imposed, he must send the case to a Magistrate to try what was intended to be decided in Civil Courts. I L R (1937) Nag 132=1937 Nag 133. It is not correct to hold that the District Court is the Court which can impose the fine provided in S 10. S 10 of the Act creates an offence and says in so many words that the omission described in the section is an offence. Since there is no Court mentioned in the Act as the Court which shall try offences under S 10, it follows that the Court which can try those offences is the ordinary Criminal Court, i.e. the Court indicated in the Cr P Code which can try such offences in view of S 29 (2), Cr P Code. It would be contrary to all principle that the Court of the District Judge should have power to punish offences under S 10, for in such case the Court of the District Judge would be virtually in the position of prosecutor and Judge at the same time. Quere whether in proceedings under S 10 the District Judge has jurisdiction to hold an enquiry into the nature of the property where the alleged mutwalli denies the existence of the wakf. 54 L W 377=1941 Mad 897=(1941) 2 M L J 541. The District Judge has no jurisdiction in proceedings under S 10 to hold an enquiry into the nature of the property where the alleged Mutwalli denies the existence of the wakf. I L R (1941) Lah 395=1941 Lah 145 (F B). The District Judge is not empowered himself to impose a fine on a Mutwalli under S 10 when he has not complied with the provisions of the Act. Act as amended by Bombay Act XVIII of 1935) Ss 10 and 10-B.—Jurisdiction as to try offences under—If confined to District Court.

After the Bombay Amending Act of 1935 so far as Bombay Presidency and presumably Sind is concerned it is not now the scheme of the Act that offences under the Act should be punished only by the District Court as the only Court contemplated by the Act. If the Amending Act has now created other offences besides the offence under S 10 and S 10-B which accrues generally to offences committed under the Act as a whole. The scheme of the Act is that offences under the Act are ordinary criminal offences to be tried by the ordinary Criminal Courts with the proviso that sanction for prosecution must be given by a Court of the same or higher class and that no Criminal Court of a lower class than the District Court shall have jurisdiction to try such offences.

the power to punish a mutwalli if, without any reasonable cause, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, he fails to furnish statement of particulars of documents or statement of accounts. That is purely a penal proceeding in the course of which the judge may enquire as to whether a wakf is one to which the Act is applicable. But, till that stage arises, the judge cannot hold any such enquiry and compel a mutwalli who is not admitting the applicability of the Act to file accounts. 52 A 167=1930 A 81. In case of prosecution under S 10, the Magistrate has jurisdiction to proceed with the inquiry as to whether the property is wakf or not. On a prosecution under S 10 it is clearly necessary in the first place for the prosecution to show that the person charged is a mutwalli of the wakf. If that fact is denied, the Magistrate may hear evidence on the point and determine it in the usual way. If he finds that the person charged is a mutwalli, then the next question is whether there has been default under the Act. If the default is proved or admitted and the person charged says that he had reasonable cause for making default, then the burden of proof of that is upon him. (52 All 167, Foll.) 58 B 302=36 Bom L R 311=1934 Bom 169. Where the existence of the wakf is denied by the defendants, the District Judge has no jurisdiction to proceed with an application asking that action under S 10 of the Act be taken against the defendants. There is nothing in the Act to show that any power has been conferred on the District Court to go into the question as to whether the properties, about which applications are made, are wakf properties. If a party denies the existence of wakf, the only order that can be passed is that the applicant should get the matter settled by instituting a regular suit. 1935 A L J 307=1935 A 24. Under S 10 the District Judge can impose the penalty of fine but there is no provision in the section for imposing a sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of the fine. 1932 A L J 266. The District Judge and not the Criminal Court is the proper authority to enforce the provision contained in S 10. 54 A 47=1932 A L J 262. The District Judge is the proper Court to decide whether fine should be imposed under S 10 of the Act. He has to decide whether statements of accounts furnished are true or not and whether they had been furnished within due time. It cannot have been intended that after he has decided that statements are untrue or are not furnished within due time and that a fine ought to be imposed, he must send the case to a Magistrate to try what was intended to be decided in Civil Courts. 1 L R (1937) Nag 332=1937 Nag 135. It is not correct to hold that the District Court is the Court which can impose the fine provided in S 10. S 10 of the Act creates an offence and says in so many words that the omission described in the section is an offence. Since there is no Court mentioned in the Act as the Court which shall try offences under S 10, it follows that the Court which can try those offences is the ordinary Criminal Court, i.e., the Court indicated in the Cr. P. Code, which can try such offences, in view of S 29 (2), Cr. P. Code. It would be contrary to all principle that the Court of the District Judge should have power to punish offences under S 10, for in such case the Court of the District Judge would be virtually in the position of prosecutor and Judge at the same time. Quære whether in proceedings under S 10 the District Judge has jurisdiction to hold an enquiry into the nature of the property where the alleged mutwalli denies the existence of the wakf. 54 L W 377=1941 Mad 897=(1941) 2 M L J 541. Act as amended by Bombay Act XVII of 1935), Ss 10 and 10-B.—Sanction to try offences under—If conferred to District Court.

After the Bombay Amendment Act of 1935, so far as Bombay Presidency and Presidency is concerned, it is not now the scheme of the Act that offences under the Act are to be punished only by the District Court as the only Court constituted by the Act. The Amendment Act has now created offences besides the offence under S 10 and S 10-B which applies generally to offences committed under the Act as a whole. The scheme of the Act is that offences under the Act are ordinary criminal offences to be tried by the ordinary Criminal Court and the provisions that sanction to prosecute must be given by a Court of the same grade as the Court which is to try the offence and that a Court of the same grade as the Court which is to try the offence.
